The Tornado Disaster.
Worse Might Come.
Japan's New Trouble.
The 31-Ounce Baby.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The dreadful tornado sweeping through five states, killing 577 and injuring several thousands, makes everything else seem trifling and unimportant.

We live at the mercy of Nature's forces, above, below and all around us. A tidal wave from the ocean could wash away the nation's biggest city. An earthquake or a tornado could level it.

Sympathizing with the unfortunate victims of the great disaster, the nation may well feel grateful for the high average of safety. The earth turns on its axis at the rate of a thousand miles an hour. If it stopped for a second the oceans would be hurled from the great valleys in which they lie and life on the earth would be washed back to the conditions of millions of years ago with no life left except the lowest forms.

Great disasters shock and overwhelm us. The recent great earthquake in Japan and the historic and even more appalling earthquake of Lisbon remind us how feeble and helpless we are living on a whirling globe traveling around the sun at a speed of nearly two million miles a day.

The amazing thing is our safety and secure existince. Assuming that they are worth having we should be deeply grateful.

While we condole with the victims of our own disaster, we feel deepest sympathy for the unfortunate inhabitants of Tokio, so recently torn by the great earthquake, and now with 10,000 made homeless by a dreadful fire.

The cable says casually that the fire swept through "the quarter of small, poor people," but that makes it all the worse. What they lost was everything they had.

In the midst of calamities, following the stock market drop, fires and a rebellious senate, the public mind is able to take deep interest in Miss Clausen, a New Jersey baby, eight weeks old, weighing yesterday only two pounds 12 ounces.

When she was born she weighed one pound 15 ounces, and doctors said she could not live.

There is a power in the brain, even in that of a new-born baby, able to defy doctors and their scientific predictions.

In that tiny head which you could span with your fingers there existed a determination to live, and the mother still has her baby alive and gaining.

The other news of the world is about as usual. In Italy Dr. Voronoff, gland grafting expert, is at work with local scientists grafting glands on sheep. The practical Italians are not interested in making an old man young, but in causing the sheep to produce more and better wool and meat. If they succeed with sheep, they'll experiment on bigger animals.

England plans a return to the gold basis which would put the pound sterling where it is was before the war. Most of the newspapers and bankers are in favor of it.

Whether Britain, suffering in business and industry, will be helped by gold standard resumption, nobody knows. The reason is that nobody knows positively anything about finance or money—except that real gold is a good thing to have. Usually it comes out on top.

The plan, suggested after the war, that Europe should abandon the gold standard, leaving Uncle Sam with a lot of worthless gold on his hands, was not sound.

Pekin expects the renewal of war in two or three weeks—Russians on one side, Japanese and British on the other, all interested in China's latent wealth, pull in different directions.

Nobody is able to manage all of the great jelly fish nation at one time. You pick up one piece of it and the rest falls from your hand.

The Russians are trying to settle their debts on some half measure basis that will be satisfactory to the French. The French would like to be friends with Russia, even with uncertain, so-called proletarian, bolshevist Russia. The French nightmare is a revival of Germany in military strength, and the French, with the great Russian nation on their side as insurance, would feel safer.

TWO MORE AUTO THEFTS REPORTED

Two more automobile thefts were reported to the police last night.

A Chevrolet touring car, belonging to Peter Wolfe, St. Clair avenue, was stolen while parked in front of the high school auditorium between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock. It carried license number 243-074.

Another Chevrolet machine, touring car model, was stolen near Stop 55, last night, while Clinton Cuesch, the owner, was attending a basketball game in the old McPherson barn. It is believed that the car was brought to East Liverpool. Its license number was 879-861.

TORNADO'S DEATH TOLL SOARS AS STORM-SWEPT ZONE IS FUNERAL LAND

JAIL LOOTERS; ONE MAN SHOT

MURPHYSBORO, Ills., March 21—Two looters, one shot through the leg, were in the county jail here today.

No special guards have been placed about the building, for, contrary to general custom, no flame of anger against them seems to have risen from the populace.

The casualty was wounded by a soldier as he was trying to strip a diamond ring off the finger of an unconscious woman.

Grim Spectre Stalks Methodically Over Paths of Wednesday's Epochal Twister as Five States Bury 838 Victims.

PLAGUE FEARED; SPEED CLEAN-UP

Despite Efforts of Doctors and Nurses, Life Passes From Mangled Bodies, While 100 Others are Expected to Die.

The path of Wednesday's tornado was a funeral land today. Everywhere in the five states which felt the death-laden breath of the storm, the victims, many as yet unidentified, were being committed back to the earth from which they came—laid to rest separately, by twos, by three and by dozens, in soldier-dug graves. And simple white crosses, conjuring up a picture of other such symbols across the sea, stood forth to mark the trail of devastation.

A total of 838 bodies, according to the latest check today, must be buried.

Health authorities have ordered this work to proceed as quickly as possible as the dread possibility of pestilence has arisen from the already prolonged delay, necessary because of inadequate facilities for the work and because there have been hopes that additional victims would be identified.

Revised Casualty List.

So today and tomorrow, the Gaunt, hollow-eyed survivors in the storm areas of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee were to stand solemnly by the jawning death pits to give their last goodbye to wives, mothers, children, sweethearts and friends, snapped into eternity in a twinkling by the awful force of the cyclone.

Today's revised casualty list showed 666 killed by the storm in Illinois, 93 in Indiana, 34 in Tennessee, 22 in Missouri and 18 in Kentucky.

These figures vary but little from

Poison is Found In Vital Organs of Ohio Plot Victim

ELYRIA, March 21—City Chemist E. G. Curtis today notified Prosecuting Attorney Joseph A. Seymour, at Medina, that arsenic poison had been found in the vital organs of Mrs. Lillian Gienke, who died January 4. Funeral Services Will be Held Here at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

George W. Meredith, retired East Liverpool business man, nearing his 75th birthday, died in his seashore home at Atlantic City, N. J., at 6:40 o'clock last night, following a three-day relapse from pneumonia.

Mrs. Meredith, his wife, suffering from heart disease, is critically ill.

Funeral services for Mr. Meredith will be held in the home of his son-in-law, John B. McDonald, Lincoln avenue, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in charge of Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathews' Episcopal church, Chester. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The body will arrive here at 9:37 a. m. Monday and will be taken to the McDonald home. Friends may view the body Monday night.

Born in New York.

Mr. Meredith, who was born in New York City on April 7, 1850, lived in Trenton, N. J., before coming to East Liverpool. He was employed for several years as a presser in the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery but left the pottery trade to enter business in which he was engaged here for 40 years.

He was located in Pittsburgh for 10 years, then moved to Atlantic City, where he had resided for seven years.

He had extensive business interests in Pittsburgh and Atlantic City as well as East Liverpool. He was the owner of the two-story business building at the Diamond and East Sixth street, and was a stockholder in the rockery City Ice and Products company.

Member of Elks' Lodge.

For many years he lived in Broadway in the brick residence now occupied as the Eagles' lodge temple.

Mr. Meredith was a member of the Buckeye Club and the East Liverpool lodge of Elks.

Besides his wife, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. John B. McDonald, of East Liverpool, and Mrs. Anna Cody, of Atlantic City, and three sons, Richard, of Pittsburgh; Thomas and Willis, of Atlantic City.

BURY PASTOR'S BODY TUESDAY

Rev. B. M. Swan's Funeral Will be Held Here.

The body of the late Rev. Benjamin M. Swan, 59, a son of the late Rev. James M. Swan, for many years pastor of the Longs Run Presbyterian church, near Calcutta, who died at Lake George, Florida, last January 19, will arrive in East Liverpool early Sunday morning.

The body will be taken to the Miller funeral home, West Sixth street, where services will be conducted at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. Donald W. MacLeod, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The Rev. Mr. Swan held his last charge at North Warren, Pa., where he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church. He went to Florida last fall, in hopes of improving his wife's health and while in the south he was stricken.

Mrs. M. B. Farrar and Mrs. Major Newman, of this city, are sisters of the late pastor.

New Traffic Rules; Ban Left Turns at St. Clair Corner

"Left turns" at the corner of Sixth street and St. Clair avenue have been banned by the police, in an effort to eliminate the traffic hazard at this point.

Automobiles, traveling south on St. Clair avenue, must turn west on Sixth street. Machines going through the Diamond may continue through to St. Clair avenue or turn east on Sixth street, but are not permitted to turn west on Sixth street. Police will enforce the regulation.

Machines parking on West Fifth street must be pulled along the curb instead of left standing at an angle. With both sides of the street lined with parked cars it is impossible for two automobiles to pass when the cars are halted at an angle, it is declared.

T. V. Milligan Plans to Erect Business Block and Warehouse

Fifth Street Section of Proposed Structure Will be Leased by Metropolitan Stores.

Plans for a three-story, fireproof business building, to occupy the Fifth street location, and a two-story brick and concrete warehouse at the northwest corner of Crook and Diamond alleys, replacing structures razed by the disastrous fire on February 22, were announced today by T. V. Milligan, secretary-treasurer of the Milligan Hardware and Supply company. Rebuilding will begin as soon as the sites are cleared.

The three-story structure, which will replace a six-story building wiped out by fire, will have a frontage of 46 feet 9 inches on Fifth street and extend through to Diamond alley, a distance of 130 feet.

The Metropolitan Stores, Inc., of New York, operators of chain stores, have secured a 15-year lease on the basement, first and second floors of the building for the entire frontage on Fifth street and extending back a distance of 80 feet along Crook alley. The Milligan Hardware and Supply company will occupy the remainder of the building, with its entrance at the rear of the structure.

Purchases McGarry Building

The Metropolitan Stores, Inc., have been operating mainly in the east, handling a general line of merchandise from five cents to $1.

The warehouse will cover a ground space of 22½ by 48 feet. A frame building, badly damaged when the walls of the six-story structure collapsed during the fire, will be razed to make room for it.

Contracts for the two buildings will be awarded as soon as plans can be prepared and approved. In the meantime, a large force of men and trucks are at work clearing the ruins.

Mr. Milligan yesterday purchased

PARALYTIC, 70, AND SON, 17, SAVED AS HUSBAND, 71, DIES IN STORM

Grim Story of Tornado Comes From Gorham, Ill., Where 90 Persons Out of Less Than 1,000 Were Killed.

CARBONDALE, Ill., March 21—One of the grimmest stories of the tornado comes from the little town of Gorham, ten miles south of Murphysboro, where 90 persons were killed out of a population of less than 1,000. It was told by Mrs. Alice Tomure, 70, a paralytic who escaped with her life, as did her 17-year-old son, while her husband, 71, died a terrible death after the family had been lifted over a hill into a corn field.

"It grew dark," she said. "The rain poured down. When the wind struck us I could feel it lift the house. It must have been raised ten feet from the ground and was whirled right around the big elm tree. The branches struck through the window. Then there was a great splintering and cracking and the wall fell outward. I felt myself going through the air. I was stunned and when I came to was lying in the corn field across the hill. There is a little creek there and my feet were in the water. At my side lay my husband. I turned to him. A great spike had been driven through his lip.

Pray as Death Looms.

"I'm dying, Alice, dear," he said to me. And we laid there and prayed together.

"Then Paul came and carried his father back to where what was left of our home was hanging in the

FEAR TETANUS IN STORM ZONE

MURPHYSBORO, March 21—Physicians and nurses are laboring today to check the spread of tetanus. Dr. J. E. Heis, of the Northern hospital, Chicago, stationed at Murphysboro, expressed fear early today that this infection is spreading, nothwithstanding the fact that innoculation for both typhoid and tetanus has been given all patients.

The water system is still paralyzed here, and placards have appeared over the devastated area cautioning the citizens to boil their drinking water.

GRIFFIN, Ind., Mar. 21.—Coroner George Blaisdel, of Posey county, today compiled a list of dead and injured in the southwestern Indiana area visited by Wednesday's tornado. The figures, believed to be the most accurate yet obtained, placed the number of dead in Indiana at 98. Five hundred persons were injured, 1,000 homes were wrecked and 5,000 were rendered homeless.

The casualties were apportioned as follows:

Griffin, 50 dead.
Princeton, 21 dead.

Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, Reported Missing

Police of nearby communities today were asked to aid in the search for Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, who disappeared from his home Thursday.

Wilkinson, leaving home, presumably for work, mailed a letter from Columbiana to his wife's uncle, Ira Seachrist, of New Waterford, stating that he was "going away" and that it would be useless for them to spend time or money to look for him. Seachrist received the letter Friday and immediately informed his niece, Wilkinson's wife.

Wilkinson left his home about two years ago, going to Akron without informing his family of his whereabouts. About two months later a letter was received from him, stating that he was working as a farm hand near Lima. He claimed to have been suffering from a lapse of memory.

The man was a former oil field worker. He has no children.

F. McDonald announced today.

At the same time Commissioner McDonald made public a letter he had written to Alex Felczan, Dillonvale, agent of the United Mine Workers, in which McDonald charged Felczan's "associates are interested in the bootlegging game," which was the latest passage in the correspondence warfare between the two officials.

It was announced also at the executive offices that three Jefferson county mayors would be called before Gov. Donahey at a date to be fixed later to answer charges filed by Felczan that they had issued, in blank, commitments, releases, affidavits for state warrants and state warrants, in liquor enforcement cases. The mayors under fire are W. G. Parks, Smithfield; Wm. J. McCann, New Alexandria, and Wm. A. McNary, Bloomfield.

FIRE DAMAGES BLAKE RESIDENCE

Fire, believed to have been caused from sparks, slightly damaged the home of Percy Blake, St. Clair avenue, about 11:30 o'clock this morning. The blaze originated around a window casing in the second story of the house.

Firemen from the No. 1 and 3 stations extinguished the blaze with chemicals. The loss, amounting to about $100, is said to be covered by insurance.

POLICE RENEW GAMBLING WAR

Visit Dresden Avenue Club Room, But Find No Evidence.

Police today renewed their war against alleged professional gambling here.

Under orders of Chief McDermott, patrolmen on duty in the uptown district are making visits at 15 or 30-minute intervals to a club room on the second floor of a Dresden avenue building. The doors of the place are not locked, but police reported that a lookout is on duty at the top of the stairway leading to the second floor.

The occupants of the room, last night, demanded that the police produce a search warrant in order to search the room. The search warrant was immediately issued by Mayor Brown and the police visits to the place resumed.

New warrants, empowering the police to visit and search the rooms, will be issued daily, Chief McDermott declared.

The owner of the building is reported to have ordered the club room vacated and padlocked the door. Police say the padlock was removed by the occupants, the claim being made that their rent is paid and that they cannot be ejected unless their lease has been violated. No evidence of law violation has been uncovered by the police.

1,084 MEMBERS ENROLLED BY COUNTY MOTOR CLUB SINCE LAST JUNE 1

Headquarters are Maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, While Nine Service Stations Have Been Established.

The Columbiana County Motor club, formally organized last June 1, boasts a membership of 1,084, according to figures announced today by Secretary E. M. Diehl, of East Liverpool. This membership is based on records of March 1.

After the East Liverpool Automobile club had ceased to function for several years, organization of the county club was started May 7, 1924. The organization work had progressed to such a degree in three weeks that on June 1, 1924 the club was granted a charter by the American Automobile association through the Ohio State Automobile association.

During the last nine months, the county club has been working diligently in the interests of the motorist. Headquarters are now maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, where information is available not only to local but traveling motorists. Reports of accidents are tabulated and general club service and assistance are given all members of the A. A. A. organization. Notaray public and auto license service is available at both the East Liverpool and Salem quarters.

Nine garages and service stations, all of which are under bond, have been established in various parts of

Despite Efforts of Doctors and Nurses, Life Passes From Mangled Bodies, While 100 Others are Expected to Die.

The path of Wednesday's tornado was a funeral land today. Everywhere in the five states which felt the death-laden breath of the storm, the victims, many as yet unidentified, were being committed back to the earth from which they came—laid to rest separately, by twos, by three and by dozens, in soldier-dug graves. And simple white crosses, conjuring up a picture of other such symbols across the sea, stood forth to mark the trail of devastation.

A total of 838 bodies, according to the latest check today, must be buried.

Health authorities have ordered this work to proceed as quickly as possible as the dread possibility of pestilence has arisen from the already prolonged delay, necessary because of inadequate facilities for the work and because there have been hopes that additional victims would be identified.

Revised Casualty List.

So today and tomorrow, the Gaunt, hollow-eyed survivors in the storm areas of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee were to stand solemnly by the jawning death pits to give their last goodbye to wives, mothers, children, sweethearts and friends, snapped into eternity in a twinkling by the awful force of the cyclone.

Today's revised casualty list showed 666 killed by the storm in Illinois, 93 in Indiana, 34 in Tennessee, 22 in Missouri and 18 in Kentucky.

Grim Story of Tornado Comes From Gorham, Ill., Where 90 Persons Out of Less Than 1,000 Were Killed.

CARBONDALE, Ill., March 21.—One of the grimmest stories of the tornado comes from the little town of Gorham, ten miles south of Murphysboro, where 90 persons were killed out of a population of less than 1,000. It was told by Mrs. Alice Tomure, 70, a paralytic who escaped with her life, as did her 17-year-old son, while her husband, 71, died a terrible death after the family had been lifted over a hill into a corn field.

"It grew dark," she said. "The rain poured down. When the wind struck us I could feel it lift the house. It must have been raised ten feet from the ground and was whirled right around the big elm tree. The branches struck through the window. Then there was a great splinterining and cracking and the wall fell outward. I felt myself going through the air. I was stunned and when I came to was lying in the corn field across the hill. There is a little creek there and my feet were in the water. At my side lay my husband. I turned to him. A great spike had been driven through his lip.

Pray as Death Looms.

"I'm dying, Alice, dear," he said to me. And we laid there and prayed together.

"Then Paul came and carried his father back to where what was left of our home was hanging in the

Heis, of the Northern hospital, Chicago, stationed at Murphysboro, expressed fear early today that this infection is spreading, nothwithstanding the fact that innoculation for both typhoid and tetanus has been given all patients.

The water system is still paralyzed here, and placards have appeared over the devastated area cautioning the citizens to boil their drinking water.

Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, Reported Missing

Police of nearby communities today were asked to aid in the search for Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, who disappeared from his home Thursday.

Wilkinson, leaving home, presumably for work, mailed a letter from Columbiana to his wife's uncle, Ira Seachrist, of New Waterford, stating that he was "going away" and that it would be useless for them to spend time or money to look for him. Seachrist received the letter Friday and immediately informed his niece, Wilkinson's wife.

Wilkinson left his home about two years ago, going to Akron without informing his family of his whereabouts. About two months later a letter was received from him, stating that he was working as a farm hand near Lima. He claimed to have been suffering from a lapse of memory.

The man was a former oil field worker. He has no children.

CHARGES AIRED

It was announced also at the executive offices that three Jefferson county mayors would be called before Gov. Donahey at a date to be fixed later to answer charges filed by Felczan that they had issued, in blank, commitments, releases, affidavits for state warrants and state warrants, in liquor enforcement cases. POLICE RENEW GAMBLING WAR

Visit Dresden Avenue Club Room, But Find No Evidence.

Police today renewed their war against alleged professional gambling here.

Under orders of Chief McDermott, patrolmen on duty in the uptown district are making visits at 15 or 30-minute intervals to a club room on the second floor of a Dresden avenue building. The doors of the place are not locked, but police reported that a lookout is on duty at the top of the stairway leading to the second floor.

The occupants of the room, last night, demanded that the police produce a search warrant in order to search the room. The search warrant was immediately issued by Mayor Brown and the police visits to the place resumed.

New warrants, empowering the police to visit and search the rooms, will be issued daily, Chief McDermott declared.

The owner of the building is reported to have ordered the club room vacated and padlocked the door. Police say the padlock was removed by the occupants, the claim being made that their rent is paid and that they cannot be ejected unless their lease has been violated. No evidence of law violation has been uncovered by the police.

Headquarters are Maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, While Nine Service Stations Have Been Established.

The Columbiana County Motor club, formally organized last June 1, boasts a membership of 1,084, according to figures announced today by Secretary E. M. Diehl, of East Liverpool. This membership is based on records of March 1.

After the East Liverpool Automobile club had ceased to function for several years, organization of the county club was started May 7, 1924. The organization work had progressed to such a degree in three weeks that on June 1, 1924 the club was granted a charter by the American Automobile association through the Ohio State Automobile association.

During the last nine months, the county club has been working diligently in the interests of the motorist. Headquarters are now maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, where information is available not only to local but traveling motorists. Reports of accidents are tabulated and general club service and assistance are given all members of the A. A. A. organization. Notaray public and auto license service is available at both the East Liverpool and Salem quarters.

Nine garages and service stations, all of which are under bond, have been established in various parts of

The Tornado Disaster.
Worse Might Come.
Japan's New Trouble.
The 31-Ounce Baby.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The dreadful tornado sweeping through five states, killing 577 and injuring several thousands, makes everything else seem trifling and unimportant.

We live at the mercy of Nature's forces, above, below and all around us. A tidal wave from the ocean could wash away the nation's biggest city. An earthquake or a tornado could level it.

Sympathizing with the unfortunate victims of the great disaster, the nation may well feel grateful for the high average of safety. The earth turns on its axis at the rate of a thousand miles an hour. If it stopped for a second the oceans would be hurled from the great valleys in which they lie and life on the earth would be washed back to the conditions of millions of years ago with no life left except the lowest forms.

Great disasters shock and overwhelm us. The recent great earthquake in Japan and the historic and even more appalling earthquake of Lisbon remind us how feeble and helpless we are living on a whirling globe traveling around the sun at a speed of nearly two million miles a day.

The amazing thing is our safety and secure existince. Assuming that they are worth having we should be deeply grateful.

While we condole with the victims of our own disaster, we feel deepest sympathy for the unfortunate inhabitants of Tokio, so recently torn by the great earthquake, and now with 10,000 made homeless by a dreadful fire.

The cable says casually that the fire swept through "the quarter of small, poor people," but that makes it all the worse. What they lost was everything they had.

In the midst of calamities, following the stock market drop, fires and a rebellious senate, the public mind is able to take deep interest in Miss Clausen, a New Jersey baby, eight weeks old, weighing yesterday only two pounds 12 ounces.

When she was born she weighed one pound 15 ounces, and doctors said she could not live.

There is a power in the brain, even in that of a new-born baby, able to defy doctors and their scientific predictions.

In that tiny head which you could span with your fingers there existed a determination to live, and the mother still has her baby alive and gaining.

The other news of the world is about as usual. In Italy Dr. Voronoff, gland grafting expert, is at work with local scientists grating glands on sheep. The practical Italians are not interested in making an old man young, but in causing the sheep to produce more and better wool and meat. If they succeed with sheep, they'll experiment on bigger animals.

England plans a return to the gold basis which would put the pound sterling where it is was before the war. Most of the newspapers and bankers are in favor of it.

Whether Britain, suffering in business and industry, will be helped by gold standard resumption, nobody knows. The reason is that nobody knows positively anything about finance or money—except that real gold is a good thing to have. Usually it comes out on top.

The plan, suggested after the war, that Europe should abandon the gold standard, leaving Uncle Sam with a lot of worthless gold on his hands, was not sound.

Pekin expects the renewal of war in two or three weeks—Russians on one side, Japanese and British on the other, all interested in China's latent wealth, pull in different directions.

Nobody is able to manage all of the great jelly fish nation at one time. You pick up one piece of it and the rest falls from your hand.

The Russians are trying to settle their debts on some half measure basis that will be satisfactory to the French. The French would like to be friends with Russia, even with uncertain, so-called proletarian, bolshevist Russia. The French nightmare is a revival of Germany in military strength, and the French, with the great Russian nation on their side as insurance, would feel safer.

TWO MORE AUTO THEFTS REPORTED

Two more automobile thefts were reported to the police last night.

A Chevrolet tourning car, belonging to Peter Wolfe, St. Clair avenue, was stolen while parked in front of the high school auditorium between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock. It carried license number 243-074.

Another Chevrolet machine, touring car model, was stolen near Stop 55, last night, while Clinton Cuesch, the owner, was attending a basketball game in the old McPherson barn. It is believed that the car was brought to East Liverpool. Its license number was 87-861.

TORNADO'S DEATH TOLL SOARS AS STORM-SWEPT ZONE IS FUNERAL LAND

JAIL LOOTERS; ONE MAN SHOT

MURPHYSBORO, Ills., March 21—Two looters, one shot through the leg, were in the county jail here today.

No special guards have been placed about the building, for, contrary to general custom, no flame of anger against them seems to have risen from the populace.

The casualty was wounded by a soldier as he was trying to strip a diamond ring off the finger of an unconscious woman.

POSING AS DRY AGENT, VISITOR ROBS FARMER

John Foster, North of Wellsville, Fleeced Out of $156.

THIEF IS ARMED

Report of Bold Job is Made to Authorities.

Gaining an entrance into the shanty of John Foster, who lives near the Charles Swearingen farm, several miles north of Wellsville, by announcing himself as a federal prohibition officer, an unidentified man last night robbed Foster of $156 in cash and escaped.

When Foster opened the door of his place, the visitor explained he had authority to search the dwelling for liquor. He was armed with a revolver.

According to police reports, the thief brandished the weapon while he confiscated the money.

Foster reported the theft to Wellsville police who made a hurried trip to his house. An investigation is under way.

Poison is Found In Vital Organs of Ohio Plot Victim

ELYRIA, March 21.—City Chemist E. G. Curtis today notified Prosecuting Attorney Joseph A. Seymour, at Medina, that arsenic poison had been found in the vital organs of Mrs. Lillian Gienke, who died January 4. A post-mortem held after her husband, Fred Gienke, Sr., died in a local hospital a month later, also revealed arsenic poison.

The body of Mrs. Sophie Hazel, third victim of the poison plot conceived, according to her signed confession, by Mrs. Martha Wise, may not be exhumed, it was stated today. Seymour believes that he now holds sufficient evidence to prosecute on the murder charge.

Mrs. Wise will be arraigned Monday at 10 o'clock before Justice W. P. Ainsworth, Medina, on a charge of first degree murder. It is probable that this will be supplemented by an insanity charge.

The Metropolitan Stores, Inc., have been operating mainly in the east, handling a general line of merchandise from five cents to $1.

The warehouse will cover a ground space of 22½ by 48 feet. A frame building, badly damaged when the walls of the six-story structure collapsed during the fire, will be razed to make room for it.

Contracts for the two buildings will be awarded as soon as plans can be prepared and approved. In the meantime, a large force of men and trucks are at work clearing the ruins.

PARALYTIC, 70, AND SON, 17, SAVED AS HUSBAND, 71, DIES IN STORM

Grim Story of Tornado Comes From Gorham, Ill., Where 90 Persons Out of Less Than 1,000 Were Killed.

CARBONDALE, Ill., March 21.—One of the grimmest stories of the tornado comes from the little town of Gorham, ten miles south of Murphysboro, where 90 persons were killed out of a population of less than 1,000. It was told by Mrs. Alice Tomure, 70, a paralytic who escaped with her life, as did her 17-year-old son, while her husband, 71, died a terrible death after the family had been lifted over a hill into a corn field.

"It grew dark," she said. "The rain poured down. When the wind struck us I could feel it lift the house. It must have been raised ten feet from the ground and was whirled right around the big elm tree. The branches struck through the window. Then there was a great splinterining and cracking and the wall fell outward. I felt myself going through the air. I was stunned and when I came to was lying in the corn field across the hill. There is a little creek there and my feet were in the water. At my side lay my husband. I turned to him. A great spike had been driven through his lip.

Pray as Death Looms.

"I'm dying, Alice, dear," he said to me. And we laid there and prayed together.

"Then Paul came and carried his father back to where what was left of our home was hanging in the Games are played in connection with the meetings of the two classes each Saturday morning.

FEAR TETANUS IN STORM ZONE

MURPHYSBORO, March 21—Physicians and nurses are laboring today to check the spread of tetanus. Dr. J. E. Heis, of the Northern hospital, Chicago, stationed at Murphysboro, expressed fear early today that this infection is spreading, nothwithstanding the fact that innoculation for both typhoid and tetanus has been given all patients.

The water system is still paralyzed here, and placards have appeared over the devastated area cautioning the citizens to boil their drinking water.

INDIANA DEATH TOLL IS 98

The figures, believed to be the most accurate yet obtained, placed the number of dead in Indiana at 98. Five hundred persons were injured, 1,000 homes were wrecked and 5,000 were rendered homeless.

The casualties were apportioned as follows:

Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, Reported Missing

Police of nearby communties today were asked to aid in the search for Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, who disappeared from his home Thursday.

Wilkinson, leaving home, presumably for work, mailed a letter from Columbiana to his wife's uncle, Ira Seachrist, of New Waterford, stating that he was "going away" and that it would be useless for them to spend time or money to look for him. Seachrist received the letter Friday and immediately informed his niece, Wilkinson's wife.

Wilkinson left his home about two years ago, going to Akron without informing his family of his whereabouts. About two months later a letter was received from him, stating that he was working as a farm hand near Lima. He claimed to have been suffering from a lapse of memory.

The man was a former oil field worker. He has no children.

OHIO DRY LAW CHIEF TURNS ARTILLERY ON STEUBENVILLE

Gov. Donahey Will Probe "Sore Spot" in Enforcement.

CHARGES AIRED

Three Jefferson County Village Mayors Under Fire.

COLUMBUS, March 21. — Charges that Steubenville and vicinity constitute the "sore spot" in prohibition enforcement in Ohio and complaints against law enforcement officials will be aired before Governor Donahey within the next two weeks, State Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald announced today.

At the same time Commissioner McDonald made public a letter he had written to Alex Felczan, Dillonvale, agent of the United Mine Workers, in which McDonald charged Felczan's "associates are interested in the bootlegging game," which was the latest passage in the correspondence warfare between the two officials.

It was announced also at the executive offices that three Jefferson county mayors would be called before Gov. Donahey at a date to be fixed later to answer charges filed by Felczan that they had issued, in blank, commitments, releases, affidavits for state warrants and state warrants, in liquor enforcement cases. The mayors under fire are W. G. Parks, Smithfield; Wm. J. McCann, New Alexandria, and Wm. A. McNary, Bloomfield.

POLICE RENEW GAMBLING WAR

Visit Dresden Avenue Club Room, But Find No Evidence.

Police today renewed their war against alleged professional gambling here.

Under orders of Chief McDermott, patrolmen on duty in the uptown district are making visits at 15 or 30-minute intervals to a club room on the second floor of a Dresden avenue building. The doors of the place are not locked, but police reported that a lookout is on duty at the top of the stairway leading to the second floor.

The occupants of the room, last night, demanded that the police produce a search warrant in order to search the room. The search warrant was immediately issued by Mayor Brown and the police visits to the place resumed.

New warrants, empowering the police to visit and search the rooms, will be issued daily, Chief McDermott declared.

The owner of the building is reported to have ordered the club room vacated and padlocked the door. Police say the padlock was removed by the occupants, the claim being made that their rent is paid and that they cannot be ejected unless their lease has been violated. No evidence of law violation has been uncovered by the police.

1,084 MEMBERS ENROLLED BY COUNTY MOTOR CLUB SINCE LAST JUNE 1

Headquarters are Maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, While Nine Service Stations Have Been Established.

The Columbiana County Motor club, formally organized last June 1, boasts a membership of 1,084, according to figures announced today by Secretary E. M. Diehl, of East Liverpool. This membership is based on records of March 1.

After the East Liverpool Automobile club had ceased to function for several years, organization of the county club was started May 7, 1924. The organization work had progressed to such a degree in three weeks that on June 1, 1924 the club was granted a charter by the American Automobile association through the Ohio State Automobile association.

During the last nine months, the county club has been working diligently in the interests of the motorist. Headquarters are now maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, where information is available not only to local but traveling motorists. Reports of accidents are tabulated and general club service and assistance are given all members of the A. A. A. organization. Notaray public and auto license service is available at both the East Liverpool and Salem quarters.

Nine garages and service stations, all of which are under bond, have been established in various parts of

The "special service" stamp will be placed packages sent as parcels post which it is desired to have handled first class mail. The one and one-half cent stamp is to be used on third and fourth class mail weighing less than eight ounces.

The one and one-half cent stamp will be printed in light brown and

BISHOP WILL VISIT COUNTY

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson Will Attend M. E. Conference.

Columbiana county Methodist ministers and church workers will meet in the First Methodist Episcopal church in Lisbon, Friday, March 27, for a conference with Bishop Theodore Henderson of Cincinnati, in charge of the Ohio and Kentucky area.

Bishop Henderson, who succeeded Bishop W. T. Anderson, assigned to Detroit, is making a visit to each county in his district in the interest of evangelism. Conferences at Lisbon will be held at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Luncheon will be served at noon.

According to Bishop Henderson, churches, since the close of the war have been paying too great attention to the financial side of church life. His idea is to emphasize the spiritual and evangelistic sides more for the present, leaving the finances to take care of itself.

He will go to Wellsville for a dinner meeting with members of the First Methodist Episcopal church at the close of the afternoon conference at Lisbon. He will come to East Liverpool for an evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

The conference meetings at Lisbon during the morning and afternoon and the evening session here will be open to the public.

STEARNS URGES CO-OPERATION

Pittsburgh Manufacturer is Speaker at Foremen's Dinner.

A plea for a closer co-operation between employer and employes was voiced by W. D. Stearns, of the works manager's department of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, Pittsburgh, in an address at the fourth annual foremen's dinner held at the Y. M. C. A., last evening, under auspices of the industrial department.

Edwin Wells, Jr., presided. Stearns, discussing "Developing Men In Industry," said: The big problem, common in all forms of industry, was the workman. With poor werkmen an industry will not succeed, he declared. With good men, efficiency can be obtained and the industry can be made a success.

Men can be helped by the proper support of those beneath them rather than being assisted by those who are above them," Stearns declared. "A man cannot be promoted unless he has educated others to take his place. No one can seek to implant qualities of leadership without developing these in himself.

Courtesy and Tact Pay.

"We need to be optimistic; a pessimist cannot make a success of anything. Use courtesy and tact wherever possible—it always pays. Try to pick out the worth-while men to bring along and develop. Give men an opportunity to help themselves. Furnish means for them to show the stuff they are made of.

"Personal contact helps us to understand the other fellow. Arrange conferences so that men may be able to swap ideas. Cultivate a spirit of confidence. Business and all life is based on confidence. It may take years to build up a spirit of confidence but one wrong step may destroy it. If you make promises, keep them.

"Co operate with each other and your industry is sure to succeed. Get together and do things. 'Co' stands for company and also for co-operation. No relation between any two parties can continue very long unless it results in mutual benefit."

branches of the elm. He came for me. And by the time I had been carried to my husband's side he was dead."

"It was like teh whole world turning over and over, upside down," said Edna Forsee, daughter of Louise Forsee, a coal miner. She is in the hospital with a wrenched back.

"Otis and Mabel," her brother and sister were in school, she said. "Papa came home at noon. It started to rain harder and then to hail. Papa and mamma started to pray and I knelt with them. Then the house swung around and the world just seemed to turn over and over. Everything was flying in the air. I didn't know what to think. I just prayed.

Infant Blown From Mother's Arms.

From the arms of Mrs. Wanda Mattingly, 21, the wind blew her infant son, Norman, 19 months, while the mother clung desperately to Charles Glenn, aged 3, and to the banisters of the stairs of her home, from which the wind had blown the walls and roof away.

"I was on the second floor of the house when the storm came and gathered up the babies and started to the first floor," Mrs. Mattingley said. "I was just on the stairs when suddenly the walls seemed to fall outward, one by one, and the roof fell, leaving the stairway standing, exposed.

"The wind had such force that I had to take both babies in one arm and grasp the banisters to keep from being blown away. Then Norman was whisked from my grasp. I just sat on the stairs and bent over Charles Gleen to hold on to the baby I had left. Then the wind went down and I went downstairs. I collapsed. Pretty soon along came the preacher, Lee Brown, with my baby in his arms. He found Norman crying in a pile of debris about 15 yards from the house."

Lieut. Wood, 'Broke," Plays Chess on His Homeward Trip

ABOARD STEAMSHIP CHETAC, ENROUTE TO TAMPA, Fla., Mar. 21—(By radio.)—Lieut. Osborne C. Wood, enroute to the United States following his disastrous experiences at the Biarritz Roulette tables, is playing chess to while away the monotony of the freighter's journey to Tampa.

Wood is feeling fine. Although the vessel has been running into rough weather, he is standing the trip well.

PUBLIC OFFICE TENURE CHANGE

Agree on Proposal to Extend Terms of Job Holders.

COLUMBUS, March 21.—Radical changes in the proposal to extend terms of elective officials by constitutional amendment have been agreed upon by legislative leaders, Speaker Harry B. Silver, of the house, said today.

Agreement has been reached between house and senate Republican leaders to abandon the resolution of Senator Arthur W. Sweeny, Summit, which has passed the senate, and to substitute for it a resolution sponsored by Representative Robert L. Rohe, Seneca, which will propose general constitutional changes to permit the legislature to revise the system of tenure of public officials.

The resolution, which is scheduled to be adopted next week, the closing working week of the legislature, will, in general, propose amendment of the Ohio constitution so as to provide four-year terms for state and county, but not for municipal elective officers. It will be broad enough, however, to leave the legislature largely the power to fix terms of such officers.

The proposal, also, will authorize the legislature to provide for appointment of certain officers who are now elected under provision of the state constitution. These will include clerks of courts and county recorders and may include other officers.

The Sweeny resolution, as it was adopted by the senate, proposed a constitutional amendment to extend terms of elective state, county and city officials to four years. Legislative leaders believe it is too broad and too strict in its verbiage.

Legislators will return Monday to wind up most of the work of the 1925 session. The hardest working week of the session is scheduled.

VIRGINIA MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

Prosecutions Threatened After Prisoner is Shot and Burned.

WAVERLY, Va., March 21.—Prosecutions were threatened today of many prominent citizens of Sussex county who were in the mob of nearly 2,000 persons that last night took James Gordon, a negro, and lynched him after he had been accused of assaunting a young white woman. It was Virginia's first lynching in four years.

Prosecuting Attorney Howerton was quoted as saying that "practically everybody in the county appears to have been there," and he intends to present a number of prominent names to the grand jury.

Members of the mob made no efforts to conceal their identity, so no difficulty is expected on that score.

Howerton was among the officers who pleaded with the ring leaders of the mob to allow the law to take its course.

The negro, a stranger in the community, was captured near a sawmill late yesterday. He was identified by his victim and is said to have confessed to the crime. He was lodged in jail, but soon after dark a mob gathered and, despite efforts of county officers, the jail was raided and the negro taken out and strung up. His body was riddled with bullets and later burned.

Governer Trinkle at Richmond was reported today to be aroused over the lynching. It occurred so quickly there was no opportunity for him to order out troops to prevent it.

the James McGarry building, a two-story frame structure in Diamond alley, now occupied by Paul Hune, wholesale confectioner. Possession of this structure will be taken as soon as the present occupant vacates. Mr. Hune, it is understood, will occupy a store room in an adjoining building which he owns. Both buildings were damaged in the fire.

The Milligan Hardware and Supply company will maintain its temporary quarters in the former McGarry building pending the completion of the new buildings. Offices have been established and some stock is being carried on the second floor of the George C. Thompson building, Market and Fourth street, above the Gamble Drug store. A temporary warehouse is now being occupied in a section of the Faulk building, Dresden avenue, formerly occupied by the Glenn automobile paint shop. This will be utilized until the new structures are ready for occupancy.

200 Guests Attend Father-son Dinner In M. E. Church Here

More than 200 men and boys attended the Father and Son banquet held in the social rooms of the First Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The dinner was served by members of the Ladies' Service league and girl members of the church.

Music was furnished by the Cochran Girls' orchestra. Prof. H. F. Laughlin led the singing. The speaker was Dr. W. E. Hammake, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Youngstown, whose subject was "What is Life." He was introduced by Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the church, and master of ceremonies.

The speaker declared that the principal aim in life was not making money, not having a good time, nor rising to the top of a heap where one might dominate his class. He pointed out to the boys, the necessity of making the right selections and to the men, the urgent need of setting the proper example before their sons.

Evangelistic services will begin in the First M. E. church beginning Sunday and continue for two weeks. At the Sunday morning service Dr. Fowler will discuss "An Anaesthetized Church" and Sunday evening "A Happly Churchman." Services will be held each evening next week at 7:30 o'clock. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, Cincinnati, will preach Friday evening.

the county to give mechanical first aid, wreck and touring service to local and visiting members. These service stations are located in East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Salineville, Hanoverton and Damascus, where day and night service is available. One hundred and seven calls for road service, 83 of which entailed expense in addition to the $1 service fee paid by the member, have been answered since the club was organized. Several damage claims of members were also adjusted by the club.

The club also represented several members who were arrested for traffic violations. Service was also given in the recovery of a number of stolen machines reported by neighboring clubs. Officials of the county club co-operated with police officials throughout the county in curbing auto thefts.

The club was instrumental in having a new traffic ordinance passed by the East Liverpool city council. The ordinance was then published in booklet form and 4,000 copies distributed to local motorists.

The club assisted the police department in East Liverpool, Salem and Lisbon in the establishment of safety zones for pedestrians and marking the "no parking" zones. Attractive enameled signs—no parking, one-way streets, school zone, etc., were purchased by the club and erected in this city, Salem and East Palestine. Danger signs were also erected throughout the county.

Urged Highway Improvements

The influence of the club in good road projects and providing detours while road construction was in progress was marked.

The brake and headlight test advocated by the United States bureau of standards in an effort to promote safety was sponsored in East Liverpool by the club, co-operating with the police department. Accepting the theory that "a stitch in time saves nine," the club urged the immediate repair of the Lincoln highway in Madison township as part of their road service work. State route signs were erected at the suggestion of the club in East Liverpool and Wellsville. The center lining of the improved highways of the county was also favored as a means of reducing traffic accidents.

When a tornado swept Lorain and Sandusky last June, the club co-operated with the Red Cross in collecting clothing and contributing to the relief fund.

Tornado's Death Toll

the late casualty figures of yesterday and it is believed that the final death totals will bring only minor additions. The exact toll of the storm, Red Cross officials admitted, probably never will be known. There were some victims actually annihilated in the wind-terror. Others were removed to different towns, and there may have been scores of visitors in the section who will not be missed for weeks.

Today eyes of those in the stricken areas turned for the first time to reconstruction and with the funerals over, concerted efforts to rebuild the devastated area is expected to start.

There is a possibility that some of the towns will not be rebuilt. Rescue workers say that Parrish and De Soto, Ill., are virtually completely razed and they will be left as they are—a permanent record of the storm.

Broken Hearts, Shattered Cities.

BENTON, Ill., March 21.—While Illinois' vast areas of broken hearts and shattered cities resumed the enormous task of burying its tornado dead, it was apparent today the ever-swelling roster of death would not be checked for days and weeks.

Death was still alert and stalking methodically over the paths of Wednesday's epochal storm and today its harvest stood at 666 mortals—an increase of more than 20 deaths since midnight.

Although hundreds of doctors and nurses thoroughly equipped by field supplies, augmented by hospitals throughout southern Illinois, battled in unwavering vigil, each hour saw the passing of life from broken and mangled bodies.

It will be thus for days. There are more than 100 persons for whom little hope is held.

Search Rural Districts.

During the night and early today, searching crews that have patrolled the rural districts where 200 farms lay in waste, brought in additional bodies and injured. It was this work that was responsible for the quick rise of the death toll in the early hours of Friday night.

At Carmi, where four persons had been known dead, the number suddenly leaped to 27 when rescue crews reported from the farm districts with a dozen victims and word came from surrounding towns that many Carmi injured in hospitals were dying.

Here at Benton, search of the more isolated regions had amassed 16 bodies, at Grayville four, and at Gorham, sent death figures up to 72.

At Murphysboro, six gave up the fight between midnight and dawn. Inquests are a seeming endless formality everywhere. The Coroner's jury operates in relays, one group sleeping, while the other identifies and legalizes the wholesale human destruction of Wednesday.

At West Frankfort, four passed away and three bodies were recovered, sending the total there to 129—and so it was throughout the entire area of Mistery.

Morphine Supply Exhausted.

The great task before medical corps had, early today, practically exhausted the supply of morphine used to soothe hundreds of pain-wrecked men, women and children. Ether and chloroform supplies have diminished alarmingly with the performing of 200 operations.

An appeal for airplane delivery of these precious opiates and anaesthetics went out before dawn. But while surgeons and physicians sparingly apportioned their remaining supplies, a deeper fear was reflected in the possible attack of pestilence. The springing up of miles of tented homes and crudely constructed shacks, with sewage and sanitary conditions generally in a deplorable state, has provided a sound basis for these apprehensions.

Isolation has been resorted to and wherever a patient develops symptoms of disease, they are rushed out to these carefully patrolled outlying stations. Relief work among the 10,000 homeless in Missouri and Illinois, however, has settled down to systematical routine. Each stricken city has its emergency relief association, composed of local business men and civic organizations.

Distribute Clothing, Food.

Clothing and food, contributed and arriving by trainloads, are being distributed by the tireless forces of the gallant Salvation Army, churches, lodges and boy scouts.

Wearing apparel was grimly humorous. Women were dressed in odds and ends of clothing of both men and women. Men wrapped in women's coats and the remaining uninjured children prove a difficult problem in distinguishing sex. Small boys were wearing dainty little dresses and small girls were running about the tumbled ruins in trousers and caps. Occasionally a little group assembles and innocently trade garments.

Medical detachment 129th infantry, Illinois national guard, with Major E. Lord, of Plano, in command, Captain A. J. Roberts, of Ottawa, assisting, has arrived and thrown its resources into medical relief bases.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 21—Ten refrigerator cars went forward from St. Louis today to the storm areas of Illinois at the request of undertakers to be used for storing the unidentified dead and the bodies of those who will be buried in other states. One hundred cases of embalming fluid and a hundred coffins were also sent from here.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 21. — Forward movements in the oil and specialty stocks was the principal feature of the stock market today. A few of the railroad and industrial stocks made further progress under the stimulus of short covering as also did public utility stocks and the copper shares.

Pan-American continued in the leadership of the oil stocks, its rise to 83 being accompanied by rumors that standard oil interests had bought substantially in the company with the Standard Oil of New York taking an interest in the California properties and the Standard of Indiana in the Mexican fields.

Grain and cotton markets were slightly lower at the opening. Continental exchanges showed a shrinkage in early quotations. Trading in the Wabash stocks and Chesapeake and Ohio was the feature of the railroad stock list. Demand for the former isb ased on expectations of the inauguration of dividends next Thursday. Speculative interest in Chesapeake and Ohio centers raound the determined fight being made by the minority stockholders to prevent the leasing and final amalgamation of the road with the new Nickle Plate system.

The higehr level of prices invited both profit taking and short covering and stocks were offered for sale more liberally in the second hour. The market was again reactionary and prices of the market leaders declined a point or more from the high level of the day, in some cases the decline also cutting out a part of Friday's rally.

BANKER IS GIVEN NEWSPAPER HIS GRANDFATHER LENT 77 YEARS AGO

Frank Crawford Sends Old Copy of Ohio Patriot to Thomas H. Fisher.

Thomas H. Fisher, active vice president of the First National Bank, received a newspaper a few days ago which his grandfather lent a neighbor more than 77 years ago.

Three-fourths of a century ago, Thomas Laughlin, grandfather of Mr. Fisher conducted a general store in the village of Fredericktown, located at the junction of the west and north forks of the Beaver Creek, nine miles north of here.

Mr. Laughlin was a subscriber of "The Ohio Patriot," a Democratic weekly, published at Lisbon, then known as New Lisbon. David Crawford, who operated the grist mill at Fredericktown for many years, borrowed Mr. Laughlin's paper, dated December 31, 1847, and for some unexplainable reason the paper was preserved among Mr. Crawford's possessions.

Mr. Crawford died a few years ago after celebrating his 90th birthday. His son, Frank Crawford, examining his father's possessions not long ago, found the paper, addresed in ink to Thomas Laughlin.

Realizing that the paper would be highly prized by Mr. Fisher, a grandson of the original owner, Mr. Crawford returned it to him. It is in an excellent state of preservation.

The paper carries an advertisement of the law firm, Umbstraettier, Stanton & Wallace, of Lisbon. Edwin Stanton, a member of the firm, was secretary of war during the administration of President Lincoln.

An advertisement, concerning the packet boat, "Caleb Cope," operating between Pittsburgh and Wellsville, is carried in the paper. Mahlon Martin was listed as being the Wellsville agent for the company.

BISHOP WILL VISIT COUNTY

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson Will Attend M. E. Conference.

Columbiana county Methodist ministers and church workers will meet in the First Methodist Episcopal church in Lisbon, Friday, March 27, for a conference with Bishop Theodore Henderson of Cincinnati, in charge of the Ohio and Kentucky area.

Bishop Henderson, who succeeded Bishop W. T. Anderson, assigned to Detroit, is making a visit to each county in his district in the interest of evangelism. Conferences at Lisbon will be held at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Luncheon will be served at noon.

According to Bishop Henderson, churches, since the close of the war have been paying too great attention to the financial side of church life. His idea is to emphasize the spiritual and evangelistic sides more for the present, leaving the finances to take care of itself.

He will go to Wellsville for a dinner meeting with members of the First Methodist Episcopal church at the close of the afternoon conference at Lisbon. He will come to East Liverpool for an evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

The conference meetings at Lisbon during the morning and afternoon and the evening session here will be open to the public.

STEARNS URGES CO-OPERATION

Pittsburgh Manufacturer is Speaker at Foremen's Dinner.

A plea for a closer co-operation between employer and employes was voiced by W. D. Stearns, of the works manager's department of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, Pittsburgh, in an address at the fourth annual foremen's dinner held at the Y. M. C. A., last evening, under auspices of the industrial department.

Edwin Wells, Jr., presided. Stearns, discussing "Developing Men In Industry," said: The big problem, common in all forms of industry, was the workman. With poor workmen an industry will not succeed, he declared. With good men, efficiency can be obtained and the industry can be made a success.

Men can be helped by the proper support of those beneath them rather than being assisted by those who are above them," Stearns declared. "A man cannot be promoted unless he has educated others to take his place. No one can seek to implant qualities of leadership without developing these in himself.

Courtesy and Tact Pay.

"We need to be optimistic; a pessimist cannot make a success of anything. Use courtesy and tact wherever possible—it always pays. Try to pick out the worth-while men to bring along and develop. Give men an opportunity to help themselves. Furnish means for them to show the stuff they are made of.

"Personal contact helps us to understand the other fellow. Arrange conferences so that men may be able to swap ideas. Cultivate a spirit of confidence. Business and all life is based on confidence. It may take years to build up a spirit of confidence but one wrong step may destroy it. If you make promises, keep them.

"Co operate with each other and your industry is sure to succeed. Get together and do things. 'Co' stands for company and also for co-operation. No relation between any two parties can continue very long unless it results in mutual benefit."

branches of the elm. He came for me. And by the time I had been carried to my husband's side he was dead."

"It was like teh whole world turning over and over, upside down," said Edna Forsee, daughter of Louise Forsee, a coal miner. She is in the hospital with a wrenched back.

"Otis and Mabel," her brother and sister were in school, she said. "Papa came home at noon. It started to rain harder and then to hail. Papa and mamma started to pray and I knelt with them. Then the house swung around and the world just seemed to turn over and over. Everything was flying in the air. I didn't know what to think. I just prayed.

Infant Blown From Mother's Arms.

From the arms of Mrs. Wanda Mattingly, 21, the wind blew her infant son, Norman, 19 months, while the mother clung desperately to Charles Glenn, aged 3, and to the banisters of the stairs of her home, from which the wind had blown the walls and roof away.

"I was on the second floor of the house when the storm came and gathered up the babies and started to the first floor," Mrs. Mattingley said. "I was just on the stairs when suddenly the walls seemed to fall outward, one by one, and the roof fell, leaving the stairway standing, exposed.

"The wind had such force that I had to take both babies in one arm and grasp the banisters to keep from being blown away. Then Norman was whisked from my grasp. I just sat on the stairs and bent over Charles Gleen to hold on to the baby I had left. Then the wind went down and I went downstairs. I collapsed. Pretty soon along came the preacher, Lee Brown, with my baby in his arms. He found Norman crying in a pile of debris about 15 yards from the house."

PUBLIC OFFICE TENURE CHANGE

Agree on Proposal to Extend Terms of Job Holders.

COLUMBUS, March 21.—Radical changes in the proposal to extend terms of elective officials by constitutional amendment have been agreed upon by legislative leaders, Speaker Harry B. Silver, of the house, said today.

Agreement has been reached between house and senate Republican leaders to abandon the resolution of Senator Arthur W. Sweeny, Summit, which has passed the senate, and to substitute for it a resolution sponsored by Representative Robert L. Rohe, Seneca, which will propose general constitutional changes to permit the legislature to revise the system of tenure of public officials.

The resolution, which is scheduled to be adopted next week, the closing working week of the legislature, will, in general, propose amendment of the Ohio constitution so as to provide four-year terms for state and county, but not for municipal elective officers. It will be broad enough, however, to leave the legislature largely the power to fix terms of such officers.

The proposal, also, will authorize the legislature to provide for appointment of certain officers who are now elected under provision of the state constitution. These will include clerks of courts and county recorders and may include other officers.

The Sweeny resolution, as it was adopted by the senate, proposed a constitutional amendment to extend terms of elective state, county and city officials to four years. Legislative leaders believe it is too broad and too strict in its verbiage.

Legislators will return Monday to wind up most of the work of the 1925 session. The hardest working week of the session is scheduled.

VIRGINIA MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

Prosecutions Threatened After Prisoner is Shot and Burned.

WAVERLY, Va., March 21.—Prosecutions were threatened today of many prominent citizens of Sussex county who were in the mob of nearly 2,000 persons that last night took James Gordon, a negro, and lynched him after he had been accused of assaunting a young white woman. It was Virginia's first lynching in four years.

Prosecuting Attorney Howerton was quoted as saying that "practically everybody in the county appears to have been there," and he intends to present a number of prominent names to the grand jury.

Members of the mob made no efforts to conceal their identity, so no difficulty is expected on that score.

Howerton was among the officers who pleaded with the ring leaders of the mob to allow the law to take its course.

The negro, a stranger in the community, was captured near a sawmill late yesterday. He was identified by his victim and is said to have confessed to the crime. He was lodged in jail, but soon after dark a mob gathered and, despite efforts of county officers, the jail was raided and the negro taken out and strung up. His body was riddled with bullets and later burned.

Governer Trinkle at Richmond was reported today to be aroused over the lynching. It occurred so quickly there was no opportunity for him to order out troops to prevent it.

the James McCarry building, a two-story frame structure in Diamond alley, now occupied by Paul Hune, wholesale confectioner. Possession of this structure will be taken as soon as the present occupant vacates. Mr. Hune, it is understood, will occupy a store room in an adjoining building which he owns. Both buildings were damaged in the fire.

The Milligan Hardware and Supply company will maintain its temporary quarters in the former McGarry building pending the completion of the new buildings. Offices have been established and some stock is being carried on the second floor of the George C. Thompson building, Market and Fourth street, above the Gamble Drug store. A temporary warehouse is now being occupied in a section of the Faulk building, Dresden avenue, formerly occupied by the Glenn automobile paint shop. This will be utilized until the new structures are ready for occupancy.

200 Guests Attend Father-son Dinner In M. E. Church Here

More than 200 men and boys attended the Father and Son banquet held in the social rooms of the First Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The dinner was served by members of the Ladies' Service league and girl members of the church.

Music was furnished by the Cochran Girls' orchestra. Prof. H. F. Laughlin led the singing. The speaker was Dr. W. E. Hammake, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Youngstown, whose subject was "What is Life." He was introduced by Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the church, and master of ceremonies.

The speaker declared that the principal aim in life was not making money, not having a good time, nor rising to the top of a heap where one might dominate his class. He pointed out to the boys, the necessity of making the right selections and to the men, the urgent need of setting the proper example before their sons.

Evangelistic services will begin in the First M. E. church beginning Sunday and continue for two weeks. At the Sunday morning service Dr. Fowler will discuss "An Anaesthetized Church" and Sunday evening "A Happly Churchman." Services will be held each evening next week at 7:30 o'clock. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, Cincinnati, will preach Friday evening.

the county to give mechanical first aid, wreck and touring service to local and visiting members. These service stations are located in East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Salineville, Hanoverton and Damascus, where day and night service is available. One hundred and seven calls for road service, 83 of which entailed expense in addition to the $1 service fee paid by the member, have been answered since the club was organized. Several damage claims of members were also adjusted by the club.

The club also represented several members who were arrested for traffic violations. Service was also given in the recovery of a number of stolen machines reported by neighboring clubs. Officials of the county club co-operated with police officials throughout the county in curbing auto thefts.

The club was instrumental in having a new traffic ordinance passed by the East Liverpool city council. The ordinance was then published in booklet form and 4,000 copies distributed to local motorists.

The club assisted the police department in East Liverpool, Salem and Lisbon in the establishment of safety zones for pedestrians and marking the "no parking" zones. Attractive enameled signs—no parking, one-way streets, school zone, etc., were purchased by the club and erected in this city, Salem and East Palestine. Danger signs were also erected throughout the county.

Urged Highway Improvements

The influence of the club in good road projects and providing detours while road construction was in progress was marked.

The brake and headlight test advocated by the United States bureau of standards in an effort to promote safety was sponsored in East Liverpool by the club, co-operating with the police department. Accepting the theory that "a stitch in time saves nine," the club urged the immediate repair of the Lincoln highway in Madison township as part of their road service work. State route signs were erected at the suggestion of the club in East Liverpool and Wellsville. The center lining of the improved highways of the county was also favored as a means of reducing traffic accidents.

When a tornado swept Lorain and Sandusky last June, the club co-operated with the Red Cross in collecting clothing and contributing to the relief fund.

Tornado's Death Toll

the late casualty figures of yesterday and it is believed that the final death totals will bring only minor additions. The exact toll of the storm, Red Cross officials admitted, probably never will be known. There were some victims actually annihilated in the wind-terror. Others were removed to different towns, and there may have been scores of visitors in the section who will not be missed for weeks.

Today eyes of those in the stricken areas turned for the first time to reconstruction and with the funerals over, concerted efforts to rebuild the devastated area is expected to start.

There is a possibility that some of the towns will not be rebuilt. Rescue workers say that Parrish and De Soto, Ill., are virtually completely razed and they will be left as they are—a permanent record of the storm.

Broken Hearts, Shattered Cities.

BENTON, Ill., March 21.—While Illinois' vast areas of broken hearts and shattered cities resumed the enormous task of burying its tornado dead, it was apparent today the ever-swelling roster of death would not be checked for days and weeks.

Death was still alert and stalking methodically over the paths of Wednesday's epochal storm and today its harvest stood at 666 mortals—an increase of more than 20 deaths since midnight.

Although hundreds of doctors and nurses thoroughly equipped by field supplies, augmented by hospitals throughout southern Illinois, battled in unwavering vigil, each hour saw the passing of life from broken and mangled bodies.

It will be thus for days. There are more than 100 persons for whom little hope is held.

Search Rural Districts.

During the night and early today, searching crews that have patrolled the rural districts where 200 farms lay in waste, brought in additional bodies and injured. It was this work that was responsible for the quick rise of the death toll in the early hours of Friday night.

At Carmi, where four persons had been known dead, the number suddenly leaped to 27 when rescue crews reported from the farm districts with a dozen victims and word came from surrounding towns that many Carmi injured in hospitals were dying.

Here at Benton, search of the more isolated regions had amassed 16 bodies, at Grayville four, and at Gorham, sent death figures up to 72.

At Murphysboro, six gave up the fight between midnight and dawn. Inquests are a seeming endless formality everywhere. The Coroner's jury operates in relays, one group sleeping, while the other identifies and legalizes the wholesale human destruction of Wednesday.

At West Frankfort, four passed away and three bodies were recovered, sending the total there to 129—and so it was throughout the entire area of Mistery.

Morphine Supply Exhausted.

The great task before medical corps had, early today, practically exhausted the supply of morphine used to soothe hundreds of pain-wrecked men, women and children. Ether and chloroform supplies have diminished alarmingly with the performing of 200 operations.

An appeal for airplane delivery of these precious opiates and anaesthetics went out before dawn. But while surgeons and physicians sparingly apportioned their remaining supplies, a deeper fear was reflected in the possible attack of pestilence. The springing up of miles of tented homes and crudely constructed shacks, with sewage and sanitary conditions generally in a deplorable state, has provided a sound basis for these apprehensions.

Isolation has been resorted to and wherever a patient develops symptoms of disease, they are rushed out to these carefully patrolled outlying stations. Relief work among the 10,000 homeless in Missouri and Illinois, however, has settled down to systematical routine. Each stricken city has its emergency relief association, composed of local business men and civic organizations.

Distribute Clothing, Food.

Clothing and food, contributed and arriving by trainloads, are being distributed by the tireless forces of the gallant Salvation Army, churches, lodges and boy scouts.

Wearing apparel was grimly humorous. Women were dressed in odds and ends of clothing of both men and women. Men wrapped in women's coats and the remaining uninjured children prove a difficult problem in distinguishing sex. Small boys were wearing dainty little dresses and small girls were running about the tumbled ruins in trousers and caps. Occasionally a little group assembles and innocently trade garments.

Medical detachment 129th Infantry, Illinois national guard, with Major E. Lord, of Plano, in command, Captain A. J. Roberts, of Ottawa, assisting, has arrived and thrown its resources into medical relief bases.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 21—Ten refrigerator cars went forward from St. Louis today to the storm areas of Illinois at the request of undertakers to be used for storing the unidentified dead and the bodies of those who will be buried in other states. One hundred cases of embalming fluid and a hundred coffins were also sent from here.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 21. — Forward movements in the oil and specialty stocks was the principal feature of the stock market today. A few of the railroad and industrial stocks made further progress under the stimulus of short covering as also did public utility stocks and the copper shares.

Pan-American continued in the leadership of the oil stocks, its rise to 83 being accompanied by rumors that standard oil interests had bought substantially in the company with the Standard Oil of New York taking an interest in the California properties and the Standard of Indiana in the Mexican fields.

Grain and cotton markets were slightly lower at the opening. Continental exchanges showed a shrinkage in early quotations. Trading in the Wabash stocks and Chesapeake and Ohio was the feature of the railroad stock list. Demand for the former isb ased on expectations of the inauguration of dividends next Thursday. Speculative interest in Chesapeake and Ohio centers raound the determined fight being made by the minority stockholders to prevent the leasing and final amalgamation of the road with the new Nickle Plate system.

The higehr level of prices invited both profit taking and short covering and stocks were offered for sale more liberally in the second hour. The market was again reactionary and prices of the market leaders declined a point or more from the high level of the day, in some cases the decline also cutting out a part of Friday's rally.

BANKER IS GIVEN NEWSPAPER HIS GRANDFATHER LENT 77 YEARS AGO

Frank Crawford Sends Old Copy of Ohio Patriot to Thomas H. Fisher.

Thomas H. Fisher, active vice president of the First National Bank, received a newspaper a few days ago which his grandfather lent a neighbor more than 77 years ago.

Three-fourths of a century ago, Thomas Laughlin, grandfather of Mr. Fisher conducted a general store in the village of Fredericktown, located at the junction of the west and north forks of the Beaver Creek, nine miles north of here.

Mr. Laughlin was a subscriber of "The Ohio Patriot," a Democratic weekly, published at Lisbon, then known as New Lisbon. David Crawford, who operated the grist mill at Fredericktown for many years, borrowed Mr. Laughlin's paper, dated December 31, 1847, and for some unexplainable reason the paper was preserved among Mr. Crawford's possessions.

Mr. Crawford died a few years ago after celebrating his 90th birthday. His son, Frank Crawford, examining his father's possessions not long ago, found the paper, addresed in ink to Thomas Laughlin.

Realizing that the paper would be highly prized by Mr. Fisher, a grandson of the original owner, Mr. Crawford returned it to him. It is in an excellent state of preservation.

The paper carries an advertisement of the law firm, Umbstraetter, Stanton & Wallace, of Lisbon. Edwin Stanton, a member of the firm, was secretary of war during the administration of President Lincoln.

An advertisement, concerning the packet boat, "Caleb Cope," operating between Pittsburgh and Wellsville, is carried in the paper. Mahlon Martin was listed as being the Wellsville agent for the company.

Other methods of compiling the necessary data will be used, Hardman announced.

REFUSE DUMPED IN PLAYGROUND

Issuing a public warning to the effect that the municipal playground in Seventeenth street is not a dumping ground, police officials here and officers of the playground association today launched plans for bringing the practice to a termination.

Complaints were filed recently with authorities by officers of the association.

It is alleged that persons residing in the district have deposited cans, refuse of various kinds and in some instances garbage in certain portions of the playlot during the winter.

As a result, the city will be compelled to clean the place anew before it can be opened for the use of children this summer.

Police do not hesitate to announce that arrests will be made if further violations are reported.

Firemen Answer Call.

Canada Is Growing As Butter Producer; Report Is Issued

WINNIPEG, Man.—Growth of dairying and mixed farming increased the production of creamery butter in western Canada more than 8,000,000 pounds last year, a report issued by the department of agriculture shows. This was a gain in output of nearly a pound for every man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Total production of creamery butter in the prairie province in 1924, according to the report, was 4,582,804 pounds, with a value of $15,316,075, compared with 39,374,388 pounds worth $13,149,191 the year before.

Putting Brakes On Reckless Drivers

At least one reckless driver will not imperil pedestrians here for the next six months, for yesterday he was sentenced to pay a fine of $125 and costs—$100 on one count and $25 on another—and serve six months in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to charges of operating an automobile while intoxicated and also of driving his automotive vehicle past a street car while it was discharging passengers.

The two fines and jail term were meted out by Mayor Brown following an accident on Harvey avenue, East End, in which a street car conductor was knocked down and sustained a triple fracture of the left leg and other injuries.

The penalty, the maximum under the law, will do more to check the speed mania on the part of motor vehicle drivers and also convince them that whisky and gasoline are a dangerous combination than anything that has happened in police court during the last fifteen months.

The man who drives an automobile should have possession of his wits and keep his eyes on the road if other motorists and pedestrians are to be safeguarded. The driver who is under the influence of liquor is a menace to the safety of others who use the streets.

East Liverpool's contribution to the nation's appalling toll in traffic accidents will show a big decrease during 1925 if more maximum sentences are given "joy-riders" and others who seem to delight in "stepping on the gas."

The New Cable.

A new Atlantic cable, the first cable direct from America to Italy, has been completed and officially opened. This is of interest in many ways to two countries closely associated. It means better communication between the Old and New Worlds.

It means scientific progress, too. A new metal, "permalloy," is used. Wrapped about the usual copper core, it decreases resistance to electric currents and make possible the sending of messages at a speed eight times as fast as formerly.

This cable, and others to follow it under the sea to many lands, will be used, never fear, in spite of wireless stations and air mail. They mean certainty and privacy of transmission, and cheaper rates. Mankind, with the growing together of the world, will need all its means of intelligence, just as it will need both old and new means of transporting people and goods.

A Profitable Surrender

Even if the United States had a better case for holding the Isle of Pines than it did, the relinquishment of the island to Cuba would have been worth the sacrifice in its result upon Latin-American relations. The response of our Spanish and Portuguese neighbors has been quick and warm. Combined with boundary settlements in South America in which the United States had a hand, it has produced a remarkable outburst of good feeling.

"It would be difficult," says El Nacion, of Buenos Ayres, "to record days more auspicious for justice and the peace of America since the winning of independence." It sees in the surrender of the Isle of Pines, after possession a quarter of a century, "a definite and effective recognition of the rights of the weak." Such approval has not always attended the activities of the United States in the international affairs of this hemisphere.

"Confidence in our great sister republic," continues the Argentine paper, "is well merited and constitutes a foundation for continental security." It finds in this act of voluntary renunciation of a piece of territory small but valuable, on a basis of strict justice to a neighbor, proof of the value of the Monroe Doctrine. It is well worth while to win such a concession from republics that have long been suspicious and resentful of the policy that doctrine represents.

Good faith pays, internationally as individually. Now the senate probably wishes it had taken the step 20 years ago.

Handing the Flu Around

Dr. John Sundwall, of the University of Michigan health service, says the flu epidemic is due mainly to the friendly handshake.

"The infectious organisms of this group of diseases are present in the discharges from the nose and mouth," he explains, "and the average man's hands are contaminated with these secretions. A man who has the infection and whose hands are contaminated meets and shakes hands with a friend. Shortly the other's fingers go to his mouth, and the route of transmission is completed."

It may be futile to urge people to shake hands less, and to stay at home in strict privacy when they have the flu or any other highly contagious disease. There are still many who boast that they "don't believe in germs," and the rest are pretty careless. Nothing could suppress the aggressive "glad hand artist." But surely it is not too much to ask those suffering either from the flu or from "common colds" to wash their hands more frequently. That would help some.

A New York motorist is charged simultaneously with "driving without a license," "using false license plates," "driving while intoxicated," "speeding," "striking and instantly killing a pedestrian" and "fleeing from the scene of the accident." If that man isn't careful, he'll be getting into trouble one of these times.

Governmental processes are surprisingly alike in different countries. The British parliament votes the Prince of Wales $75,000 for a vacation trip and our congressmen vote themselves similar amounts for junketing trips.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New York's Air Terminal.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—New York city is seeking to become the greatest air port in the world and to this end is planning a grand central station of the air that will far outclass anything of the kind in Europe where commercial aviation is making its most notable progress.

As a first essential toward the consummation of these plans the business interests of the city are making a concerted drive to persuade the federal government to abandon the Governor's Island military post and cede the island back to the state of New York. The island, it is claimed, is ideally adaptable to aviation needs, affording ample landing facilities for land and sea planes, and for dirigibles as well, in the very heart of the metropolitan district. It can be made available for this purpose almost overnight and by the expenditure of an insignificant sum of money.

Governor's Island lies in New York bay, south of the Battery, and at the entrance to East river. It is separated from Brooklyn by Buttermilk channel. Three hundred years ago the island was 1,500 feet long and 900 feet wide with an elevation above high water of 20 feet and an area of about 100 acres. Now, however, its area is almost double that, there being a large expanse of built-up land at the southern end of the island that was constructed of silt and rock taken from the East river tunnel operations in 1901.

New Yorkers insist that the island was ceded to the government only that it might be used in the military defense of the city and that it has not been used for that purpose for generations, the fortifications that defend the city having been established at the entrance to the Narrows and along the shores of Long Island. Hence, they claim that the government should recede the island and make possible its use for aviation purposes.

War department and other government officials grant readily enough that the island is not used for defensive military purposes, but assert that it is none the less of importance as a military post whence troops can be rushed to the heart of New York in case of riots or similar disturbances. They also say they have not been convinced of its utility as an aviation terminal, claiming that fogs will render it frequently an extremely hazardous if not impossible landing place.

Thus there are numerous questions to be fought out and argued before committees of congress and probably on the floor of both house and senate.

An Historic Spot.

Governor's Island is rich in history and tradition. In 1621, under the name of Nutten Island, it was a station of the West India company. Later it was used as a residence by the colonial governors of New York, hence its present name. Wouter Van Twiller, in 1637, was the first governor to use the island as the seat of his country residence. In 1708 it was in use as a quarantine station, and in 1784 Governor George Clinton leased it to a company which developed it as a summer resort and race course.

Lord Cornbury in 1702 and Governor Hardy in 1756 urged the erection of batteries on the island, but no definite action was taken until 1794, when there were rumors of a war with France. Then the state appropriated a quarter of a million dollars for the construction of a fort and earthworks and the federal government appropriated $31,117. The money was expended in building Fort Jay in the center of the island.

Other sums were used later in improving the fort, but in 1807 the work ceased for six years and then with an expenditure of $30,000 the fort was faced with permanent masonry and changed from an enclosed work of earth and wood. It was called Fort Columbus and the designs for it, and for Castle Williams, were drawn by Jonathan Williams, Lafayette's chief engineer. The plans called for 104 guns for Fort Columbus and 100 guns for Castle Williams. The latter exists today practically as it was when completed in 1811. Its area is three-fifths of a circle that is 200 feet in diameter and its walls are 40 feet in height.

In 1861-65 Castle Williams was used as a prison for confederates, as many as 1,000 of them being held there at one time.

At the present time all the buildings on the island are either temporary in structure, or are from 80 to 100 years old and in need of repairs and alterations. Should the place be converted into an aviation field or terminal it is purposed to preserve the historic landmarks, Castle Williams and Fort Jay, as long as they will stand.

Great Air Ports Abroad.

London, Paris, Berlin all have great air ports that are being enlarged constantly as commercial aviation is being developed. Croydon, the air station of the English capital, has been added to several times within the last five years, and planes are coming and going daily between it and all important European centers. The transportation business centering there is said to run to thousands of passengers and hundreds of tons of freight, mail and express every month.

Le Bourget is not only the Paris airdrome for the business end of transportation by air, doubling every year the volume of business handled, but it is one of the principal bases for the defense of Paris that have been established since the World war. Berlin's air terminal is Templehof, and it is credited with a large share of the amazing growth of commercial flying in Central Europe.

A committee of the Merchants' association of New York has made an extensive survey of foreign air ports and of New York's needs in that line. Its experts say that of all the sites that have been considered Governor's Island is by far the most desirable, and that if it can be secured New York will have an air port superior in many respects to anything of the kind abroad.

The feature that recommends it chiefly is, of course, its location within a few minutes of the business and population centers of the city. Various efforts have been made to establish commercial flying in and out of New York, and all have failed because they have not been able to operate from points less than an hour out of the city. The business is there, but it cannot be developed because of inadequate and impracticable terminal facilities.

The trials and tribulations of the air mail service are cited as illustrating New York's needs. Mail planes from the west must fly over the city to Curtis Field far out on Long Island at Mineola. This can be done in daylight, but with the establishment of the new night mail between New York and Chicago the landing must be made near New Brunswick, in New Jersey, as night flying over the city cannot be hazarded.

Between the New York postoffice and Mineola the mail must be transported by trucks, with all the trouble and delays incident to the traffic congestion in the streets of the great city. From New Brunswick the mail will be brought into the city by train, necessitating its being handled additional times involving even greater delays.

In Europe the chief complaint directed against commercial flying is that while time is saved in the air, so much is lost getting to and from the terminals that in the end there is little gained. New Yorkers hope to profit from this lesson by establishing their air terminal on Governor's island, only a few hundred yards from the Battery.

Neighborhood News— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 21.—There is a saying in Paris that only Americans become drunk here. The only intoxicated person I have seen was a French peasant type who snarled up traffic in Place de la Bourse. He tried to stem the traffic and was rescued by a gendarme.

He sat on the curb awhile holding his whirling head and made another effort and was again deposited on the curb. What would have brought a clanging patrol wagon in New York became a sidewalk comedy. It actually became hilarious.

The gendarme laughed, the inebriate laughed and the populace howled as effort after effort was made to stagger through the jam. Finally a police inspector arrived on horseback. He, too, seemed to find humor in the situation and exchanged repartee with the drunk.

There was apparently no lese majeste when the offender grabbed the cap and club from the gendarme and attempted a Charlie Chaplin dance, yelling lustily "Charlot! Charlot!" as Chaplin is called here. Apparently it was going to become a question of endurance.

Only a sudden shower brought the travesty to an end and the cause of all the merriment lurched into a neighboring wine shop to refresh himself. One hears much unmitigated bunk about the manner in which France solves its drinking problem.

The most casual oberver would be convinced that the country would be far better off without liquor. New York in its hardest drinking days did not offer any more sodden, bleary eyed alcoholic exhibits. It is the custom of France to gloss over this decadence.

It is true many Frenchmen do not permit their indulgence to extend further than a glass of diluted wine with their meal or perhaps an aperitif in the evening. But this class is in a minority. France drinks deep and recklessly.

The wandering epicure will find his ideal in the restaurant Montaigne in Rue de 'Echelle. It is in an ancient building. Gluttony here seems to transcend a deadly sin and becomes a cardinal virtue. The exterior of a restaurant here is deceiving. The gaudy palaces usually serve wretched messes. But those that look as though they were dozing in a rut of mediocre food offer the best viands. At the open fireplace meats roast on the spit. Fish pie is the specialty with a very mild Burgundy and finally brandy served in delicately flanged glasses a foot wide from brim to bram so that the gourmet may inhale the aroma as he slowly sips the drink.

This afternoon I went to see the fashion parade at Patou's. He has six young American girls as mannikins. The one that is creating the biggest sensation is Carolyn Putnam, who happens to be a chum of my adorable little cousin in New York. Carolyn is an unspoiled beautiful child and without the artifice of cosmetics outshone the entire group. She has already been besieged with offers from New York beauty revue producers which shows that sometimes one must go away from home to be appreciated.

Patou in person was there. With an apple green shirt and collar to match. High heeled shoes with red tops. A gardenia in his lapel and white ribbon bows for cuff links. Tres jolie!

The gentleman who is growing gray handling my trifling business affairs in New York cabled today: "How long do you expect to remain in France?" I merely wired him for money and let it go at that. Anyway if he fires me I have been offered a job on a French newspaper at the magnificent salary of 320 francs a week—which is almost $20 in real money. However, I don't expect to tarry much longer. I'm getting homesick to see my dog. And I'm rather bored with itching palms on every turn. France is becoming a nation of beggars.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By WALTER DIETZEL.

BERLIN, March 21.—Germany is going to remain "wet." The reichstag passed a resolution against wholesale prohibition, but demanding that measures should be taken to control further issue of licenses and that persons under age should be protested against any abuse of alsoholic drinks.

"Dries," as well as "wets," greed that wholesale prohibition would not be good for the German nation, since it might result in bootlegging and secret drinking.

A Nationalist deputy, speaking in favor of the resolution, pointed out that there was no doubt the wholesome effect of the campaign against alcohol in America, and complained that the German newspapers do not like to print stories sympathizing with prohibition. At the same time he emphasized the fact that wholesale prohibition would not be the "ideal thing," for "personal freedom should not be interfered with by such drastic measures."

Wilhelmshaven, once one of the most formidable naval strongholds on the European continent, today is the largest "ship cemetery" in the world—a striking symbol of Germany's naval defenselessness.

Within the last five years no fewer than 230 old men-of-war and merchantmen from all parts of the world have been dismantled at Wilhelmshaven dockyards, and about half a million tons of scrap-metal were realized.

Among the "deceased" vessels were a dozen former German warships, including the kaiser's famous yacht Hohenzollern, but the majority of them were foreign ships, including half a dozen British warships of the Nelson class and the United States freighter Minnesota, the biggest freighter in the world 20 years ago. During the war the Minnesota was used as a troop carrier, with accommodations one each trip for 6,000 officers and men.

The boom of the German scrapping business is over now. It was one of the few branches of business that flourished during the inflation period. The stabilization of the mark, entailing higher costs of tugging the "dead" craft into port, and higher wages rendered scrapping in Germany more expensive than scrapping abroad, is that the foreign shipping agencies stopped further orders.

Within the last year 3,700 German women have been kidnaped and taken to resorts in France, the United States, South America and the Balkans by international white slave traders, according to statistics issued by the government of the Prussian province of Schleswig.

Influential circles are preparing for a campaign in favor of a bill demanding death sentences for white slave traders. The paragraph reads:

"Whoever kidnaps a woman against her will by a ruse, making threats, or by force, in order to use her for immoral purposes; likewise, whoever is found guilty as an accessory in such cases, will be sentenced to death."

Recently a white slave trader was arrested while attempting to cross the Dutch border, tried and found guilty of kidnaping 50 girls between 17 and 18. A letter found in his possession reads, in part, as follows:

". . . those five girls are en route to New York. Safe aboard. Will arrive safely. Hamburg was literally swamped with detectives, but we got the girls through. Bit of hard work, too. Two of them almost gave us away by crying all the time; but, you know . . does them good in such cases. I sent the girls to Frisco. There they may cry for mother and father as much as they please.

"In case you should have more 'goods,' send them right away to Hamburg, slave bourse. Check en route . . ."

"It would be difficult," says El Nacion, of Buenos Ayres, "to record days more auspicious for justice and the peace of America since the winning of independence." It sees in the surrender of the Isle of Pines, after possession a quarter of a century, "a definite and effective recognition of the rights of the weak." Such approval has not always attended the activities of the United States in the international affairs of this hemisphere.

"Confidence in our great sister republic," continues the Argentine paper, "is well merited and constitutes a foundation for continental security." It finds in this act of voluntary renunciation of a piece of territory small but valuable, on a basis of strict justice to a neighbor, proof of the value of the Monroe Doctrine. It is well worth while to win such a concession from republics that have long been suspicious and resentful of the policy that doctrine represents.

Good faith pays, internationally as individually. Now the senate probably wishes it had taken the step 20 years ago.

Handing the Flu Around

Dr. John Sundwall, of the University of Michigan health service, says the flu epidemic is due mainly to the friendly handshake.

"The infectious organisms of this group of diseases are present in the discharges from the nose and mouth," he explains, "and the average man's hands are contaminated with these secretions. A man who has the infection and whose hands are contaminated meets and shakes hands with a friend. Shortly the other's fingers go to his mouth, and the route of transmission is completed."

It may be futile to urge people to shake hands less, and to stay at home in strict privacy when they have the flu or any other highly contagious disease. There are still many who boast that they "don't believe in germs," and the rest are pretty careless. Nothing could suppress the aggressive "glad hand artist." But surely it is not too much to ask those suffering either from the flu or from "common colds" to wash their hands more frequently. That would help some.

A New York motorist is charged simultaneously with "driving without a license," "using false license plates," "driving while intoxicated," "speeding," "striking and instantly killing a pedestrian" and "fleeing from the scene of the accident." If that man isn't careful, he'll be getting into trouble one of these times.

Governmental processes are surprisingly alike in different countries. The British parliament votes the Prince of Wales $75,000 for a vacation trip and our congressmen vote themselves similar amounts for junketing trips.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New York's Air Terminal.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—New York city is seeking to become the greatest air port in the world and to this end is planning a grand central station of the air that will far outclass anything of the kind in Europe where commercial aviation is making its most notable progress.

As a first essential toward the consummation of these plans the business interests of the city are making a concerted drive to persuade the federal government to abandon the Governor's Island military post and cede the island back to the state of New York. The island, it is claimed, is ideally adaptable to aviation needs, affording ample landing facilities for land and sea planes, and for dirigibles as well, in the very heart of the metropolitan district. It can be made available for this purpose almost overnight and by the expenditure of an insignificant sum of money.

Governor's Island lies in New York bay, south of the Battery, and at the entrance to East river. It is separated from Brooklyn by Buttermilk channel. Three hundred years ago the island was 1,500 feet long and 900 feet wide with an elevation above high water of 20 feet and an area of about 100 acres. Now, however, its area is almost double that, there being a large expanse of built-up land at the southern end of the island that was constructed of silt and rock taken from the East river tunnel operations in 1901.

New Yorkers insist that the island was ceded to the government only that it might be used in the military defense of the city and that it has not been used for that purpose for generations, the fortifications that defend the city having been established at the entrance to the Narrows and along the shores of Long Island. Hence, they claim that the government should recede the island and make possible its use for aviation purposes.

War department and other government officials grant readily enough that the island is not used for defensive military purposes, but assert that it is none the less of importance as a military post whence troops can be rushed to the heart of New York in case of riots or similar disturbances. They also say they have not been convinced of its utility as an aviation terminal, claiming that fogs will render it frequently an extremely hazardous if not impossible landing place.

Thus there are numerous questions to be fought out and argued before committees of congress and probably on the floor of both house and senate.

An Historic Spot.

Governor's Island is rich in history and tradition. In 1621, under the name of Nutten Island, it was a station of the West India company. Later it was used as a residence by the colonial governors of New York, hence its present name. Wouter Van Twiller, in 1637, was the first governor to use the island as the seat of his country residence. In 1708 it was in use as a quarantine station, and in 1784 Governor George Clinton leased it to a company which developed it as a summer resort and race course.

Lord Cornbury in 1702 and Governor Hardy in 1756 urged the erection of batteries on the island, but no definite action was taken until 1794, when there were rumors of a war with France. Then the state appropriated a quarter of a million dollars for the construction of a fort and earthworks and the federal government appropriated $31,117. The money was expended in building Fort Jay in the center of the island.

Other sums were used later in improving the fort, but in 1807 the work ceased for six years and then with an expenditure of $30,000 the fort was faced with permanent masonry and changed from an enclosed work of earth and wood. It was called Fort Columbus and the designs for it, and for Castle Williams, were drawn by Jonathan Williams, Lafayette's chief engineer. The plans called for 104 guns for Fort Columbus and 100 guns for Castle Williams. The latter exists today practically as it was when completed in 1811. Its area is three-fifths of a circle that is 200 feet in diameter and its walls are 40 feet in height.

In 1861-65 Castle Williams was used as a prison for confederates, as many as 1,000 of them being held there at one time.

At the present time all the buildings on the island are either temporary in structure, or are from 80 to 100 years old and in need of repairs and alterations. Should the place be converted into an aviation field or terminal it is purposed to preserve the historic landmarks, Castle Williams and Fort Jay, as long as they will stand.

Great Air Ports Abroad.

London, Paris, Berlin all have great air ports that are being enlarged constantly as commercial aviation is being developed. Croydon, the air station of the English capital, has been added to several times within the last five years, and planes are coming and going daily between it and all important European centers. The transportation business centering there is said to run to thousands of passengers and hundreds of tons of freight, mail and express every month.

Le Bourget is not only the Paris airdrome for the business end of transportation by air, doubling every year the volume of business handled, but it is one of the principal bases for the defense of Paris that have been established since the World war. Berlin's air terminal is Templehof, and it is credited with a large share of the amazing growth of commercial flying in Central Europe.

A committee of the Merchants' association of New York has made an extensive survey of foreign air ports and of New York's needs in that line. Its experts say that of all the sites that have been considered Governor's Island is by far the most desirable, and that if it can be secured New York will have an air port superior in many respects to anything of the kind abroad.

The feature that recommends it chiefly is, of course, its location within a few minutes of the business and population centers of the city. Various efforts have been made to establish commercial flying in and out of New York, and all have failed because they have not been able to operate from points less than an hour out of the city. The business is there, but it cannot be developed because of inadequate and impracticable terminal facilities.

The trials and tribulations of the air mail service are cited as illustrating New York's needs. Mail planes from the west must fly over the city to Curtis Field far out on Long Island at Mineola. This can be done in daylight, but with the establishment of the new night mail between New York and Chicago the landing must be made near New Brunswick, in New Jersey, as night flying over the city cannot be hazarded.

Between the New York postoffice and Mineola the mail must be transported by trucks, with all the trouble and delays incident to the traffic congestion in the streets of the great city. From New Brunswick the mail will be brought into the city by train, necessitating its being handled additional times involving even greater delays.

In Europe the chief complaint directed against commercial flying is that while time is saved in the air, so much is lost getting to and from the terminals that in the end there is little gained. New Yorkers hope to profit from this lesson by establishing their air terminal on Governor's island, only a few hundred yards from the Battery.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 21.—There is a saying in Paris that only Americans become drunk here. The only intoxicated person I have seen was a French peasant type who snarled up traffic in Place de la Bourse. He tried to stem the traffic and was rescued by a gendarme.

He sat on the curb awhile holding his whirling head and made another effort and was again deposited on the curb. What would have brought a clanging patrol wagon in New York became a sidewalk comedy. It actually became hilarious.

The gendarme laughed, the inebriate laughed and the populace howled as effort after effort was made to stagger through the jam. Finally a police inspector arrived on horseback. He, too, seemed to find humor in the situation and exchanged repartee with the drunk.

There was apparently no lese majeste when the offender grabbed the cap and club from the gendarme and attempted a Charlie Chaplin dance, yelling lustily "Charlot! Charlot!" as Chaplin is called here. Apparently it was going to become a question of endurance.

Only a sudden shower brought the travesty to an end and the cause of all the merriment lurched into a neighboring wine shop to refresh himself. One hears much unmitigated bunk about the manner in which France solves its drinking problem.

The most casual oberver would be convinced that the country would be far better off without liquor. New York in its hardest drinking days did not offer any more sodden, bleary eyed alcoholic exhibits. It is the custom of France to gloss over this decadence.

It is true many Frenchmen do not permit their indulgence to extend further than a glass of diluted wine with their meal or perhaps an aperitif in the evening. But this class is in a minority. France drinks deep and recklessly.

The wandering epicure will find his ideal in the restaurant Montaigne in Rue de Echelle. It is in an ancient building. Gluttony here seems to transcend a deadly sin and become a cardinal virtue. The exterior of a restaurant here is deceiving. The gaudy palaces usually serve wretched messes. But those that look as though they were dozing in a rut of mediocre food offer the best viands. At the open fireplace meats roast on the spit. Fish pie is the specialty with a very mild Burgundy and finally brandy served in delicately flanged glasses a foot wide from brim to brim so that the gourmet may inhale the aroma as he slowly sips the drink.

This afternoon I went to see the fashion parade at Patou's. He has six young American girls as mannikins. The one that is creating the biggest sensation is Carolyn Putnam, who happens to be a chum of my adorable little cousin in New York. Carolyn is an unspoiled beautiful child and without the artifice of cosmetics outshone the entire group. She has already been besieged with offers from New York beauty revue producers which shows that sometimes one must go away from home to be appreciated.

Patou in person was there. With an apple green shirt and collar to match. High heeled shoes with red tops. A gardenia in his lapel and white ribbon bows for cuff links. Tres jolie!

The gentleman who is growing gray handling my trifling business affairs in New York cabled today: "How long do you expect to remain in France?" I merely wired him for money and let it go at that. Anyway if he fires me I have been offered a job on a French newspaper at the magnificent salary of 320 francs a week—which is almost $20 in real money. However, I don't expect to tarry much longer. I'm getting homesick to see my dog. And I'm rather bored with itching palms on every turn. France is becoming a nation of beggars.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By WALTER DIETZEL.

BERLIN, March 21.—Germany is going to remain "wet." The reichstag passed a resolution against wholesale prohibition, but demanding that measures should be taken to control further issue of licenses and that persons under age should be protested against any abuse of alsoholic drinks.

"Dries," as well as "wets," greed that wholesale prohibition would not be good for the German nation, since it might result in bootlegging and secret drinking.

A Nationalist deputy, speaking in favor of the resolution, pointed out that there was no doubt the wholesome effect of the campaign against alcohol in America, and complained that the German newspapers do not like to print stories sympathizing with prohibition. At the same time he emphasized the fact that wholesale prohibition would not be the "ideal thing," for "personal freedom should not be interfered with by such drastic measures."

Wilhelmshaven, once one of the most formidable naval strongholds on the European continent, today is the largest "ship cemetery" in the world—a striking symbol of Germany's naval defenselessness.

Within the last five years no fewer than 230 old men-of-war and merchantmen from all parts of the world have been dismantled at Wilhelmshaven dockyards, and about half a million tons of scrap-metal were realized.

Among the "deceased" vessels were a dozen former German warships, including the kaiser's famous yacht Hohenzollern, but the majority of them were foreign ships, including half a dozen British warships of the Nelson class and the United States freighter Minnesota, the biggest freighter in the world 20 years ago. During the war the Minnesota was used as a troop carrier, with accommodations one each trip for 6,000 officers and men.

The boom of the German scrapping business is over now. It was one of the few branches of business that flourished during the inflation period. The stabilization of the mark, entailing higher costs of tugging the "dead" craft into port, and higher wages rendered scrapping in Germany more expensive than scrapping abroad, [illegible] that the foreign shipping agencies stopped further orders.

Within the last year 3,700 German women have been kidnaped and taken to resorts in France, the United States, South America and the Balkans by international white slave traders, according to statistics issued by the government of the Prussian province of Schleswig.

Influential circles are preparing for a campaign in favor of a bill demanding death sentences for white slave traders. The paragraph reads:

"Whoever kidnaps a woman against her will by a ruse, making threats, or by force, in order to use her for immoral purposes; likewise, whoever is found guilty as an accessory in such cases, will be sentenced to death."

Recently a white slave trader was arrested while attempting to cross the Dutch border, tried and found guilty of kidnaping 50 girls between 17 and 18. A letter found in his possession reads, in part, as follows:

". . . those five girls are en route to New York. Safe aboard. Will arrive safely. Hamburg was literally swamped with detectives, but we got the girls through. Bit of hard work, too. Two of them almost gave us away by crying all the time; but, you know . . . does them good in such cases. I sent the girls to Frisco. There they may cry for mother and father as much as they please.

"In case you should have more 'goods,' send them right away to Hamburg, slave bourse. Check en route . . ."

Urge Participation In Music Memory Contest in Ohio

Mrs. C. H. Risinger, East Liverpool, president of the East Liverpool, Symphony club, has been asked by the Ohio Federation of Music clubs of which Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley is the president, to arrange for local participation in the music memory contest to be held in Columbus in connection with the convention of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs and the Ohio State Music Teacher's association, April 20-24. The date of the contest is Wednesday, April 22.

This music memory contest takes the place of the one under the auspices of the state department of music held last year and the year before. It stresses American music and American composers. All groups of young folks whether in or out of school are eligible to enter the contest.

The regulations provide that the local committee should furnish at least two disinterested judges who could grade the examination papers at the local elimination contests. The local clubs may conduct their elimination contests according to their own plans but it is advisable to follow the state plan so that the winners will not be at a disadvantage. In the state contest brief portions of the several numbers will be played and the contestant will be given a period of approximately one minute and a half to write down the name of the composition, the name of the composer and his nationality. Ties will be worked off in the same manner by decreasing the number of measures of the selection played and the length of time allowed for making a record of the contestants' answers.

This year it has been arranged that the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will broadcast all the numbers from Cincinnati Broadcasting stations sometime in the early spring.

Each local organization is to hold elimination contests so that it may send to Columbus its two most proficient students. In Columbus the winners will contest for state honors and state prizes.

A WORD FOR BEGINNERS.

The best way to solve a cross-word puzzle is to run quickly over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms and compare them to the spaces in the puzzle extending crosswise or downward from the number of the synonym. Some word which will just fit in the number of space available will quickly occur to you in some instances, giving you a foundation from which to solve the more difficult words. The words must interlock perfectly.

Urge Participation In Music Memory Contest in Ohio

Mrs. C. H. Risinger, East Liverpool, president of the East Liverpool, Symphony club, has been asked by the Ohio Federation of Music clubs of which Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley is the president, to arrange for local participation in the music memory contest to be held in Columbus in connection with the convention of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs and the Ohio State Music Teacher's association, April 20-24. The date of the contest is Wednesday, April 22.

This music memory contest takes the place of the one under the auspices of the state department of music held last year and the year before. It stresses American music and American composers. All groups of young folks whether in or out of school are eligible to enter the contest.

The regulations provide that the local committee should furnish at least two disinterested judges who could grade the examination papers at the local elimination contests. The local clubs may conduct their elimination contests according to their own plans but it is advisable to follow the state plan so that the winners will not be at a disadvantage. In the state contest brief portions of the several numbers will be played and the contestant will be given a period of approximately one minute and a half to write down the name of the composition, the name of the composer and his nationality. Ties will be worked off in the same manner by decreasing the number of measures of the selection played and the length of time allowed for making a record of the contestants' answers.

This year it has been arranged that the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will broadcast all the numbers from Cincinnati Broadcasting stations sometime in the early spring.

Each local organization is to hold elimination contests so that it may send to Columbus its two most proficient students. In Columbus the winners will contest for state honors and state prizes.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

COST OF FRESH AIR CAMP $1,884

Report is Compiled by Officers of Health League.

Reports just compiled disclose that $1,884.70 was the cost of the Columbiana County Fresh Air Camp conducted during July and August last year on the George Farm in Madison township.

The county highway department furnished trucks to carry the equipment to the camp before it was opened, while groceries and other articles were delivered at the camp daily by the county nurse.

Children who were cared for during the two months of camp consumed 589 gallons of pure milk, 34 pints of cream and 142 dozen of eggs were also used during the season.

Kitchen and dining room building is owned and was used formerly by the Boy Scouts, but this equipment was loaned to those in charge of the Fresh Air camp last season. The new equipment purchased last season for this camp included certain cooking utensils, blankets and towels and play supplies. Only $14.55 was spent for drugs during the entire camp season.

All material for craft work was donated to the Fresh Air camp last season, and other donations included a large American Flag and a phonograph. The average cost of food for the 55 days of the camp has been placed at $11.40 while the cost of food per capita has been placed at 39.2 cents. For the care of 34 individuals cared for at the camp the cost per capita during the camp period was $18.44.

Four children were dismissed from the camp during the season, and eight children were admitted late in the season.

All children gained in weight while they were in camp, the greatest gain being nine and one-quarter pounds by one youngster. The average gain in weight has been placed at 4.5 pounds. Six children reached normal weight.

One child is reported to have lost one pound in weight, but the report explains that there is a possibility that her weight at the time she was received at the camp might have been in error.

Arrangements for a fresh air camp this year are now in the making. It is quite likely that the camp will again be established on the same farm as last year, and will be under the direction of the Columbiana County Public Health League.

MANY CASES WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Fifty cases will be investigated by the grand jury which will begin its April session two weeks from Monday next, which indicates that the work of the jury will prove to be heavier than for several years. Additional transcripts are being filed daily from the lower courts with Clerk of Courts John T. Burns, and it is probable that Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes will probe a number of special cases outside of those begun in the courts below.

Junk Dealer Fined

Charged with operating two trucks with one set of license plates, Meyer Pazer a junk dealer of East Palestine was caught up by Deputy Sheriff Henry Burbon and taken to Lisbon where he paid $25 and costs on two charges.

Peach Crop Damaged.

The entire peach crop in Columbiana has been damaged in the opinion of state horticultural experts who have recently visited this county. The crop in other parts of Ohio has not been harmed, these experts assert.

Marriage License.

A marriage license has been issued to James Collen of Alliance and Miss Esther Wuthrick, formerly of Deerfield, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wuthrick of this county. They are to be married at Alliance by Rev. Mr. Tate.

To Make Address.

The Rev. H. L. Miller, pastor of the Christian church, Salem, has been secured to make an address at the annual dinner of the Lisbon Driving club which is to be held in the Knights of Pythias rooms the evening of March 31.

Judge Moore Improving.

The condition of Judge James G. Moore continues to show some improvement. He is still confined to his home in East Washington street, but he will be unable to look after court work for several days.

Court Baliff Bernard Sultner is also confined to his home with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Taken Into Custody.

W. L. Ways, residing just over the state line on the Cox highway, was arrested at West Point shortly after midnight this morning by Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter and taken to Lisbon, where a charge was to be preferred against him for driving a car while intoxicated.

Property Transfers.

Real estate transfers have been recorded as follows:

Jonas Goodman to William H. Cobbs lot 43 Waterworth's addition, Salem, $2,500.

John R. Sauce to Laura L. Linderman, 1 acre section 14 Unity township, $1.00.

SELECT EXPO BUILDING SITE

Plan Ohio Structure at Philadelphia Celebration.

Ohio will erect a building, costing $150,000, to represent this state at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition to be held at Philadelphia in 1926, if the recommendations of a committee of state legislators, of which Ralph W. Emmons of this city, is secretary, is adopted.

The committee, in addition to Emmons, includes Senator John M. Vorys of Columbus, Senator J. Lowrie Miller of Middletown and Representative M. K. Johnston of Selby, has returned from Philadelphia, where they conferred with the centennial committee regarding a location for the Ohio building.

The site tentatively selected adjoins the location recently picked by New Jersey, which will erect a building estimated to cost $100,000. The Ohio society of Philadelphia will assist th elegislature in plans for the Buckeye state building.

The Ohio legislature has gone on record as favoring a building at the centennial celebration, although it has not acted on the committee's recommendation regarding the site and the cost of the structure. The proposed building will be devoted to a display of the state's accomplishments in welfare work, education, etc., according to Representative Johnson. The recommendations of the committee call for an appropriation of $150,000.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave under orders of King James. He is bought by Colonel Bishop, the military commander, and falls in love with Arabella, the niece of the colonel. Spaniards bombard the city and sack it. Blood saves Arabella and Mary Traill. He captures the ship and sails for Tortuga, the rendezvous of buccaneers of the Spanish Main. There Captain Blood, tormented by his fear that he will never see Arabella again and importuned by his comrades, takes command of a pirate fleet. Levasseur, a Frenchman, enlists under him. Levasseur captures a Dutch vessel and lands with Madelon d'Ogeron, daughter of the Dutch governor, and her brother on one of the Virgin Islands. There he demands ransom for d'Ogeron and holds Madelon as hostage. Upon this scene enters Captain Blood whose ship had lost sight of Levasseur's vessel in the storm.

CHAPTER XV—Continued

"Not so." Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own—a personal matter. They are Freneh."

"You do not take her while I live," he cried.

"French!" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at the prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

The prisoner answered for him.

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"D'Ogeron?" Captain Blood stared. "Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saints preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this lady and this gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that admit no ambiguities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the prizes taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I gather, the lady is to be your perquisite. But why should she be your perquisite more than another's, seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no Ye've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are ultimately to come to you as the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

That Captain Blood should dare oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's mind But he did not reckon on the cupidity of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added:

"Then let some one buy the prisoners who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"I have," said Captain Blood.

"You have!" Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand and Cahusac appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur in his anger sprang at Cahusac, and a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur, his hand on his sword, his face a white mask of rage, confronted Captain Blood.

"You do not take her while I live!" he cried.

"Then I'll take her when you're dead," said Captain Blood, and his own blade flashed in the sunlight.

It was soon over. When, with both lungs transfixed, he lay prone on the white sand, coughing out his rascally life, Captain Blood looked calmly at Cahusac across the body.

"I think that cancels the articles between us," he said

With soulless, cynical eyes Cahusac and his mates considered the twitching body of their recent leader. Captain Blood had brought them to find Levasseur guilty of the one offense they deemed unpardonable, the crime of appropriating to himself something which might be converted into gold and shared amongst them all Whilst still they hesitated, Blood added something to quicken their decision.

"If you will come to our anchorage, you shall receive at once your share of the booty of the Santiago, that you may dispose of it as you please."

They crossed the island, the two prisoners accompanying them, and later that day, the division made, they would have parted company but that Cahusac, at the instances of the men who had elected him Levasseur's successor, offered Captain Blood anew the services of that French contingent.

"If you will sail with me again," the Captain answered him, "you may do so on the condition that you make your peace with the Dutch, and restore the brig and her cargo."

The condition was accepted, and Captain Blood went off to find his guests, the children of the Governor of Tortuga.

Mademoiselle d'Ogeron and her brother—the latter now relieved of his bonds—sat in the great cabin of the Arabella, whither they had been conducted. He doffed his feathered hat, and came forward to the table.

"Mademoiselle," said he in his vile but fluent French, "I beg you to dismiss your fears. Aboard this ship you shall be treated with all honor. So soon as we are in case to put to sea again, we steer a course for Tortuga to take you home to your father. And pray do not consider that I have bought you. Count it, if you please, a friendly loan to be repaid entirely at your convenience."

Mademoiselle stared at him in unbelief.

"Oh, you are noble!"

Captain Blood sighed. For the whole truth, which he withheld from Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, was that in venturing his life to save her, he had been driven by the thought that the deed must be pleasing in the eyes of Miss Bishop could she but witness it.

COST OF FRESH AIR CAMP $1,884

Report is Compiled by Officers of Health League.

Reports just compiled disclose that $1,884.70 was the cost of the Columbiana County Fresh Air Camp conducted during July and August last year on the George Farm in Madison township.

The county highway department furnished trucks to carry the equipment to the camp before it was opened, while groceries and other articles were delivered at the camp daily by the county nurse.

Children who were cared for during the two months of camp consumed 589 gallons of pure milk, 34 pints of cream and 142 dozen of eggs were also used during the season.

Kitchen and dining room building is owned and was used formerly by the Boy Scouts, but this equipment was loaned to those in charge of the Fresh Air camp last season. The new equipment purchased last season for this camp included certain cooking utensils, blankets and towels and play supplies. Only $14.55 was spent for drugs during the entire camp season.

All material for craft work was donated to the Fresh Air camp last season, and other donations included a large American Flag and a phonograph. The average cost of food for the 55 days of the camp has been placed at $11.40 while the cost of food per capita has been placed at 39.2 cents. For the care of 34 individuals cared for at the camp the cost per capita during the camp period was $18.44.

Four children were dismissed from the camp during the season, and eight children were admitted late in the season.

All children gained in weight while they were in camp, the greatest gain being nine and one-quarter pounds by one youngster. The average gain in weight has been placed at 4.5 pounds. Six children reached normal weight.

One child is reported to have lost one pound in weight, but the report explains that there is a possibility that her weight at the time she was received at the camp might have been in error.

Arrangements for a fresh air camp this year are now in the making. It is quite likely that the camp will again be established on the same farm as last year, and will be under the direction of the Columbiana County Public Health League.

MANY CASES WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Fifty cases will be investigated by the grand jury which will begin its April session two weeks from Monday next, which indicates that the work of the jury will prove to be heavier than for several years. Additional transcripts are being filed daily from the lower courts with Clerk of Courts John T. Burns, and it is probable that Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes will probe a number of special cases outside of those begun in the courts below.

SELECT EXPO BUILDING SITE

Plan Ohio Structure at Philadelphia Celebration.

Ohio will erect a building, costing $150,000, to represent this state at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition to be held at Philadelphia in 1926, if the recommendations of a committee of state legislators, of which Ralph W. Emmons of this city, is secretary, is adopted.

The committee, in addition to Emmons, includes Senator John M. Vorys of Columbus, Senator J. Lowrie Miller of Middletown and Representative M. K. Johnston of Selby, has returned from Philadelphia, where they conferred with the centenntial committee regarding a location for the Ohio building.

The site tentatively selected adjoins the location recently picked by New Jersey, which will erect a building estimated to cost $160,000. The Ohio society of Philadelphia will assist th elegislature in plans for the Buckeye state building.

The Ohio legislature has gone on record as favoring a building at the centennial celebration, although it has not acted on the committee's recommendation regarding the site and the cost of the structure. The proposed building will be devoted to a display of the state's accomplishments in welfare work, education, etc., according to Representative Johnson. The recommendations of the committee call for an appropriation of $150,000.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

By RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave under orders of King James. He is bought by Colonel Bishop, the military commander, and falls in love with Arabella, the niece of the colonel. Spaniards bombard the city and sack it. Blood saves Arabella and Mary Traill. He captures the ship and sails for Tortuga, the rendezvous of buccaneers of the Spanish Main. There Captain Blood, tormented by his fear that he will never see Arabella again and importuned by his comrades, takes command of a pirate fleet. Levasseur, a Frenchman, enlists under him. Levasseur captures a Dutch vessel and lands with Madelon d'Ogeron, daughter of the Dutch governor, and her brother on one of the Virgin Islands. There he demands ransom for d'Ogeron and holds Madelon as hostage. Upon this scene enters Captain Blood whose ship had lost sight of Levasseur's vessel in the storm.

"Not so." Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own—a personal matter. They are Freneh."

"You do not take her while I live," he cried.

"French!" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at the prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

The prisoner answered for him.

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"D'Ogeron?" Captain Blood started. "Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saints preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this lady and this gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that admit no ambiguities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the prizes taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I gather, the lady is to be your perquisite. But why should she be your perquisite more than another's, seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no Ye've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are ultimately to come to you as the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

That Captain Blood should dare oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's mind But he did not reckon on the cupidity of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added:

"Then let some one buy the prisoners who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"I have," said Captain Blood.

"You have!" Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand and Cahusac appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur in his anger sprang at Cahusac, and a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur, his hand on his sword, his face a white mask of rage, confronted Captain Blood.

"You do not take her while I live!" he cried.

"Then I'll take her when you're dead," said Captain Blood, and his own blade flashed in the sunlight.

It was soon over. When, with both lungs transfixed, he lay prone on the white sand, coughing out his rascally life, Captain Blood looked calmly at Cahusac across the body.

"I think that cancels the articles between us," he said.

With soulless, cynical eyes Cahusac and his mates considered the twitching body of their recent leader. Captain Blood had brought them to find Levasseur guilty of the one offense they deemed unpardonable, the crime of appropriating to himself something which might be converted into gold and shared amongst them all Whilst still they hesitated, Blood added something to quicken their decision.

"If you will come to our anchorage, you shall receive at once your share of the booty of the Santiago, that you may dispose of it as you please."

They crossed the island, the two prisoners accompanying them, and later that day, the division made, they would have parted company but that Cahusac, at the instances of the men who had elected him Levasseur's successor, offered Captain Blood anew the services of that French contingent.

"If you will sail with me again," the Captain answered him, "you may do so on the condition that you make your peace with the Dutch, and restore the brig and her cargo."

The condition was accepted, and Captain Blood went off to find his guests, the children of the Governor of Tortuga.

Mademoiselle d'Ogeron and her brother—the latter now relieved of his bonds—sat in the great cabin of the Arabella, whither they had been conducted. He doffed his feathered hat, and came forward to the table.

"Mademoiselle," said he in his vile but fluent French, "I beg you to dismiss your fears. Aboard this ship you shall be treated with all honor. So soon as we are in case to put to sea again, we steer a course for Tortuga to take you home to your father. And pray do not consider that I have bought you. Count it, if you please, a friendly loan to be repaid entirely at your convenience."

Mademoiselle stared at him in unbelief.

"Oh, you are noble!"

Captain Blood sighed. For the whole truth, which he withheld from Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, was that in venturing his life to save her, he had been driven by the thought that the deed must be pleasing in the eyes of Miss Bishop could she but witness it.

STATE SCHOOL LAWS DEBATED

Lower House Kills Two Measures Armed at Changes.

School problems furnished most of the legislative fireworks yesterday and provided enough ground for debate so that the house of delegates did not reach the end of the calanedar before adjourning over the week end. Meantime the senate had wound up its schedule of the day's work and it was also adjourned until Monday afternoon.

Bills affecting the compulsory school law and a new law to require teaching of the effects of alcohol in the schools stirred the orafórical efforts of the delegates. When a bill to clarify the law as to school attendance came up on the amendment stage an effort was made by Delegate David Van Sickle of Preston county to change the age up to which compulsory school attendance is required from 16 to 15 years. Chairman Deuley of the committee on education and other members spoke against the move and the vote of the house defeated the proposal. Delegate S. R. King of Nicholas county then offered a proposal in behalf of agricultural districts that instead of requiring attendance for the full term attendance for 120 days should be compulsory, but this proposal also was defeated.

Minority Leader Read offered an amendment to the bill requiring the teaching of the effects of alcohol which would have exempted private and parochial schools from its provisions, but Delegates Bayer, Edwards, Cogar and Robinson voiced their disapproval and a standing vote defeated the amendment.

STATE SCHOOL LAWS DEBATED

Lower House Kills Two Measures Armed at Changes.

School problems furnished most of the legislative fireworks yesterday and provided enough ground for debate so that the house of delegates did not reach the end of the calanedar before adjourning over the week end. Meantime the senate had wound up its schedule of the day's work and it was also adjourned until Monday afternoon.

Bills affecting the compulsory school law and a new law to require teaching of the effects of alcohol in the schools stirred the oratorical efforts of the delegates. When a bill to clarify the law as to school attendance came up on the amendment stage an effort was made by Delegate David Van Sickle of Preston county to change the age up to which compulsory school attendance is required from 16 to 15 years. Chairman Denley of the committee on education and other members spoke against the move and the vote of the house defeated the proposal. Delegate S. R. King of Nicholas county then offered a proposal in behalf of agricultural districts that instead of requiring attendance for the full term attendance for 120 days should be compulsory, but this proposal also was defeated.

Minority Leader Read offered an amendment to the bill requiring the teaching of the effects of alcohol which would have exempted private and parochial schools from its provisions, but Delegates Bayer, Edwards, Cogar and Robinson voiced their disapproval and a standing vote defeated the amendment.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Adieu, Adieu! My Native Shore.

Adieu, adieu! my native shore
Fades o'er the waters blue;
The night winds sigh, the breakers roar,
And shrieks the wild sea-mew,
Yon sun that sets upon the sea
We follow in his flight;
Farewell awhile to him and thee,
My native land—Good Night!

A few short hours, and he will rise
To give the morrow birth;
And I shall hail the main and skies,
But not my mother earth.
Deserted is my own good hall,
Its hearth is desolate;
Wild weeds are gathering on the wall;
My dog howls at the gate.

—Byron.

Growing demand for iron and steel products in Italy has caused the mills there to get behind with orders despite that some plants broke all records for production last year.

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES.

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough, why not try it. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

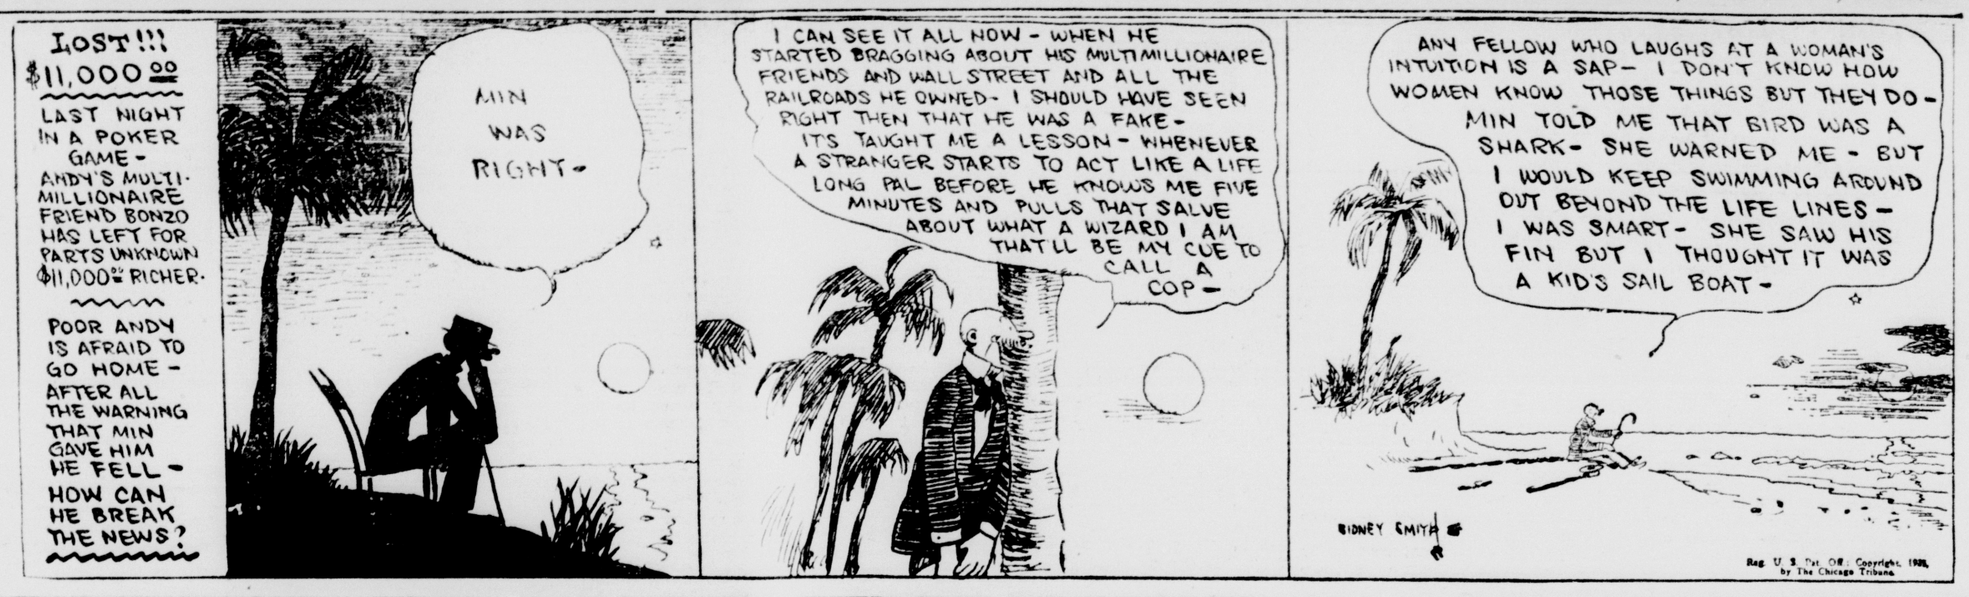

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Awful Pains and Misery Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

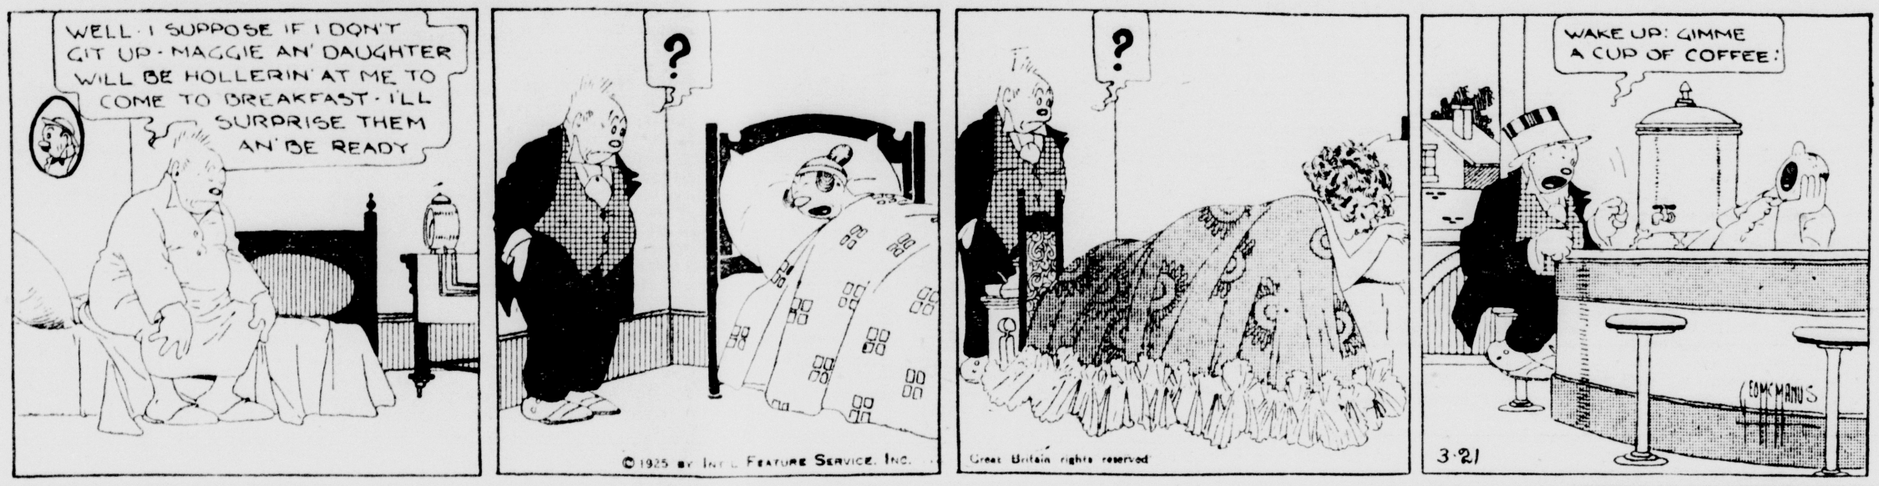

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking this medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it has saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine St., Lima, Ohio.

Epidemic of Rabies Continues Unabated Throughout Italy

ROME—Despite strict orders requiring the muzzling of all dogs, cases of hydrophobia in various Italian cities continue unabated. The latest care reported to the health authorities, who are striving to surb the evil, is that of a chauffeur who was bitten by a dog while on the way from Come to Milan. At first he felt no ill effects, but shortly afterward he showed such alarming symptoms of rabbies that he was transported with all haste to the Pasteur institute at Milan.

While in an ambulance on the way to Milan the man was seized with a sudden attack of madness, during which he scratched and bit the hospital guards who were riding with him. Examination of their wounds showed traces of rabies, but now they are recovering. The chauffeur died later in the institute in an agonizing parxysm.

As a further precaution ramie, the Asiatic fibre used in making incandescent gas mantles, is used in making the paper.

Worried About Your Health?

HAS a cold or attack of grip left you lame and stiff; miserable with backache—"all run down?"

Then how about your kidneys? You know, winter's colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. The kidneys are apt to slow up in their work of filtering poisons from the blood. Then may come constant backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities.

Why not try Doan's Pills? Doan's action on the kidneys is to assist elimination of body impurities. They have no injurious effects and are known the world over for the good they have done. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

And shrieks the wild sea-mew,
Yon sun that sets upon the sea
We follow in his flight;
Farewell awhile to him and thee,
My native land—Good Night!

A few short hours, and he will rise
To give the morrow birth;
And I shall hail the main and skies,
But not my mother earth.
Deserted is my own good hall,
Its hearth is desolate;
Wild weeds are gathering on the wall;
My dog howls at the gate.

—Byron.

Growing demand for iron and steel products in Italy has caused the mills there to get behind with orders despite that some plants broke all records for production last year.

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES.

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough, why not try it. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

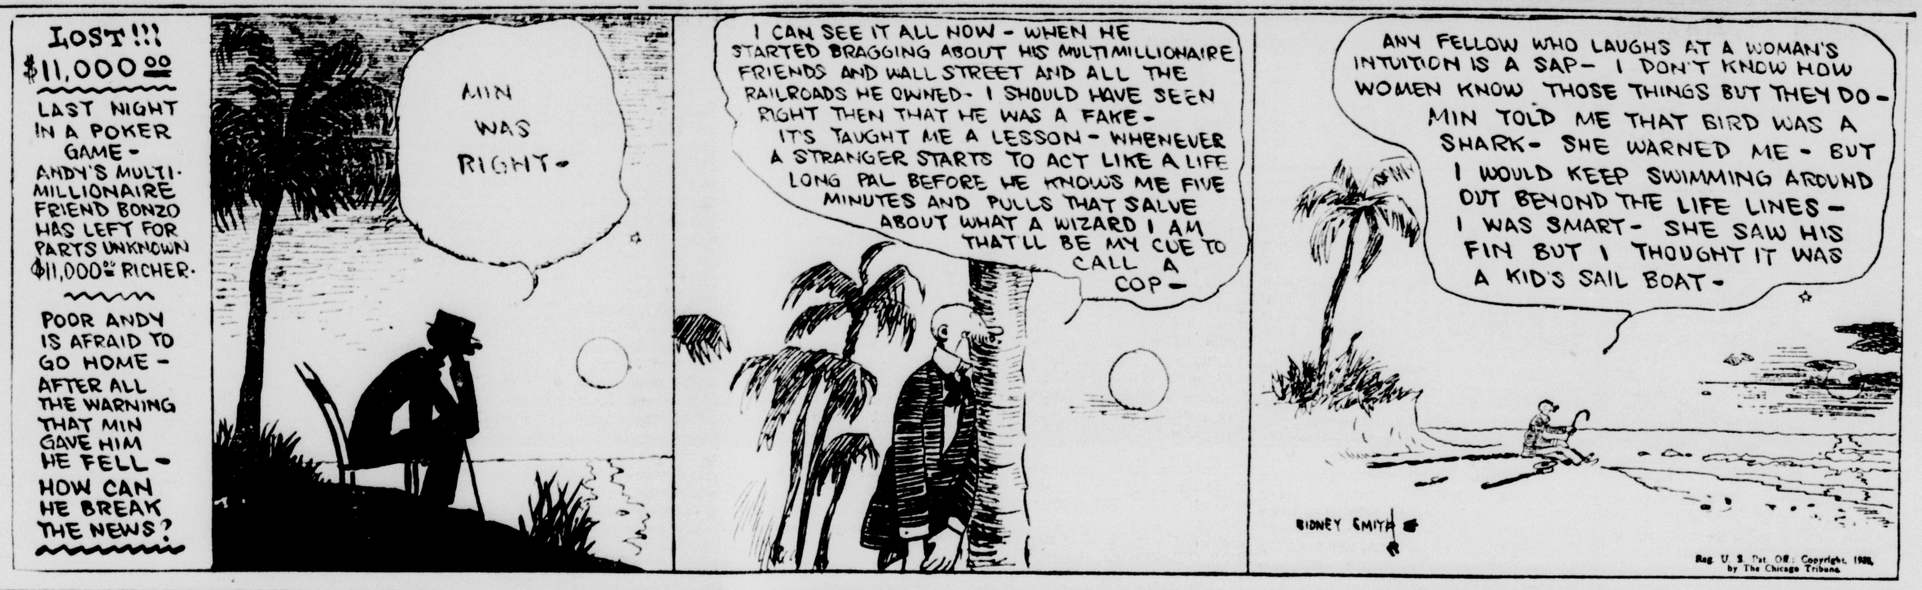

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Awful Pains and Misery Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

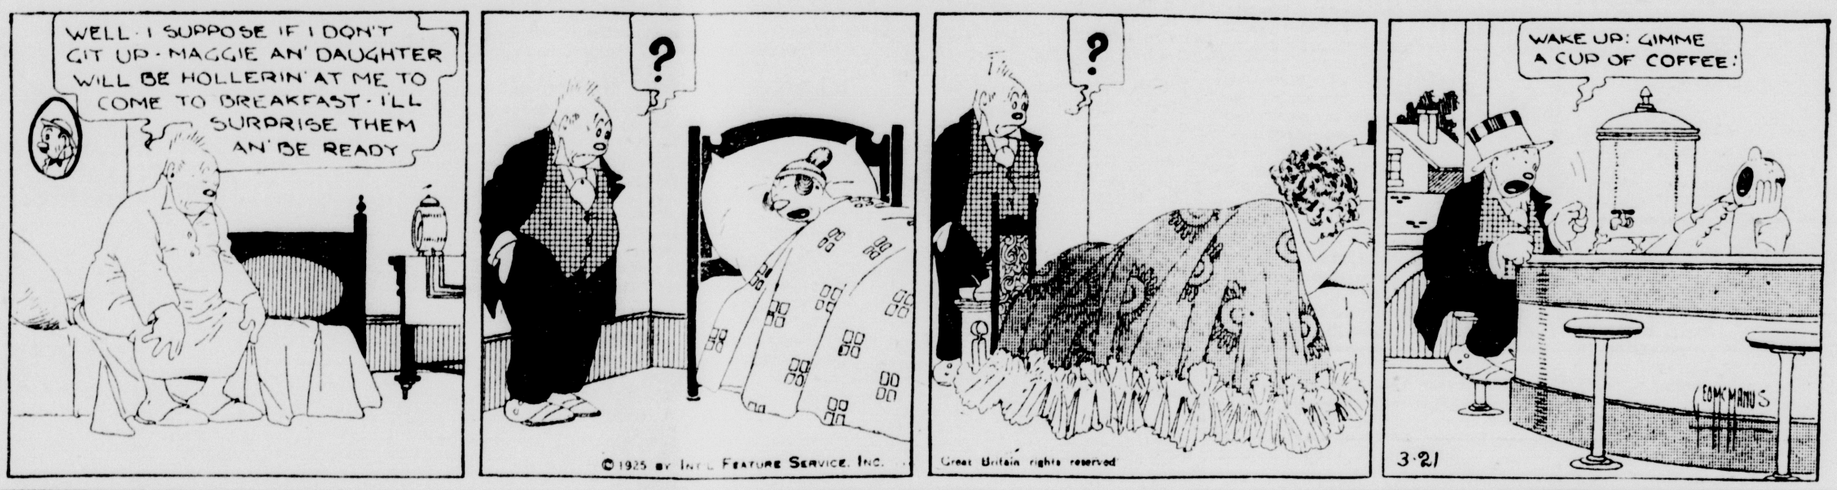

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking this medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it has saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine St., Lima, Ohio.

Epidemic of Rabies Continues Unabated Throughout Italy

ROME—Despite strict orders requiring the muzzling of all dogs, cases of hydrophobia in various Italian cities continue unabated. The latest care reported to the health authorities, who are striving to surb the evil, is that of a chauffeur who was bitten by a dog while on the way from Come to Milan. At first he felt no ill effects, but shortly afterward he showed such alarming symptoms of rabbies that he was transported with all haste to the Pasteur institute at Milan.

While in an ambulance on the way to Milan the man was seized with a sudden attack of madness, during which he scratched and bit the hospital guards who were riding with him. Examination of their wounds showed traces of rabies, but now they are recovering. The chauffeur died later in the institute in an agonizing parxysm.

Holbein on Bank Notes.

In an effort to baffle counterfeiters in Germany four pictures by Holbein have been used on the 10, 20, 50 and 100 mark bank notes. All four pictures are remarkable for the eyes. The expression of the face will be changed if the pictures are reproduced due to the peculiar squint of the eyes. As a further precaution ramie, the Asiatic fibre used in making incandescent gas mantles, is used in making the paper.

Worried About Your Health?

HAS a cold or attack of grip left you lame and stiff; miserable with backache—"all run down?"

Then how about your kidneys? You know, winter's colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. The kidneys are apt to slow up in their work of filtering poisons from the blood. Then may come constant backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities.

Why not try Doan's Pills? Doan's action on the kidneys is to assist elimination of body impurities. They have no injurious effects and are known the world over for the good they have done. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

Mrs. C. C. Wells, 777 Fenton St., says: "My back ached like toothache and I couldn't rest after I went to bed. Sharp pains caught me in my back and I couldn't straighten when in a stooped position. My kidneys bothered me and I felt badly all over. Doan's Pills from the Anderson Drug Store cured me."

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

The centenary of the American Unitarian Association will be held in Boston, May 10-15.

Probably the first course in religious journalism in America has been introduced into the curriculum of the School of Journalism in the University of Missouri.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has just given one million dollars to the Hampton and Tuskeegee institutes for Negroes. Mr. Rockefeller's donation was made unconditionally, and brings the endowment fund now being raised to $3,500,000.

Catholics, Jews and Protestants are operating in New York city in experiments with a week-day religious instruction that may have far-reaching influence in the future. The plan is yet too new to reports its success.

Plans for entertaining the Portland, 1925, International Christian Endeavor convention are rapidly being formed by committees headed by some of the most representative business men and women of the city. A full-time executive secretary has been employed and every committee chairmanship has been filled.

Des Moines, Iowa, is in the midst of the most powerful spiritual awekening of recent years. A city-wide campaign, led by such men as John R. Mott, Sherwood Eddy, Alva W. Taylor, taking the gospel in its broadest and George Haines and Henry H. Crane is most searching aspects to the schools, clubs, business houses and organizations, and churches. Twenty thousand people daily are being stirred by messages calling for personal and social righteousness.

An adaptation of the Binat intelligence test has been used by the staff of the Raewind boys' school, at Raewind, in the Punjab, India, in order to break down the old fallacy which India has held for centuries that only the Brahmans are capable of intellectual development and should receive education. Sixty boys selected at random from some nine hundred in the schools in the Punjab, were given 72 individual tests. The lads were from Hindu, Mohammedan and outcasts families and in most cases their parents could neither read or write any language, but the intelligence of these boys was just as high as the average intelligence shown by sixty boys from Brahman families put through the same tests.

More than one-third of a million women in the United States are to have been brides under 16. Contrary to popular belief the great majority are of native white parentage. The seriousness of the situation becomes even more impressive when the report does not take into account the many marriages of girls over 16, but under 18.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

The Ever-Living Lord. The Forty Days and the Ascension. International Lesson for March 22.—Luke 24:36-53.

By James H. Snowden, D. D.

Wonderful days followed the resurrection of Jesus. Sensational reports and bewildering excitement filled the morning and day following this event. In the evening the disciples came together to compare reports and experiences. They met behind closed doors, but closed doors and solid walls could not exclude the risen Lord, and it seemed that his body had already at least partially undergone transformation into that "spiritual body" which Paul describes and which alone can enter the heavenly place.

The Risen Master.

As the disciples were discussing the wonderful news that he was risen, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them. There was something so strange in the apparition that these stout-hearted fishermen "were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit." His visible presence was too much for their senses to stand and they feared he was a spirit. These witnesses do not give us reports and rumors, the second-hand testimony of what others said they saw, but they were eyewitnesses and tell us what they themselves saw. "Peace be unto you" was the assurance with which Jesus quieted their fears and restored them to their normal minds; and then so great was their joy that they demanded further confirmation. Peace and joy are fundamental notes of the gospel, announced in the angels' song at his birth and holding their place in his teaching through to the end.

The Same Teaching.

The risen Christ, having verified his personal identity with the crucified Jesus, next established the continuity of his teachings. "These are the words I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me." Death had not revised his doctrines, corrected his creed, or changed one of his words. Across the casm of the grave his words flowed in unbroken continuity. This Teacher is not subject to change with the change of ages or of words, but is the same yesterday, today and forever. What he said before his death he said after his resurrection, for his words are eternal truth and shall never pass away. But the disciples were little able to understand these things, for their minds were still full of worldly ideas and there was little room and receptivity in them for the spiritual truths of the kingdom. "Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures." We make a great mistake when we think that because we have read the Bible through we have exhausted it. It is still full of unexplored depths and hidden treasures which are concealed from us because we have not had our eyes spiritually opened that we may behold wondrous things out of this law.

The Disciples as Witnesses.

The risen Christ had done his work, and now the disciples must take it up and carry it on as his witnesses. The Christian is a duplicate of Christ. The same spirit he manifested we are to have, and the same works he did we are to do, but on a larger scale. Yet the disciples were to tarry in Jerusalem until they were endued with power from on high. Waiting often precedes working. We are often impatient of the slow processes of education and rush into work unprepared and then fail. The tree grows a long time in secret before it suddenly blossoms. We must tarry in the secret place of the Most High in order that we come forth clothed with power.

A Worthy Conclusion.

We now come to the closing scene; and it is worthy of its place as the conclusion and climax of this wonderful life. Had the gospel been an invented story, or work of art, it would have been a hard problem to know how to bring it to an end. How shall this life, that opened with angle minstrelsy in the skies and was attended with many wonderful works and has just emerged from the tomb and been crowned with the glory of the resurrection, be brought to a fitting conclusion? What painter or poet would dare attempt the task? But give the pen to one of these humble disciples untrained in the literary art and he will write a conclusion that is the proper climax of the whole story and that, viewed simply as a piece of literature and work of art, is one of the most perfect and beautiful things in all the books of the world. Read these few verses and then say who can gild that gold or throw a perfume on that bit of literature? It is art surpassing art simply because the writer had no other purpose than to tell what happened on that memorable day at Bethany when the risen Lord made his farewell to his disciples and was then parted from them and carried up into heaven. "And they worshiped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy." They wanted to stay and stood gazing up into heaven but were sent back to their work. The heights for vision and inspiration, but the plain for transmitting vision into the victory of a better world. From our worship we should ever return to our work; from the vision of the risen Christ to the work of witnessing for him.

Some people, when they dress in the morning, forget to put on their smile.

Remember that laughter is music to the soul, and we want music.

The future of the race depends upon the mothers of the race.

Guard your influence. After it goes out, you can never catch up with it.

These are trying days but some people don't try hard enough to make good.

What sculpture is to a block of marble, education is to a human soul.

Find out what your temptations are, and you will find out largely what you are yourself.

A lazy man is of no more use than a dead man and he takes up more room.

Don't worry about the soft snap the other fellow has—he worries as much as you do.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON—The Forty Days and the Ascension (Luke 24:36-53.) for Sunday, March 22nd.

1. What is the importance of the fact that the disciples were so slow to accept the reality of the resurrection?
2. What is the right course for one that has doubts about the great truths concerning Christ?
3. How many times have you failed to recognize the spiritual Lord Jesus who was going along with you?
4. What significance do you attach to the upward going away of Jesus and our location of heaven above our heads?
5. What is the relation of the resurrection to the missionary message?

CLERICUS SAYS: The best proof of the resurrection of Christ is a living church, which itself is walking in a new life, and drawing life from Him who hath overcome death.

Lesson Prayer.

Make us bold in thy name, Lord Jesus, to endure any hardship that may come to us in thy service. Teach us to count it all joy when we are called on to show our love by hard service. Make us glad to yield all to thee. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Book Review.

Ten Short Stories from the Bible, by Dean Charles R. Brown, The Century Company, New York, $1.75, would be difficult accurately to characterize. The author, recently voted one of the twenty-five most effective Protestant ministers in the United States has ingeniously cast a series of sermons somewhat in the form of the short story. He has selected experiences universal in their ethical quality and effectively applicable to all classes and problems in modern society.

The Making and the Meaning of the New Testament, by James H Snowden, The MacMillan Company, New York. More than any other book the New Testament has shaped and colored the history of these 19 centuries Mr. Snowden brings out countless seeds and innumerable harvests yet slumbering in its soil. When all these seeds are blossoming in human hearts it will be experienced that its words are spirit and life.

HOME TRAINING

Strength By Use.

"Why is that heavy weight attached to the magnet?" said a young man to an electrician who was engaged in his laboratory.

"Because the magnet was losing its power by lying around here without being used, and I am restoring its force by giving it something to do—more and more every day."

Here is stated a principle that applies to individual lives. Idleness results in the loss of power.

The boy that does not use his muscle lacks physical strength; the boy that does not breathe deeply only filling the upper part of his lungs with oxygen will have weak lungs because the entire lungs have not been used.

The value of an education is found in the mental strength that follows the use of the brain. It is not the education that is so valuable to a school boy or a college chap as the strength of mind that results from the use of the factulties of the mind.

The same is true of the moral and religious life; only when conscience is used does it speak forcibly; those virtues of character-kindness, patience, goodwill, charity, purity, faith and love will be found in action only when they have been used so well that they bound forth as living water from a spring.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in questions form; answers will appear in later issue.)

How large should a junior department be in order to be alone for the opening services?

It does not depend so much on the size of the class as upon the church building. If there is no place for the junior department to meet alone and the department is small, then unite with the intermediate department for opening services.

Give suggestions for the closing service of the junior department.

Plan a series of ten-minute missionary talks, a series of temperance lessons related to a clean city. The closing service should be quiet and the last hymn a hymn of prayer.

How would you get help in solving some of the real problems of a school?

Let the superintendent gather his teachers and officers about him, get a clear view of the difficulties which they are facing, and then choose individuals, each to make a specialty of a single difficulty or problem. These will get in touch with their own Sunday School Board in order to secure needful information, that they may become experts in their chosen field. They may reasonably be expected to become enthusiasts.

"God's Kingdom Has Come--"

millions now living will never die . . . .

For centuries, Christians have prayed for "God's kingdom to come, and His will to be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

The World War in 1914 marked the ending of Satan's empire and the beginning of the new order. Christ has taken unto himself His power to reign.

If this be true, why the present crime wave, the social and political disorder and unrest? Why do we still see the works of Satan? Why don't the preachers tell the people about the kingdom?

God's Kingdom is the only hope for the world. It is the desire of all nations. "They shall be His people and He shall be with them, and be their God."—Rev. 21:1-5.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

The centenary of the American Unitarian Association will be held in Boston, May 10-15.

Probably the first course in religious journalism in America has been introduced into the curriculum of the School of Journalism in the University of Missouri.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has just given one million dollars to the Hampton and Tuskeegee institutes for Negroes. Mr. Rockefeller's donation was made unconditionally, and brings the endowment fund now being raised to $3,500,000.

Catholics, Jews and Protestants are operating in New York city in experiments with a week-day religious instruction that may have far-reaching influence in the future. The plan is yet too new to reports its success.

Plans for entertaining the Portland, 1925, International Christian Endeavor convention are rapidly being formed by committees headed by some of the most representative business men and women of the city. A full-time executive secretary has been employed and every committee chairmanship has been filled.

Des Moines, Iowa, is in the midst of the most powerful spiritual awakening of recent years. A city-wide campaign, led by such men as John R. Mott, Sherwood Eddy, Alva W. Taylor, taking the gospel in its broadest and George Haines and Henry H. Crane is most searching aspects to the schools, clubs, business houses and organizations, and churches. Twenty thousand people daily are being stirred by messages calling for personal and social righteousness.

An adaptation of the Binat intelligence test has been used by the staff of the Raewind boys' school, at Raewind, in the Punjab, India, in order to break down the old fallacy which India has held for centuries that only the Brahmans are capable of intellectual development and should receive education. Sixty boys selected at random from some nine hundred in the schools in the Punjab, were given 72 individual tests. The lads were from Hindu, Mohammedan and outcasts families and in most cases their parents could neither read or write any language, but the intelligence of these boys was just as high as the average intelligence shown by sixty boys from Brahman families put through the same tests.

More than one-third of a million women in the United States are to have been brides under 16. Contrary to popular belief the great majority are of native white parentage. The seriousness of the situation becomes even more impressive when the report does not take into account the many marriages of girls over 16, but under 18.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

By James H. Snowden, D. D.

Wonderful days followed the resurrection of Jesus. Sensational reports and bewildering excitement filled the morning and day following this event. In the evening the disciples came together to compare reports and experiences. They met behind closed doors, but closed doors and solid walls could not exclude the risen Lord, and it seemed that his body had already at least partially undergone transformation into that "spiritual body" which Paul describes and which alone can enter the heavenly place.

The Risen Master.

As the disciples were discussing the wonderful news that he was risen, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them. There was something so strange in the apparition that these stout-hearted fishermen "were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit." His visible presence was too much for their senses to stand and they feared he was a spirit. These witnesses do not give us reports and rumors, the second-hand testimony of what others said they saw, but they were eyewitnesses and tell us what they themselves saw. "Peace be unto you" was the assurance with which Jesus quieted their fears and restored them to their normal minds; and then so great was their joy that they demanded further confirmation. Peace and joy are fundamental notes of the gospel, announced in the angels' song at his birth and holding their place in his teaching through to the end.

The Same Teaching.

The risen Christ, having verified his personal identity with the crucified Jesus, next established the continuity of his teachings. "These are the words I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me." Death had not revised his doctrines, corrected his creed, or changed one of his words. Across the casm of the grave his words flowed in unbroken continuity. This Teacher is not subject to change with the change of ages or of words, but is the same yesterday, today and forever. What he said before his death he said after his resurrection, for his words are eternal truth and shall never pass away. But the disciples were little able to understand these things, for their minds were still full of worldly ideas and there was little room and receptivity in them for the spiritual truths of the kingdom. "Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures." We make a great mistake when we think that because we have read the Bible through we have exhausted it. It is still full of unexplored depths and hidden treasures which are concealed from us because we have not had our eyes spiritually opened that we may behold wondrous things out of this law.

The Disciples as Witnesses.

The risen Christ had done his work, and now the disciples must take it up and carry it on as his witnesses. The Christian is a duplicate of Christ. The same spirit he manifested we are to have, and the same works he did we are to do, but on a larger scale. Yet the disciples were to tarry in Jerusalem until they were endued with power from on high. Waiting often precedes working. We are often impatient of the slow processes of education and rush into work unprepared and then fail. The tree grows a long time in secret before it suddenly blossoms. We must tarry in the secret place of the Most High in order that we come forth clothed with power.

A Worthy Conclusion.

We now come to the closing scene; and it is worthy of its place as the conclusion and climax of this wonderful life. Had the gospel been an invented story, or work of art, it would have been a hard problem to know how to bring it to an end. How shall this life, that opened with angle minstrelsy in the skies and was attended with many wonderful works and has just emerged from the tomb and been crowned with the glory of the resurrection, be brought to a fitting conclusion? What painter or poet would dare attempt the task? But give the pen to one of these humble disciples untrained in the literary art and he will write a conclusion that is the proper climax of the whole story and that, viewed simply as a piece of literature and work of art, is one of the most perfect and beautiful things in all the books of the world. Read these few verses and then say who can gild that gold or throw a perfume on that bit of literature? It is art surpassing art simply because the writer had no other purpose than to tell what happened on that memorable day at Bethany when the risen Lord made his farewell to his disciples and was then parted from them and carried up into heaven. "And they worshiped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy." They wanted to stay and stood gazing up into heaven but were sent back to their work. The heights for vision and inspiration, but the plain for transmitting vision into the victory of a better world. From our worship we should ever return to our work; from the vision of the risen Christ to the work of witnessing for him.

More than any other book the New Testament has shaped and colored the history of these 19 centuries. Mr. Snowden brings out countless seeds and innumerable harvests yet slumbering in its soil. When all these seeds are blossoming in human hearts it will be experienced that its words are spirit and life.

HOME TRAINING

Strength By Use.

"Why is that heavy weight attached to the magnet?" said a young man to an electrician who was engaged in his laboratory.

"Because the magnet was losing its power by lying around here without being used, and I am restoring its force by giving it something to do—more and more every day."

Here is stated a principle that applies to individual lives. Idleness results in the loss of power.

The boy that does not use his muscle lacks physical strength; the boy that does not breathe deeply only filling the upper part of his lungs with oxygen will have weak lungs because the entire lungs have not been used.

The value of an education is found in the mental strength that follows the use of the brain. It is not the education that is so valuable to a school boy or a college chap as the strength of mind that results from the use of the factulties of the mind.

The same is true of the moral and religious life; only when conscience is used does it speak forcibly; those virtues of character-kindness, patience, goodwill, charity, purity, faith and love will be found in action only when they have been used so well that they bound forth as living water from a spring.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in questions form; answers will appear in later issue.)

How large should a junior department be in order to be alone for the opening services?

It does not depend so much on the size of the class as upon the church building. If there is no place for the junior department to meet alone and the department is small, then unite with the intermediate department for opening services.

Give suggestions for the closing service of the junior department.

Plan a series of ten-minute missionary talks, a series of temperance lessons related to a clean city. The closing service should be quiet and the last hymn a hymn of prayer.

How would you get help in solving some of the real problems of a school?

Let the superintendent gather his teachers and officers about him, get a clear view of the difficulties which they are facing, and then choose individuals, each to make a specialty of a single difficulty or problem. These will get in touch with their own Sunday School Board in order to secure needful information, that they may become experts in their chosen field. They may reasonably be expected to become enthusiasts.

millions now living will never die . . . .

For centuries, Christians have prayed for "God's kingdom to come, and His will to be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

The World War in 1914 marked the ending of Satan's empire and the beginning of the new order. Christ has taken unto himself His power to reign.

If this be true, why the present crime wave, the social and political disorder and unrest? Why do we still see the works of Satan? Why don't the preachers tell the people about the kingdom?

God's Kingdom is the only hope for the world. It is the desire of all nations. "They shall be His people and He shall be with them, and be their God."—Rev. 21:1-5.

RUNYON SAYS

Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, March 21.

VISIT Jim Coffroth's race track at Tia Juana any day ,and you will see an oldish, bulky, big man, or severe countenance and slightly lopped ears.

He will have a pair of field glasses swung around his neck, and will be watching the races with an air of great solemnity. He is Tom Sharkey, the one-time sailor-fighter, now fifty-two years old, sturdy, hearty—a rough, gruff, old salt.

He works for Coffroth, one of the many oldtimers the owner of the race track employs. One suspects that a certain sentiment has as much to do with their employment as their usefulness.

Tom Sharkey was the greatest fighter ever produced by the Navy. Before and since Tom Sharkey's time aboard the warships, hundreds of thousands of men have sailed the blue water in Uncle Sam's uniform, but never a one of Sharkey's pugilistic ability.

He was a heavyweight. He just missed the big title. Some think he should have had it. He lived in an era when the heavyweights seemed to be of better calibre than they have been since. Were Sharkey in his prime today, he probably would be the leading title contender of the land.

He is an Irishman, born in Dundalk. He stands five feet, eight and one-half inches, and his fighting weight was around 180 pounds.

He fought the greatest of his time, Joe Choynski, James J. Corbett, Peter Maher, Joe Goddard, James J. Jeffries, Kid McCoy, Bob Fitzsimmons, Gus Ruhlin among them.

The record shows one knockout against him, that by Bob Fitzsimmons in 1900. Jeffries, at his best, could stop him in 25 rounds.

After his retirement from the ring, Sharkey ran a noted saloon, on Fourteenth street, in New York. At one time he had plenty of money. Somehow it drifted away from him.

Sailors are popularly supposed to be free-handed with their money. It is an old saying, "he spent his money like a sailor." Sharkey wasn't that kind of a sailor.

He was accounted extremely conservative. All "tightwad" stories were for years hung on Sharkey in this country. In England the same stories were hung on Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian. Of course, not all of them were true.

Out here in California, where Sharkey was well known in his early career, as well as later on, the writer has come upon a new story, of a different nature, on the former sailor.

The narrator is a gentleman who knew Sharkey in the Navy, which, the gentleman says, was before the Dead Sea took sick. Sharkey was Edwards Shows Form.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 21.—Elated by the 6 to 3 walloping given the Cincinnati Reds yesterday and the splendid form shown by Pitcher Jim Edwards, out of the game most of last season, Manager Tris Speaker gave the Cleveland Indians only a slight workout today. They will meet the Columbus American Association team Monday.

BATTER VS. FIELDER
Which Will Win in Indian Infield Contest?

By Norman E. Brown

LAKELAND, Fla., Mar. 21—There's a merry little battle on down here as the Cleveland Indians go through their daily workout and practice game to fit themselves for the coming campaign.

The opponents in this battle are: Young Chic Fewster, late of New York, in this corna-a-a, as the fight announcers down here draw it out. And Mr. Joe Klugman, late of Brooklyn, in this corna-a-a.

And the prize they seek is the honor of playing second base.

"Right now I couldn't name the man who will get the job," admits Manager Speaker.

Injury Halts Fewster

Fewster's weakness lies—or did lie—at the bat. You'll probably recall that he was hit in the head by a batted ball while with the Yankees a few seasons ago. The blow almost costh im his life. It left its effect apparently permanently. Fewster not only changed from a calm, consistent ball player to an erratic, temperamental one, but his batting dropped to nothing, due to bat shyness. His fielding was brilliant at times, then mediocre. Decisions against him threw him into a rage.

When the Indians got him in a trade Speaker's choice was knocked. Spoke had faith in the lad, however, and set form. In New York Fewster was to work to bring him back to his old considered done. Speaker set out to convince Fewster he wasn't and seems to have succeeded. New York critics told Speaker Fewster couldn't play good ball for more than a week at a stretch. Speaker kept him in the lineup three months last year and Chick produced, afield at least.

But on the Other Hand—

But there is Mr. Klugman. Boy, how he can hit! He is a great, big husky gent, with a good pair of shoulders and a good eye. He loves to hit. A man must like to hit to be a good hitter. Klugman, Speaker figures, can keep up his part of the batting order day in and day out if given a chance.

After joining Minneapolis last year he hit .376 in 55 games. He played 33 games at second and some in the outfield.

Fewster hit 2.67 last year in 101 games for the Indians. This mark was low, but it might be mentioned that Willie Kamm, great young third sacker of the White Sox, hit but .254.

Fewster is a mighty sweet fielder. Klugman is a beauty at bat. How'd you like to have Spoke's job of picking the right man?

Fohl Seeks Ace and King From New Deck

Hopes to Better "Hand" of Lowly Sox; Vache and Kallie May be Men he Wants.

By Fred C. Lane.

LEE FOHL

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Sixteen new cards have been inserted in to the deck which Lee Fohl, Red Sox manager, will shuffle so thoroughly for the next six weeks. Out of this number, he hopes to get at least one ace and a possible king to better the "hands" of the lowly Red Sox.

Fohl has stated that every position on the ball club is open, yet it can be safely said that by this time the lineup for the opening game and the identity of the players who will stick are fixed in his mind. One of them undoubtedly is Ernest Vache, with Dallas last season. He is a real hitter and it is nobody's secret that the Red Sox lacked hitting strength last year.

Vache Thumped the ball for an average of .354 in the Texas league, where the fences are not short of the air too rarefied. This has caused the general belief that Vache will occupy an outfield berth when the Sox open in Philadelphia. He is the possible ace referred to.

The king is Rudy Kallie, from the Coast. Although Rudy is by no means a youth, he seems ready for the Big Time. Both Kallie and Vache appears sure of their places.

The same thing applies to Dudley Lee, who played fine ball at shortstop last year until he injured a finger.

Another certainty, of course, is Howard Ehmke, the club's leading pitcher. He has been a holdout, which may delay his early season development. Ira Flagstead, outfielder, also expressed dissatisfaction with his contract and failed to report on time. He probably will play one of the outfield posts regularly.

Jim Prothro, obtained from Washington, is expected to prove a better third baseman than Danny Clark who has been shooed away to the tall timbers. Once in a hitting slump, Danny was terrible to gaze upon.

Prothro, inact, is regarded as Clark's superior in every department. He made a distinct impression of upon the Boston officials in 1924 when he clipped the offerings of the Sox best pitchers and showed a rare turn of speed, something of which the 1924 Sox knew nothing.

"You had to hit the flagpole in centerfield to score a run from second base," is President Bobby Quinn's way of expressing the 1924 situation.

Bill Wambsganss' job at second base is an open proposition, sure enough, with Homer Ezzell, former St. Louis Brown, Bill Regell from Salina, Connolly from Bay City, Ewell Gross, from San Antonio, and Phil Todt, with the Sox last year, in the field and hustling. Joe Harris is an almost certain starter at first base and Val Picinich is likely to catch well over a hundred games, barring injury.

All tenpin bowlers who are prospective entries are expected to answer the call before midnight.

National Leaguers Tender Local Club Open Date On May 4

Officials of Branch Rickey's Entry Will Guarantee Appearance of Rogers Hornsby if Contest is Accepted; John Fowler Assumes Task of Rounding up Squad.

East Liverpool's home baseball season may be ushered in with a major league attraction.

This was in prospect today following announcement by John Fowler, manager of last year's independent nine here, that the St. Louis Cardinals have offered the Ceramic City's leading club their services for Monday, May 4.

And St. Louis club officials have guaranteed the appearance in uniform of Rogers Hornsby.

The Cardinals will entertain the Chicago Cubs at St. Louis on May 1, 2 and 3. The Cards then are scheduled to start east, playing in Pittsburgh on May 5, 6 and 7. May 4 is an open date. Following the series with the Pirates Branch Rickey's club will go into New York.

John Fowler will make every effort to bring the National leaguers to the city.

He will have to round up a baseball club, get them into uniforms, and drill them into some sort of an organization, in addition to selling enough tickets to meet the price of the game. All of which is no small job.

If these things can be accomplished, he will accept the proposal. He has started his plans and expects to know within the next few days whether he'll be successful.

Toledo Lands A.B.C. Games

BUFFALO, N. Y., Mar. 21—Although Louisville failed to land the 1926 tournament of the American Bowling Congress, bowlers from the Kentucky City today had to their credit leading honors in last night's bowling in the five-man, two man and individual events in the tournament, under way here.

George Bouse and Charles Davis, scoring a total of 1288 pins, took tenth place in the doubles and Edward Kissel eighth place in the individual event with 665 pins.

The Page Dairy team of Toledo, rolling 2909 in three games, went into third place in the five man event. A 245 game by Strauss featured the performance. The Plichita regulars of Milwaukee with 2876 went into fifth place.

Toledo was chosen for the 1926 convention after Perioa and Louisville delegates had put up a spirited fight for the honor.

Tiffin Revives Boxing.

TIFFIN, O., March 21.—In a lightning semi-final, Jimmy Perry of Alliance, outpointed K. O. Gym Williams of Toledo, in a boxing revival here last night. This was the feature bout on the card. The main go, between Lee Long of Chicago and Kid Posen of Toledo was booed by irate fans. Long was hissed for his passive tactics.

Rosenberg Is Bantam King

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Charley Phil Rosenberg and Eddie Cannonball Martin fought last night for what might be termed the butterfly title, and when it was all over, the thing had fluttered away again to the nearest flower, or rather from one milk weed to another. At the end of fifteen rounds, Rosenberg was proclaimed the new champion of the world at the bantamweight limit and the officials could do no less.

Such as he is, Rosenberg proved himself to be a far better fighter than Martin last night. He left handed the old champion crazy and after the fourth, carried every round with the possible exception of the tenth and fifteenth.

Last Night's Fights

At Grand Rapids — Jack Delaney knocked out Soldier King, Grand Rapids, in fourth.

At Detroit—Frankie Genaro awarded decision over Joe Lucas, Detroit. Billy Petersen easily outpointed Harry Henning, Toronto. Pete Firpo knocked out Dave Sutherland.

At Bay City—Clarence Rosen and Willie Spencer, draw.

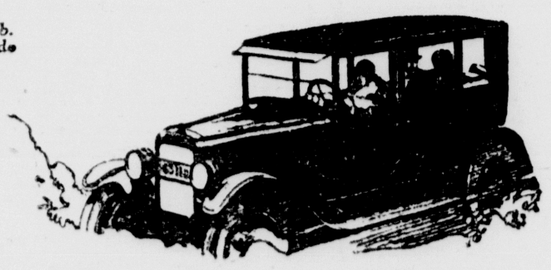

New York—Charley Phil Rosenberg, New York, won decision over Eddie Cannonball Martin, Brooklyn, 15 rounds for world's bantamweight title. Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., won decision over Harold Smith, Chicago, 12 rounds.

Elizabeth, N. J. — Georgia Ward, Elizabeth, won unofficial decision over Sailor Friedman, Chicago, 12 rounds.

"Right now I couldn't name the man who will get the job," admits Manager Speaker.

Injury Halts Fewster

Fewster's weakness lies—or did lie—at the bat. You'll probably recall that he was hit in the head by a batted ball while with the Yankees a few seasons ago. The blow almost costh im his life. It left its effect apparently permanently. Fewster not only changed from a calm, consistent ball player to an erratic, temperamental one, but his batting dropped to nothing, due to bat shyness. His fielding was brilliant at times, then mediocre. Decisions against him threw him into a rage.

When the Indians got him in a trade Speaker's choice was knocked. Spoke had faith in the lad, however, and set form. In New York Fewster was to work to bring him back to his old considered done. Speaker set out to convince Fewster he wasn't and seems to have succeeded. New York critics told Speaker Fewster couldn't play good ball for more than a week at a stretch. Speaker kept him in the lineup three months last year and Chick produced, afield at least.

But on the Other Hand—

But there is Mr. Klugman. Boy, how he can hit! He is a great, big husky gent, with a good pair of shoulders and a good eye. He loves to hit. A man must like to hit to be a good hitter. Klugman, Speaker figures, can keep up his part of the batting order day in and day out if given a chance.

After joining Minneapolis last year, he hit .376 in 55 games. He played 33 games at second and some in the outfield.

Fewster hit 2.67 last year in 101 games for the Indians. This mark was low, but it might be mentioned that Willie Kamm, great young third sacker of the White Sox, hit but .254.

Fewster is a mighty sweet fielder. Klugman is a beauty at bat. How'd you like to have Spoke's job of picking the right man?

Fohl Seeks Ace and King From New Deck

Hopes to Better "Hand" of Lowly Sox; Vache and Kallie May be Men he Wants.

By Fred C. Lane.

LEE FOHL

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Sixteen new cards have been inserted in to the deck which Lee Fohl, Red Sox manager, will shuffle so thoroughly for the next six weeks. Out of this number, he hopes to get at least one ace and a possible king to better the "hands" of the lowly Red Sox.

Fohl has stated that every position on the ball club is open, yet it can be safely said that by this time the lineup for the opening game and the identity of the players who will stick are fixed in his mind. One of them undoubtedly is Ernest Vache, with Dallas last season. He is a real hitter and it is nobody's secret that the Red Sox lacked hitting strength last year.

Vache Thumped the ball for an average of .354 in the Texas league, where the fences are not short of the air too rarefied. This has caused the general belief that Vache will occupy an outfield berth when the Sox open in Philadelphia. He is the possible ace referred to.

The king is Rudy Kallie, from the Coast. Although Rudy is by no means a youth, he seems ready for the Big Time. Both Kallie and Vache appears sure of their places.

The same thing applies to Dudley Lee, who played fine ball at shortstop last year until he injured a finger.

Another certainty, of course, is Howard Ehmke, the club's leading pitcher. He has been a holdout, which may delay his early season development. Ira Flagstead, outfielder, also expressed dissatisfaction with his contract and failed to report on time. He probably will play one of the outfield posts regularly.

Jim Prothro, obtained from Washington, is expected to prove a better third baseman than Danny Clark who has been shooed away to the tall timbers. Once in a hitting slump, Danny was terrible to gaze upon.

Prothro, inact, is regarded as Clark's superior in every department. He made a distinct impression of upon the Boston officials in 1924 when he clipped the offerings of the Sox best pitchers and showed a rare turn of speed, something of which the 1924 Sox knew nothing.

"You had to hit the flagpole in centerfield to score a run from second base," is President Bobby Quinn's way of expressing the 1924 situation.

Tenpin Stars Roll Tuesday

The first tenpin tournament in East Liverpool for 15 years.

In this manner the American Bowling and Billiard Parlors, Sixth street, herald their district tourney which opens on Tuesday, March 24.

Tonight at 12 o'clock is the deadline for entries, the tournament manager announced today.

All tenpin bowlers who are prospective entries are expected to answer the call before midnight.

The American alleys, it was announced, are in first class condition for the matches, which will include singles and doubles.

National Leaguers Tender Local Club Open Date On May 4

Officials of Branch Rickey's Entry Will Guarantee Appearance of Rogers Hornsby if Contest is Accepted; John Fowler Assumes Task of Rounding up Squad.

East Liverpool's home baseball season may be ushered in with a major league attraction.

This was in prospect today following announcement by John Fowler, manager of last year's independent nine here, that the St. Louis Cardinals have offered the Ceramic City's leading club their services for Monday, May 4.

And St. Louis club officials have guaranteed the appearance in uniform of Rogers Hornsby.

The Cardinals will entertain the Chicago Cubs at St. Louis on May 1, 2 and 3. The Cards then are scheduled to start east, playing in Pittsburgh on May 5, 6 and 7. May 4 is an open date. Following the series with the Pirates Branch Rickey's club will go into New York.

John Fowler will make every effort to bring the National leaguers to the city.

He will have to round up a baseball club, get them into uniforms, and drill them into some sort of an organization, in addition to selling enough tickets to meet the price of the game. All of which is no small job.

If these things can be accomplished, he will accept the proposal. He has started his plans and expects to know within the next few days whether he'll be successful.

Toledo Lands A.B.C. Games

BUFFALO, N. Y., Mar. 21—Although Louisville failed to land the 1926 tournament of the American Bowling Congress, bowlers from the Kentucky City today had to their credit leading honors in last night's bowling in the five-man, two man and individual events in the tournament, under way here.

George Bouse and Charles Davis, scoring a total of 1288 pins, took tenth place in the doubles and Edward Kissel eighth place in the individual event with 665 pins.

The Page Dairy team of Toledo, rolling 2909 in three games, went into third place in the five man event. A 245 game by Strauss featured the performance. The Plichita regulars of Milwaukee with 2876 went into fifth place.

Toledo was chosen for the 1926 convention after Perioa and Louisville delegates had put up a spirited fight for the honor.

Tiffin Revives Boxing.

TIFFIN, O., March 21.—In a lightning semi-final, Jimmy Perry of Alliance, outpointed K. O. Gym Williams of Toledo, in a boxing revival here last night. This was the feature bout on the card. The main go, between Lee Long of Chicago and Kid Posen of Toledo was booed by irate fans. Long was hissed for his passive tactics.

Rosenberg Is Bantam King

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Charley Phil Rosenberg and Eddie Cannonball Martin fought last night for what might be termed the butterfly title, and when it was all over, the thing had fluttered away again to the nearest flower, or rather from one milk weed to another. At the end of fifteen rounds, Rosenberg was proclaimed the new champion of the world at the bantamweight limit and the officials could do no less.

Such as he is, Rosenberg proved himself to be a far better fighter than Martin last night. He left handed the old champion crazy and after the fourth, carried every round with the possible exception of the tenth and fifteenth.

Last Night's Fights

At Grand Rapids — Jack Delaney knocked out Soldier King, Grand Rapids, in fourth.

At Detroit—Frankie Genaro awarded decision over Joe Lucas, Detroit. Billy Petersen easily outpointed Harry Henning, Toronto. Pete Firpo knocked out Dave Sutherland.

At Bay City—Clarence Rosen and Willie Spencer, draw.

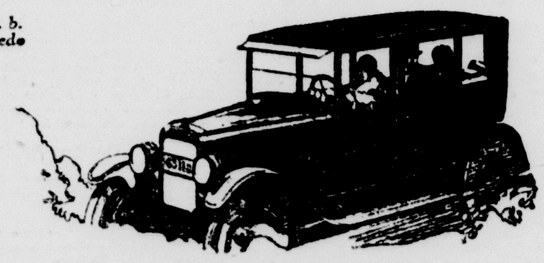

New York—Charley Phil Rosenberg, New York, won decision over Eddie Cannonball Martin, Brooklyn, 15 rounds for world's bantamweight title. Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., won decision over Harold Smith, Chicago, 12 rounds.

Elizabeth, N. J. — Georgia Ward, Elizabeth, won unofficial decision over Sailor Friedman, Chicago, 12 rounds.

Runyon Says:

then a ship's corporal on the old U. S. S. Philadelphia.

Two young Ensigns of that early period were roommates at Annapolis: One of them got married. the ceremony taking place aboard ship. The other Ensign desired to give his pal a proper send-off. He mustered Sharkey aft before the wedding and said:

"Sharkey, Ensign So-and-So is to be married to-day. The ceremony takes place on the quarter-deck, whereupon the bride and groom come down the starboard gangway onto the deck. You get two hands from each division to pelt the bride and groom with rice. Here is the rice."

He handed Sharkey some twenty odd small paper bags filled with rice.

The chaplain performed the marriage ceremony while Tom was mustering his men on deck and distributing the bags of rice.

The band played, "Here Comes the Bride," the newly wedded pair tripped down the gangway.

Sharkey led the attack. He wound up like Walter Johnson and let drive with a bag of rice. The blushing bride, the narrator states, "took it square on the nose, and slid all the way down the gangway onto the deck. Sharkey had scored his first K. O."

It appears that when the Ensign commanded Sharkey to throw rice, he forgot to add, "take it out of the bags," Sharkey and his crew had hurled it, bags and all.

No, the writer does not vouch for this story. You may take it or leave it. But the narrator says that both the Ensigns of the story are retired Admirals now.

Sharkey could not take a terrific amount of punishment and live under it.

Runyon Says:

When a ship's corporal on the old U. S. S. Philadelphia.

Two young Ensigns of that early period were roommates at Annapolis: One of them got married, the ceremony taking place aboard ship. The other Ensign desired to give his pal a proper send-off. He mustered Sharkey aft before the wedding and said:

"Sharkey, Ensign So-and-So is to be married to-day. The ceremony takes place on the quarter-deck, whereupon the bride and groom come down the starboard gangway onto the deck. You get two hands from each division to pelt the bride and groom with rice. Here is the rice."

He handed Sharkey some twenty odd small paper bags filled with rice.

The chaplain performed the marriage ceremony while Tom was mustering his men on deck and distributing the bags of rice.

The band played, "Here Comes the Bride," the newly wedded pair tripped down the gangway.

Sharkey led the attack. He wound up like Walter Johnson and let drive with a bag of rice. The blushing bride, the narrator states, "took it square on the nose, and slid all the way down the gangway onto the deck. Sharkey had scored his first K. O."

It appears that when the Ensign commanded Sharkey to throw rice, he forgot to add, "take it out of the bags," Sharkey and his crew had hurled it, bags and all.

No, the writer does not vouch for this story. You may take it or leave it. But the narrator says that both the Ensigns of the story are retired Admirals now.

Sharkey could not take a terrific amount of punishment and live under it.

Suffered Nervous Breakdown

MRS. ELIZABETH ROMSEY

Toledo,—"I want to state that there isn't a medicine that can equal Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a woman's tonic and nervine. I was suffering with womanly ills which caused me to have a severe nervous breakdown. I was so nervous I could not sleep and had no appetite. I had severe backaches and bearing pains. I got so weak I could not do my work—in fact I could not walk across the floor. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it completely restored my nerves and health. I grew strong and have never had another attack of this kind. It is perfectly wonderful what 'Favorite Prescription' will do for weak and nervous women."—Mrs. Elizabeth Romsey, 1817 Lagrange St.

Get this Prescription at once from your druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Suffered Nervous Breakdown

MRS. ELIZABETH ROMSEY

Toledo,—"I want to state that there isn't a medicine that can equal Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a woman's tonic and nervine. I was suffering with womanly ills which caused me to have a severe nervous breakdown. I was so nervous I could not sleep and had no appetite. I had severe backaches and bearing pains. I got so weak I could not do my work—in fact I could not walk across the floor. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it completely restored my nerves and health. I grew strong and have never had another attack of this kind. It is perfectly wonderful what 'Favorite Prescription' will do for weak and nervous women."—Mrs. Elizabeth Romsey, 1817 Lagrange St.

The Tornado Disaster.
Worse Might Come.
Japan's New Trouble.
The 31-Ounce Baby.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

The dreadful tornado sweeping through five states, killing 577 and injuring several thousands, makes everything else seem trifling and unimportant.

We live at the mercy of Nature's forces, above, below and all around us. A tidal wave from the ocean could wash away the nation's biggest city. An earthquake or a tornado could level it.

Sympathizing with the unfortunate victims of the great disaster, the nation may well feel grateful for the high average of safety. The earth turns on its axis at the rate of a thousand miles an hour. If it stopped for a second the oceans would be hurled from the great valleys in which they lie and life on the earth would be washed back to the conditions of millions of years ago with no life left except the lowest forms.

Great disasters shock and overwhelm us. The recent great earthquake in Japan and the historic and even more appalling earthquake of Lisbon remind us how feeble and helpless we are living on a whirling globe traveling around the sun at a speed of nearly two million miles a day.

The amazing thing is our safety and secure existince. Assuming that they are worth having we should be deeply grateful.

While we condole with the victims of our own disaster, we feel deepest sympathy for the unfortunate inhabitants of Tokio, so recently torn by the great earthquake, and now with 10,000 made homeless by a dreadful fire.

The cable says casually that the fire swept through "the quarter of small, poor people," but that makes it all the worse. What they lost was everything they had.

In the midst of calamities, following the stock market drop, fires and a rebellious senate, the public mind is able to take deep interest in Louis Clausen, a Jersey baby, eight weeks old, weighing yesterday only two pounds 12 ounces.

When she was born she weighed one pound 15 ounces, and doctors said she could not live.

There is a power in the brain, even in that of a new-born baby, able to defy doctors and their scientific predictions.

In that tiny head which you could span with your fingers there existed a determination to live, and the mother still has her baby alive and gaining.

The other news of the world is about as usual. In Italy Dr. Voronoff, gland grafting expert, is at work with local scientists grating glands on sheep. The practical Italians are not interested in making an old man young, but in causing the sheep to produce more and better wool and meat. If they succeed with sheep, they'll experiment on bigger animals.

England plans a return to the gold basis which would put the pound sterling where it is was before the war. Most of the newspapers and bankers are in favor of it.

Whether Britain, suffering in business and industry, will be helped by gold standard resumption, nobody knows. The reason is that nobody knows positively anything about finance or money—except that real gold is a good thing to have. Usually it comes out on top.

The plan, suggested after the war, that Europe should abandon the gold standard, leaving Uncle Sam with a lot of worthless gold on his hands, was not sound.

Pekin expects the renewal of war in two or three weeks—Russians on one side, Japanese and British on the other, all interested in China's latent wealth, pull in different directions.

Nobody is able to manage all of the great jelly fish nation at one time. You pick up one piece of it and the rest falls from your hand.

The Russians are trying to settle their debts on some half measure basis that will be satisfactory to the French. The French would like to be friends with Russia, even with uncertain, so-called proletarian, bolshevist Russia. The French nightmare is a revival of Germany in military strength, and the French, with the great Russian nation on their side as insurance, would feel safer.

TWO MORE AUTO THEFTS REPORTED

Two more automobile thefts were reported to the police last night.

A Chevrolet touring car, belonging to Peter Wolfe, St. Clair avenue, was stolen while parked in front of the high school auditorium between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock. It carried license number 243-074.

Another Chevrolet machine, touring car model, was stolen near Stop 55, last night, while Clinton Cuesch, the owner, was attending a basketball game in the old McPherson barn. It is believed that the car was brought to East Liverpool. Its license number was 879-861.

TORNADO'S DEATH TOLL SOARS AS STORM-SWEPT ZONE IS FUNERAL LAND

Grim Spectre Stalks Methodically Over Paths of Wednesday's Epochal Twister as Five States Bury 838 Victims.

Despite Efforts of Doctors and Nurses, Life Passes From Mangled Bodies, While 100 Others are Expected to Die.

The path of Wednesday's tornado was a funeral land today. Everywhere in the five states which felt the death-laden breath of the storm, the victims, many as yet unidentified, were being committed back to the earth from which they came—laid to rest separately, by twos, by three and by dozens, in soldier-dug graves. And simple white crosses, conjuring up a picture of other such symbols across the sea, stood forth to mark the trail of devastation.

A total of 838 bodies, according to the latest check today, must be buried.

Health authorities have ordered this work to proceed as quickly as possible as the dread possibility of pestilence has arisen from the already prolonged delay, necessary because of inadequate facilities for the work and because there have been hopes that additional victims would be identified.

Revised Casualty List.

So today and tomorrow, the Gaunt, hollow-eyed survivors in the storm areas of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee were to stand solemnly by the jawning death pits to give their last goodbye to wives, mothers, children, sweethearts and friends, snapped into eternity in a twinkling by the awful force of the cyclone.

Today's revised casualty list showed 666 killed by the storm in Illinois, 93 in Indiana, 34 in Tennessee, 22 in Missouri and 18 in Kentucky.

These figures vary but little from

JAIL LOOTERS; ONE MAN SHOT

MURPHYSBORO, Ills., March 21—Two looters, one shot through the leg, were in the county jail here today.

No special guards have been placed about the building, for, contrary to general custom, no flame of anger against them seems to have risen from the populace.

The casualty was wounded by a soldier as he was trying to strip a diamond ring off the finger of an unconscious woman.

POSING AS DRY AGENT, VISITOR ROBS FARMER

John Foster, North of Wellsville, Fleeced Out of $156.

THIEF IS ARMED

Report of Bold Job is Made to Authorities.

Gaining an entrance into the shanty of John Foster, who lives near the Charles Swearingen farm, several miles north of Wellsville, by announcing himself as a federal prohibition officer, an unidentified man last night robbed Foster of $156 in cash and escaped.

When Foster opened the door of his place, the visitor explained he had authority to search the dwelling for liquor. He was armed with a revolver.

According to police reports, the thief brandished the weapon while he confiscated the money.

Foster reported the theft to Wellsville police who made a hurried trip to his house. An investigation is under way.

Poison is Found In Vital Organs of Ohio Plot Victim

ELYRIA, March 21.—City Chemist E. G. Curtis today notified Prosecuting Attorney Joseph A. Seymour, at Medina, that arsenic poison had been found in the vital organs of Mrs. Lillian Gienke, who died January 4. A post-mortem held after her husband, Fred Gienke, Sr., died in a local hospital a month later, also revealed arsenic poison.

The body of Mrs. Sophie Hazel, third victim of the poison plot conceived, according to her signed confession, by Mrs. Martha Wise, may not be exhumed, it was stated today. Seymour believes that he now holds sufficient evidence to prosecute on the murder charge.

Mrs. Wise will be arraigned Monday at 10 o'clock before Justice W. P. Ainsworth, Medina, on a charge of first degree murder. It is probable that this will be supplemented by an insanity charge.

24 Rescue Workers Overcome by Gas in Barrackville Mine

ON BOARD U. S. BUREAU OF MINES RESCUE CAR NO. 3, AT THE MOUTH OF MINE NO. 41, BARRACKSVILLE, W. Va., March 21.—Twenty-four rescue workers searching for the remaining miners entombed in the Bethlehem Mines corporation mine here were overcome by the poisonous gases in the mine, according to a statement issued here at noon today.

Eighteen of the men were on the 9 p. m. to 3 p. m. shift and six men were on the 3 a. m. to 9 p. m. shift, the report said.

HIS WIFE IS ILL

Funeral Services Will be Held Here at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

George W. Meredith, retired East Liverpool business man, nearing his 75th birthday, died in his seashore home at Atlantic City, N. J., at 6:40 o'clock last night, following a three-day relapse from pneumonia.

Mrs. Meredith, his wife, suffering from heart disease, is critically ill.

Funeral services for Mr. Meredith will be held in the home of his son-in-law, John B. McDonald, Lincoln avenue, at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, in charge of Rev. F. C. Roberts, rector of St. Mathews' Episcopal church, Chester. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The body will arrive here at 9:37 a. m. Monday and will be taken to the McDonald home. Friends may view the body Monday night.

Born in New York.

Mr. Meredith, who was born in New York City on April 7, 1850, lived in Trenton, N. J., before coming to East Liverpool. He was employed for several years as a presser in the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery but left the pottery trade to enter business in which he was engaged here for 40 years.

He was located in Pittsburgh for 10 years, then moved to Atlantic City, where he had resided for seven years.

He had extensive business interests in Pittsburgh and Atlantic City as well as East Liverpool. He was the owner of the two-story business building at the Diamond and East Sixth street, and was a stockholder in the rockery City Ice and Products company.

Member of Elks' Lodge.

For many years he lived in Broadway in the brick residence now occupied as the Eagles' lodge temple.

Mr. Meredith was a member of the Buckeye Club and the East Liverpool lodge of Elks.

Besides his wife, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. John B. McDonald, of East Liverpool, and Mrs. Anna Cody, of Atlantic City, and three sons, Richard, of Pittsburgh; Thomas and Willis, of Atlantic City.

BURY PASTOR'S BODY TUESDAY

Rev. B. M. Swan's Funeral Will be Held Here.

The body of the late Rev. Benjamin M. Swan, 59, a son of the late Rev. James M. Swan, for many years pastor of the Longs Run Presbyterian church, near Calcutta, who died at Lake George, Florida, last January 19, will arrive in East Liverpool early Sunday morning.

The body will be taken to the Miller funeral home, West Sixth street, where services will be conducted at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. Donald W. MacLeod, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in charge. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

The Rev. Mr. Swan held his last charge at North Warren, Pa., where he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church. He went to Florida last fall, in hopes of improving his wife's health and while in the south he was stricken.

Mrs. M. B. Farrar and Mrs. Major Newman, of this city, are sisters of the late pastor.

New Traffic Rules; Ban Left Turns at St. Clair Corner

"Left turns" at the corner of Sixth street and St. Clair avenue have been banned by the police, in an effort to eliminate the traffic hazard at this point.

Automobiles, traveling south on St. Clair avenue, must turn west on Sixth street. Machines going through the Diamond may continue through to St. Clair avenue or turn east on Sixth street, but are not permitted to turn west on Sixth street. Police will enforce the regulation.

Machines parking on West Fifth street must be pulled along the curb instead of left standing at an angle. With both sides of the street lined with parked cars it is impossible for two automobiles to pass when the cars are halted at an angle, it is declared.

T. V. Milligan Plans to Erect Business Block and Warehouse

Fifth Street Section of Proposed Structure Will be Leased by Metropolitan Stores.

Plans for a three-story, fireproof business building, to occupy the Fifth street location, and a two-story brick and concrete warehouse at the northwest corner of Crook and Diamond alleys, replacing structures razed by the disastrous fire on February 22, were announced today by T. V. Milligan, secretary-treasurer of the Milligan Hardware and Supply company. Rebuilding will begin as soon as the sites are cleared.

The three-story structure, which will replace a six-story building wiped out by fire, will have a frontage of 46 feet 9 inches on Fifth street and extend through to Diamond alley, a distance of 130 feet.

The Metropolitan Stores, Inc., of New York, operators of chain stores, have secured a 15-year lease on the basement, first and second floors of the building for the entire frontage on Fifth street and extending back a distance of 80 feet along Crook alley. The Milligan Hardware and Supply company will occupy the remainder of the building, with its entrance at the rear of the structure.

Purchases McGarry Building

The Metropolitan Stores, Inc., have been operating mainly in the east, handling a general line of merchandise from five cents to $1.

The warehouse will cover a ground space of 22½ by 48 feet. A frame building, badly damaged when the walls of the six-story structure collapsed during the fire, will be razed to make room for it.

Contracts for the two buildings will be awarded as soon as plans can be prepared and approved. In the meantime, a large force of men and trucks are at work clearing the ruins.

Mr. Milligan yesterday purchased

Grim Story of Tornado Comes From Gorham, Ill., Where 90 Persons Out of Less Than 1,000 Were Killed.

CARBONDALE, Ill., March 21.—One of the grimmest stories of the tornado comes from the little town of Gorham, ten miles south of Murphysboro, where 90 persons were killed out of a population of less than 1,000. It was told by Mrs. Alice Tomure, 70, a paralytic who escaped with her life, as did her 17-year-old son, while her husband, 71, died a terrible death after the family had been lifted over a hill into a corn field.

"It grew dark," she said. "The rain poured down. When the wind struck us I could feel it lift the house. It must have been raised ten feet from the ground and was whirled right around the big elm tree. The branches struck through the window. Then there was a great splintering and cracking and the wall fell outward. I felt myself going through the air. I was stunned and when I came to was lying in the corn field across the hill. There is a little creek there and my feet were in the water. At my side lay my husband. I turned to him. A great spike had been driven through his lip.

Pray as Death Looms.

"I'm dying, Alice, dear," he said to me. And we laid there and prayed together.

FEAR TETANUS IN STORM ZONE

MURPHYSBORO, March 21.—Physicians and nurses are laboring today to check the spread of tetanus. Dr. J. E. Heis, of the Northern hospital, Chicago, stationed at Murphysboro, expressed fear early today that this infection is spreading, nothwithstanding the fact that innoculation for both typhoid and tetanus has been given all patients.

The water system is still paralyzed here, and placards have appeared over the devastated area cautioning the citizens to boil their drinking water.

Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, Reported Missing

Police of nearby communties today were asked to aid in the search for Charles Wilkinson, 50, of Columbiana, who disappeared from his home Thursday.

Wilkinson, leaving home, presumably for work, mailed a letter from Columbiana to his wife's uncle, Ira Seachrist, of New Waterford, stating that he was "going away" and that it would be useless for them to spend time or money to look for him. Seachrist received the letter Friday and immediately informed his niece, Wilkinson's wife.

Wilkinson left his home about two years ago, going to Akron without informing his family of his whereabouts. About two months later a letter was received from him, stating that he was working as a farm hand near Lima. He claimed to have been suffering from a lapse of memory.

The man was a former oil field worker. He has no children.

OHIO DRY LAW CHIEF TURNS ARTILLERY ON STEUBENVILLE

Gov. Donahey Will Probe "Sore Spot" in Enforcement.

CHARGES AIRED

Three Jefferson County Village Mayors Under Fire.

COLUMBUS, March 21. — Charges that Steubenville and vicinity constitute the "sore spot" in prohibition enforcement in Ohio and complaints against law enforcement officials will be aired before Governor Donahey within the next two weeks, State Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald announced today.

At the same time Commissioner McDonald made public a letter he had written to Alex Felczan, Dillonvale, agent of the United Mine Workers, in which McDonald charged Felczan's "associates are interested in the bootlegging game," which was the latest passage in the correspondence warfare between the two officials.

It was announced also at the executive offices that three Jefferson county mayors would be called before Gov. Donahey at a date to be fixed later to answer charges filed by Felczan that they had issued, in blank, commitments, releases, affidavits for state warrants and state warrants, in liquor enforcement cases. The mayors under fire are W. G. Parks, Smithfield; Wm. J. McCann, New Alexandria, and Wm. A. McNary, Bloomfield.

FIRE DAMAGES BLAKE RESIDENCE

Fire, believed to have been caused from sparks, slightly damaged the home of Percy Blake, St. Clair avenue, about 11:30 o'clock this morning. The blaze originated around a window casing in the second story of the house.

Firemen from the No. 1 and 3 stations extinguished the blaze with chemicals. The loss, amounting to about $100, is said to be covered by insurance.

POLICE RENEW GAMBLING WAR

Visit Dresden Avenue Club Room, But Find No Evidence.

Police today renewed their war against alleged professional gambling here.

Under orders of Chief McDermott, patrolmen on duty in the uptown district are making visits at 15 or 30-minute intervals to a club room on the second floor of a Dresden avenue building. The doors of the place are not locked, but police reported that a lookout is on duty at the top of the stairway leading to the second floor.

The occupants of the room, last night, demanded that the police produce a search warrant in order to search the room. The search warrant was immediately issued by Mayor Brown and the police visits to the place resumed.

New warrants, empowering the police to visit and search the rooms, will be issued daily, Chief McDermott declared.

The owner of the building is reported to have ordered the club room vacated and padlocked the door. Police say the padlock was removed by the occupants, the claim being made that their rent is paid and that they cannot be ejected unless their lease has been violated. No evidence of law violation has been uncovered by the police.

1,084 MEMBERS ENROLLED BY COUNTY MOTOR CLUB SINCE LAST JUNE 1

Headquarters are Maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, While Nine Service Stations Have Been Established.

The Columbiana County Motor club, formally organized last June 1, boasts a membership of 1,084, according to figures announced today by Secretary E. M. Diehl, of East Liverpool. This membership is based on records of March 1.

After the East Liverpool Automobile club had ceased to function for several years, organization of the county club was started May 7, 1924. The organization work had progressed to such a degree in three weeks that on June 1, 1924 the club was granted a charter by the American Automobile association through the Ohio State Automobile association.

During the last nine months, the county club has been working diligently in the interests of the motorist. Headquarters are now maintained in East Liverpool and Salem, where information is available not only to local but traveling motorists. Reports of accidents are tabulated and general club service and assistance are given all members of the A. A. A. organization. Notaray public and auto license service is available at both the East Liverpool and Salem quarters.

Nine garages and service stations, all of which are under bond, have been established in various parts of

FOUR NEW STAMPS WILL BE ISSUED ON APRIL 15, POSTMASTER ANNOUNCES

BISHOP WILL VISIT COUNTY

Rt. Rev. Theodore Henderson Will Attend M. E. Conference.

Columbiana county Methodist ministers and church workers will meet in the First Methodist Episcopal church in Lisbon, Friday, March 27, for a conference with Bishop Theodore Henderson of Cincinnati, in charge of the Ohio and Kentucky area.

Bishop Henderson, who succeeded Bishop W. T. Anderson, assigned to Detroit, is making a visit to each county in his district in the interest of evangelism. Conferences at Lisbon will be held at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Luncheon will be served at noon.

According to Bishop Henderson, churches, since the close of the war have been paying too great attention to the financial side of church life. His idea is to emphasize the spiritual and evangelistic sides more for the present, leaving the finances to take care of itself.

He will go to Wellsville for a dinner meeting with members of the First Methodist Episcopal church at the close of the afternoon conference at Lisbon. He will come to East Liverpool for an evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

The conference meetings at Lisbon during the morning and afternoon and the evening session here will be open to the public.

STEARNS URGES CO-OPERATION

Pittsburgh Manufacturer is Speaker at Foremen's Dinner.

A plea for a closer co-operation between employer and employes was voiced by W. D. Stearns, of the works manager's department of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, Pittsburgh, in an address at the fourth annual foremen's dinner held at the Y. M. C. A., last evening, under auspices of the industrial department.

Edwin Wells, Jr., presided. Stearns, discussing "Developing Men In Industry," said: The big problem, common in all forms of industry, was the workman. With poor workmen an industry will not succeed, he declared. With good men, efficiency can be obtained and the industry can be made a success.

Men can be helped by the proper support of those beneath them rather than being assisted by those who are above them," Stearns declared. "A man cannot be promoted unless he has educated others to take his place. No one can seek to implant qualities of leadership without developing these in himself.

Courtesy and Tact Pay.

"We need to be optimistic; a pessimist cannot make a success of anything. Use courtesy and tact wherever possible—it always pays. Try to pick out the worth-while men to bring along and develop. Give men an opportunity to help themselves. Furnish means for them to show the stuff they are made of.

"Personal contact helps us to understand the other fellow. Arrange conferences so that men may be able to swap ideas. Cultivate a spirit of confidence. Business and all life is based on confidence. It may take years to build up a spirit of confidence but one wrong step may destroy it. If you make promises, keep them.

"Co operate with each other and your industry is sure to succeed. Get-together and do things. 'Co' stands for company and also for co-operation. No relation between any two parties can continue very long unless it results in mutual benefit."

branches of the elm. He came for me. And by the time I had been carried to my husband's side he was dead."

"It was like teh whole world turning over and over, upside down," said Edna Forsee, daughter of Louise Forsee, a coal miner. She is in the hospital with a wrenched back.

"Otis and Mabel," her brother and sister were in school, she said. "Papa came home at noon. It started to rain harder and then to hail. Papa and mamma started to pray and I knelt with them. Then the house swung around and the world just seemed to turn over and over. Everything was flying in the air. I didn't know what to think. I just prayed.

Infant Blown From Mother's Arms.

From the arms of Mrs. Wanda Mattingly, 21, the wind blew her infant son, Norman, 19 months, while the mother clung desperately to Charles Glenn, aged 3, and to the banisters of the stairs of her home, from which the wind had blown the walls and roof away.

"I was on the second floor of the house when the storm came and gathered up the babies and started to the first floor," Mrs. Mattingley said. "I was just on the stairs when suddenly the walls seemed to fall outward, one by one, and the roof fell, leaving the stairway standing, exposed.

"The wind had such force that I had to take both babies in one arm and grasp the banisters to keep from being blown away. Then Norman was whisked from my grasp. I just sat on the stairs and bent over Charles Gleen to hold on to the baby I had left. Then the wind went down and I went downstairs. I collapsed. Pretty soon along came the preacher, Lee Brown, with my baby in his arms. He found Norman crying in a pile of debris about 15 yards from the house."

Lieut. Wood, 'Broke,' Plays Chess on His Homeward Trip

Wood is feeling fine. Although the vessel has been running into rough weather, he is standing the trip well.

Agree on Proposal to Extend Terms of Job Holders.

COLUMBUS, March 21. — Radical changes in the proposal to extend terms of elective officials by constitutional amendment have been agreed upon by legislative leaders, Speaker Harry B. Silver, of the house, said today.

Agreement has been reached between house and senate Republican leaders to abandon the resolution of Senator Arthur W. Sweeny, Summit, which has passed the senate, and to substitute for it a resolution sponsored by Representative Robert L. Rohe, Seneca, which will propose general constitutional changes to permit the legislature to revise the system of tenure of public officials.

The resolution, which is scheduled to be adopted next week, the closing working week of the legislature, will, in general, propose amendment of the Ohio constitution so as to provide four-year terms for state and county, but not for municipal elective officers. It will be broad enough, however, to leave the legislature largely the power to fix terms of such officers.

The proposal, also, will authorize the legislature to provide for appointment of certain officers who are now elected under provision of the state constitution. These will include clerks of courts and county recorders and may include other officers.

The Sweeny resolution, as it was adopted by the senate, proposed a constitutional amendment to extend terms of elective state, county and city officials to four years. Legislative leaders believe it is too broad and too strict in its verbiage.

Legislators will return Monday to wind up most of the work of the 1925 session. The hardest working week of the session is scheduled.

VIRGINIA MOB LYNCHES NEGRO

Prosecutions Threatened After Prisoner is Shot and Burned.

WAVERLY, Va., March 21.—Prosecutions were threatened today of many prominent citizens of Sussex county who were in the mob of nearly 2,000 persons that last night took James Gordon, a negro, and lynched him after he had been accused of assaunting a young white woman. It was Virginia's first lynching in four years.

Prosecuting Attorney Howerton was quoted as saying that "practically everybody in the county appears to have been there," and he intends to present a number of prominent names to the grand jury.

Members of the mob made no efforts to conceal their identity, so no difficulty is expected on that score.

Howerton was among the officers who pleaded with the ring leaders of the mob to allow the law to take its course.

The negro, a stranger in the community, was captured near a sawmill late yesterday. He was identified by his victim and is said to have confessed to the crime. He was lodged in jail, but soon after dark a mob gathered and, despite efforts of county officers, the jail was raided and the negro taken out and strung up. His body was riddled with bullets and later burned.

Governor Trinkle at Richmond was reported today to be aroused over the lynching. It occurred so quickly there was no opportunity for him to order out troops to prevent it.

the James McGarry building, a two-story frame structure in Diamond alley, now occupied by Paul Hune, wholesale confectioner. Possession of this structure will be taken as soon as the present occupant vacates. Mr. Hune, it is understood, will occupy a store room in an adjoining building which he owns. Both buildings were damaged in the fire.

The Milligan Hardware and Supply company will maintain its temporary quarters in the former McGarry building pending the completion of the new buildings. Offices have been established and some stock is being carried on the second floor of the George C. Thompson building, Market and Fourth street, above the Gamble Drug store. A temporary warehouse is now being occupied in a section of the Faulk building, Dresden avenue, formerly occupied by the Glenn automobile paint shop. This will be utilized until the new structures are ready for occupancy.

200 Guests Attend Father-son Dinner In M. E. Church Here

More than 200 men and boys attended the Father and Son banquet held in the social rooms of the First Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The dinner was served by members of the Ladies' Service league and girl members of the church.

Music was furnished by the Cochran Girls' orchestra. Prof. H. F. Laughlin led the singing. The speaker was Dr. W. E. Hammake, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Youngstown, whose subject was "What is Life." He was introduced by Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the church, and master of ceremonies.

The speaker declared that the principal aim in life was not making money, not having a good time, nor rising to the top of a heap where one might dominate his class. He pointed out to the boys, the necessity of making the right selections and to the men, the urgent need of setting the proper example before their sons.

Evangelistic services will begin in the First M. E. church beginning Sunday and continue for two weeks. At the Sunday morning service Dr. Fowler will discuss "An Anaesthetized Church" and Sunday evening "A Happly Churchman." Services will be held each evening next week at 7:30 o'clock. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, Cincinnati, will preach Friday evening.

the county to give mechanical first aid, wreck and touring service to local and visiting members. These service stations are located in East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Salineville, Hanoverton and Damascus, where day and night service is available. One hundred and seven calls for road service, 83 of which entailed expense in addition to the $1 service fee paid by the member, have been answered since the club was organized. Several damage claims of members were also adjusted by the club.

The club also represented several members who were arrested for traffic violations. Service was also given in the recovery of a number of stolen machines reported by neighboring clubs. Officials of the county club co-operated with police officials throughout the county in curbing auto thefts.

The club was instrumental in having a new traffic ordinance passed by the East Liverpool city council. The ordinance was then published in booklet form and 4,000 copies distributed to local motorists.

The club assisted the police department in East Liverpool, Salem and Lisbon in the establishment of safety zones for pedestrians and marking the "no parking" zones. Attractive enameled signs—no parking, one-way streets, school zone, etc., were purchased by the club and erected in this city, Salem and East Palestine. Danger signs were also erected throughout the county.

Urged Highway Improvements

The influence of the club in good road projects and providing detours while road construction was in progress was marked.

The brake and headlight test advocated by the United States bureau of standards in an effort to promote safety was sponsored in East Liverpool by the club, co-operating with the police department. Accepting the theory that "a stitch in time saves nine," the club urged the immediate repair of the Lincoln highway in Madison township as part of their road service work. State route signs were erected at the suggestion of the club in East Liverpool and Wellsville. The center lining of the improved highways of the county was also favored as a means of reducing traffic accidents.

When a tornado swept Lorain and Sandusky last June, the club co-operated with the Red Cross in collecting clothing and contributing to the relief fund.

Tornado's Death Toll

the late casualty figures of yesterday and it is believed that the final death totals will bring only minor additions. The exact toll of the storm, Red Cross officials admitted, probably never will be known. There were some victims actually annihilated in the wind-terror. Others were removed to different towns, and there may have been scores of visitors in the section who will not be missed for weeks.

Today eyes of those in the stricken areas turned for the first time to reconstruction and with the funerals over, concerted efforts to rebuild the devastated area is expected to start.

There is a possibility that some of the towns will not be rebuilt. Rescue workers say that Parrish and De Soto, Ill., are virtually completely razed and they will be left as they are—a permanent record of the storm.

Broken Hearts, Shattered Cities.

BENTON, Ill., March 21.—While Illinois' vast areas of broken hearts and shattered cities resumed the enormous task of burying its tornado dead, it was apparent today the ever-swelling roster of death would not be checked for days and weeks.

Death was still alert and stalking methodically over the paths of Wednesday's epochal storm and today its harvest stood at 666 mortals—an increase of more than 20 deaths since midnight.

Although hundreds of doctors and nurses thoroughly equipped by field supplies, augmented by hospitals throughout southern Illinois, battled in unwavering vigil, each hour saw the passing of life from broken and mangled bodies.

It will be thus for days. There are more than 100 persons for whom little hope is held.

Search Rural Districts.

During the night and early today, searching crews that have patrolled the rural districts where 200 farms lay in waste, brought in additional bodies and injured. It was this work that was responsible for the quick rise of the death toll in the early hours of Friday night.

At Carmi, where four persons had been known dead, the number suddenly leaped to 27 when rescue crews reported from the farm districts with a dozen victims and word came from surrounding towns that many Carmi injured in hospitals were dying.

Here at Benton, search of the more isolated regions had amassed 16 bodies, at Grayville four, and at Gorham, sent death figures up to 72.

At Murphysboro, six gave up the fight between midnight and dawn. Inquests are a seeming endless formality everywhere. The Coroner's jury operates in relays, one group sleeping, while the other identifies and legalizes the wholesale human destruction of Wednesday.

At West Frankfort, four passed away and three bodies were recovered, sending the total there to 129—and so it was throughout the entire area of Mistery.

Morphine Supply Exhausted.

The great task before medical corps had, early today, practically exhausted the supply of morphine used to soothe hundreds of pain-wrecked men, women and children. Ether and chloroform supplies have diminished alarmingly with the performing of 200 operations.

An appeal for airplane delivery of these precious opiates and anaesthetics went out before dawn. But while surgeons and physicians sparingly apportioned their remaining supplies, a deeper fear was reflected in the possible attack of pestilence. The springing up of miles of tented homes and crudely constructed shacks, with sewage and sanitary conditions generally in a deplorable state, has provided a sound basis for these apprehensions.

Isolation has been resorted to and wherever a patient develops symptoms of disease, they are rushed out to these carefully patrolled outlying stations. Relief work among the 10,000 homeless in Missouri and Illinois, however, has settled down to systematical routine. Each stricken city has its emergency relief association, composed of local business men and civic organizations.

Distribute Clothing, Food.

Clothing and food, contributed and arriving by trainloads, are being distributed by the tireless forces of the gallant Salvation Army, churches, lodges and boy scouts.

Wearing apparel was grimly humorour. Women were dressed in odds and ends of clothing of both men and women. Men wrapped in women's coats and the remaining uninjured children prove a difficult problem in distinguishing sex. Small boys were wearing dainty little dresses and small girls were running about the tumbled ruins in trousers and caps. Occasionally a little group assembles and innocently trade garments.

Medical detachment 129th infantry, Illinois national guard, with Major E. Lord, of Plano, in command, Captain A. J. Roberts, of Ottawa, assisting, has arrived and thrown its resources into medical relief bases.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 21—Ten refrigerator cars went forward from St. Louis today to the storm areas of Illinois at the request of undertakers to be used for storing the unidentified dead and the bodies of those who will be buried in other states. One hundred cases of embalming fluid and a hundred coffins were also sent from here.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 21. — Forward movements in the oil and specialty stocks was the principal feature of the stock market today. A few of the railroad and industrial stocks made further progress under the stimulus of short covering as also did public utility stocks and the copper shares.

Pan-American continued in the leadership of the oil stocks, its rise to 83 being accompanied by rumors that standard oil interests had bought substantially in the company with the Standard Oil of New York taking an interest in the California properties and the Standard of Indiana in the Mexican fields.

Grain and cotton markets were slightly lower at the opening. Continental exchanges showed a shrinkage in early quotations. Trading in the Wabash stocks and Chesapeake and Ohio was the feature of the railroad stock list. Demand for the former isb ased on expectations of the inauguration of dividends next Thursday. Speculative interest in Chesapeake and Ohio centers raound the determined fight being made by the minority stockholders to prevent the leasing and final amalgamation of the road with the new Nickle Plate system.

The higehr level of prices invited both profit taking and short covering and stocks were offered for sale more liberally in the second hour. The market was again reactionary and prices of the market leaders declined a point or more from the high level of the day, in some cases the decline also cutting out a part of Friday's rally.

BANKER IS GIVEN NEWSPAPER HIS GRANDFATHER LENT 77 YEARS AGO

Frank Crawford Sends Old Copy of Ohio Patriot to Thomas H. Fisher.

Thomas H. Fisher, active vice president of the First National Bank, received a newspaper a few days ago which his grandfather lent a neighbor more than 77 years ago.

Three-fourths of a century ago, Thomas Laughlin, grandfather of Mr. Fisher conducted a general store in the village of Fredericktown, located at the junction of the west and north forks of the Beaver Creek, nine miles north of here.

Mr. Laughlin was a subscriber of "The Ohio Patriot," a Democratic weekly, published at Lisbon, then known as New Lisbon. David Crawford, who operated the grist mill at Fredericktown for many years, borrowed Mr. Laughlin's paper, dated December 31, 1847, and for some unexplainable reason the paper was preserved among Mr. Crawford's possessions.

Mr. Crawford died a few years ago after celebrating his 90th birthday. His son, Frank Crawford, examining his father's possessions not long ago, found the paper, addresed in ink to Thomas Laughlin.

Realizing that the paper would be highly prized by Mr. Fisher, a grandson of the original owner, Mr. Crawford returned it to him. It is in an excellent state of preservation.

The paper carries an advertisement of the law firm, Umbstraetter, Stanton & Wallace, of Lisbon. Edwin Stanton, a member of the firm, was secretary of war during the administration of President Lincoln.

An advertisement, concerning the packet boat, "Caleb Cope," operating between Pittsburgh and Wellsville, is carried in the paper. Mahlon Martin was listed as being the Wellsville agent for the company.

Other methods of compiling the necessary data will be used, Hardman announced.

REFUSE DUMPED IN PLAYGROUND

Issuing a public warning to the effect that the municipal playground in Seventeenth street is not a dumping ground, police officials here and officers of the playground association today launched plans for bringing the practice to a termination.

Complaints were filed recently with authorities by officers of the association.

It is alleged that persons residing in the district have deposited cans, refuse of various kinds and in some instances garbage in certain portions of the playlot during the winter.

As a result, the city will be compelled to clean the place anew before it can be opened for the use of children this summer.

Police do not hesitate to announce that arrests will be made if further violations are reported.

Putting Brakes On Reckless Drivers

At least one reckless driver will not imperil pedestrians here for the next six months, for yesterday he was sentenced to pay a fine of $125 and costs—$100 on one count and $25 on another—and serve six months in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to charges of operating an automobile while intoxicated and also of driving his automotive vehicle past a street car while it was discharging passengers.

The two fines and jail term were meted out by Mayor Brown following an accident on Harvey avenue, East End, in which a street car conductor was knocked down and sustained a triple fracture of the left leg and other injuries.

The penalty, the maximum under the law, will do more to check the speed mania on the part of motor vehicle drivers and also convince them that whisky and gasoline are a dangerous combination than anything that has happened in police court during the last fifteen months.

The man who drives an automobile should have possession of his wits and keep his eyes on the road if other motorists and pedestrians are to be safeguarded. The driver who is under the influence of liquor is a menace to the safety of others who use the streets.

East Liverpool's contribution to the nation's appalling toll in traffic accidents will show a big decrease during 1925 if more maximum sentences are given "joy-riders" and others who seem to delight in "stepping on the gas."

The New Cable.

A new Atlantic cable, the first cable direct from America to Italy, has been completed and officially opened. This is of interest in many ways to two countries closely associated. It means better communication between the Old and New Worlds.

It means scientific progress, too. A new metal, "permalloy," is used. Wrapped about the usual copper core, it decreases resistance to electric currents and make possible the sending of messages at a speed eight times as fast as formerly.

This cable, and others to follow it under the sea to many lands, will be used, never fear, in spite of wireless stations and air mail. They mean certainty and privacy of transmission, and cheaper rates. Mankind, with the growing together of the world, will need all its means of intelligence, just as it will need both old and new means of transporting people and goods.

A Profitable Surrender

Even if the United States had a better case for holding the Isle of Pines than it did, the relinquishment of the island to Cuba would have been worth the sacrifice in its result upon Latin-American relations. The response of our Spanish and Portuguese neighbors has been quick and warm. Combined with boundary settlements in South America in which the United States had a hand, it has produced a remarkable outburst of good feeling.

"It would be difficult," says El Nacion, of Buenos Ayres, "to record days more auspicious for justice and the peace of America since the winning of independence." It sees in the surrender of the Isle of Pines, after possession a quarter of a century, "a definite and effective recognition of the rights of the weak." Such approval has not always attended the activities of the United States in the international affairs of this hemisphere.

"Confidence in our great sister republic," continues the Argentine paper, "is well merited and constitutes a foundation for continental security." It finds in this act of voluntary renunciation of a piece of territory small but valuable, on a basis of strict justice to a neighbor, proof of the value of the Monroe Doctrine. It is well worth while to win such a concession from republics that have long been suspicious and resentful of the policy that doctrine represents.

Good faith pays, internationally as individually. Now the senate probably wishes it had taken the step 20 years ago.

Handing the Flu Around

Dr. John Sundwall, of the University of Michigan health service, says the flu epidemic is due mainly to the friendly handshake.

"The infectious organisms of this group of diseases are present in the discharges from the nose and mouth," he explains, "and the average man's hands are contaminated with these secretions. A man who has the infection and whose hands are contaminated meets and shakes hands with a friend. Shortly the other's fingers go to his mouth, and the route of transmission is completed."

It may be futile to urge people to shake hands less, and to stay at home in strict privacy when they have the flu or any other highly contagious disease. There are still many who boast that they "don't believe in germs," and the rest are pretty careless. Nothing could suppress the aggressive "glad hand artist." But surely it is not too much to ask those suffering either from the flu or from "common colds" to wash their hands more frequently. That would help some.

A New York motorist is charged simultaneously with "driving without a license," "using false license plates," "driving while intoxicated," "speeding," "striking and instantly killing a pedestrian" and "fleeing from the scene of the accident." If that man isn't careful, he'll be getting into trouble one of these times.

Governmental processes are surprisingly alike in different countries. The British parliament votes the Prince of Wales $75,000 for a vacation trip and our congressmen vote themselves similar amounts for junketing trips.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New York's Air Terminal.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—New York city is seeking to become the greatest air port in the world and to this end is planning a grand central station of the air that will far outclass anything of the kind in Europe where commercial aviation is making its most notable progress.

As a first essential toward the consummation of these plans the business interests of the city are making a concerted drive to persuade the federal government to abandon the Governor's Island military post and cede the island back to the state of New York. The island, it is claimed, is ideally adaptable to aviation needs, affording ample landing facilities for land and sea planes, and for dirigibles as well, in the very heart of the metropolitan district. It can be made available for this purpose almost overnight and by the expenditure of an insignificant sum of money.

Governor's Island lies in New York bay, south of the Battery, and at the entrance to East river. It is separated from Brooklyn by Buttermilk channel. Three hundred years ago the island was 1,500 feet long and 900 feet wide with an elevation above high water of 20 feet and an area of about 100 acres. Now, however, its area is almost double that, there being a large expanse of built-up land at the southern end of the island that was constructed of silt and rock taken from the East river tunnel operations in 1901.

New Yorkers insist that the island was ceded to the government only that it might be used in the military defense of the city and that it has not been used for that purpose for generations, the fortifications that defend the city having been established at the entrance to the Narrows and along the shores of Long Island. Hence, they claim that the government should recede the island and make possible its use for aviation purposes.

War department and other government officials grant readily enough that the island is not used for defensive military purposes, but assert that it is none the less of importance as a military post whence troops can be rushed to the heart of New York in case of riots or similar disturbances. They also say they have not been convinced of its utility as an aviation terminal, claiming that fogs will render it frequently an extremely hazardous if not impossible landing place.

Thus there are numerous questions to be fought out and argued before committees of congress and probably on the floor of both house and senate.

An Historic Spot.

Governor's Island is rich in history and tradition. In 1621, under the name of Nutten Island, it was a station of the West India company. Later it was used as a residence by the colonial governors of New York, hence its present name. Wouter Van Twiller, in 1637, was the first governor to use the island as the seat of his country residence. In 1708 it was in use as a quarantine station, and in 1784 Governor George Clinton leased it to a company which developed it as a summer resort and race course.

Lord Cornbury in 1702 and Governor Hardy in 1756 urged the erection of batteries on the island, but no definite action was taken until 1794, when there were rumors of a war with France. Then the state appropriated a quarter of a million dollars for the construction of a fort and earthworks and the federal government appropriated $31,117. The money was expended in building Fort Jay in the center of the island.

Other sums were used later in improving the fort, but in 1807 the work ceased for six years and then with an expenditure of $30,000 the fort was faced with permanent masonry and changed from an enclosed work of earth and wood. It was called Fort Columbus and the designs for it, and for Castle Williams, were drawn by Jonathan Williams, Lafayette's chief engineer. The plans called for 104 guns for Fort Columbus and 100 guns for Castle Williams. The latter exists today practically as it was when completed in 1811. Its area is three-fifths of a circle that is 200 feet in diameter and its walls are 40 feet in height.

In 1861-65 Castle Williams was used as a prison for confederates, as many as 1,000 of them being held there at one time.

At the present time all the buildings on the island are either temporary in structure, or are from 80 to 100 years old and in need of repairs and alterations. Should the place be converted into an aviation field or terminal it is purposed to preserve the historic landmarks, Castle Williams and Fort Jay, as long as they will stand.

Great Air Ports Abroad.

London, Paris, Berlin all have great air ports that are being enlarged constantly as commercial aviation is being developed. Croydon, the air station of the English capital, has been added to several times within the last five years, and planes are coming and going daily between it and all important European centers. The transportation business centering there is said to run to thousands of passengers and hundreds of tons of freight, mail and express every month.

Le Bourget is not only the Paris airdrome for the business end of transportation by air, doubling every year the volume of business handled, but it is one of the principal bases for the defense of Paris that have been established since the World war. Berlin's air terminal is Templehof, and it is credited with a large share of the amazing growth of commercial flying in Central Europe.

A committee of the Merchants' association of New York has made an extensive survey of foreign air ports and of New York's needs in that line. Its experts say that of all the sites that have been considered Governor's Island is by far the most desirable, and that if it can be secured New York will have an air port superior in many respects to anything of the kind abroad.

The feature that recommends it chiefly is, of course, its location within a few minutes of the business and population centers of the city. Various efforts have been made to establish commercial flying in and out of New York, and all have failed because they have not been able to operate from points less than an hour out of the city. The business is there, but it cannot be developed because of inadequate and impracticable terminal facilities.

The trials and tribulations of the air mail service are cited as illustrating New York's needs. Mail planes from the west must fly over the city to Curtis Field far out on Long Island at Mineola. This can be done in daylight, but with the establishment of the new night mail between Now York and Chicago the landing must be made near New Brunswick, in New Jersey, as night flying over the city cannot be hazarded.

Between the New York postoffice and Mineola the mail must be transported by trucks, with all the trouble and delays incident to the traffic congestion in the streets of the great city. From New Brunswick the mail will be brought into the city by train, necessitating its being handled additional times involving even greater delays.

In Europe the chief complaint directed against commercial flying is that while time is saved in the air, so much is lost getting to and from the terminals that in the end there is little gained. New Yorkers hope to profit from this lesson by establishing their air terminal on Governor's Island, only a few hundred yards from the Battery.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 21.—There is a saying in Paris that only Americans become drunk here. The only intoxicated person I have seen was a French peasant type who snarled up traffic in Place de la Bourse. He tried to stem the traffic and was rescued by a gendarme.

He sat on the curb awhile holding his whirling head and made another effort and was again deposited on the curb. What would have brought a clanging patrol wagon in New York became a sidewalk comedy. It actually became hilarious.

The gendarme laughed, the inebriate laughed and the populace howled as effort after effort was made to stagger through the jam. Finally a police inspector arrived on horseback. He, too, seemed to find humor in the situation and exchanged repartee with the drunk.

There was apparently no lese majeste when the offender grabbed the cap and club from the gendarme and attempted a Charlie Chaplin dance, yelling lustily "Charlot! Charlot!" as Chaplin is called here. Apparently it was going to become a question of endurance.

Only a sudden shower brought the travesty to an end and the cause of all the merriment lurched into a neighboring wine shop to refresh himself. One hears much unmitigated bunk about the manner in which France solves its drinking problem.

The most casual oberver would be convinced that the country would be far better off without liquor. New York in its hardest drinking days did not offer any more sodden, bleary eyed alcoholic exhibits. It is the custom of France to gloss over this decadence.

It is true many Frenchmen do not permit their indulgence to extend further than a glass of diluted wine with their meal or perhaps an aperitif in the evening. But this class is in a minority. France drinks deep and recklessly.

The wandering epicure will find his ideal in the restaurant Montaigne in Rue de 'Echelle. It is in an ancient building. Gluttony here seems to transcend a deadly sin and become a cardinal virtue. The exterior of a restaurant here is deceiving. The gaudy palaces usually serve wretched messes. But those that look as though they were dozing in a rut of mediocre food offer the best viands. At the open fireplace meats roast on the spit. Fish pie is the specialty with a very mild Burgundy and finally brandy served in delicately flanged glasses a foot wide from brim to brim so that the gourmet may inhale the aroma as he slowly sips the drink.

This afternoon I went to see the fashion parade at Patou's. He has six young American girls as mannikins. The one that is creating the biggest sensation is Carolyn Putnam, who happens to be a chum of my adorable little cousin in New York. Carolyn is an unspoiled beautiful child and without the artifice of cosmetics outshone the entire group. She has already been besieged with offers from New York beauty revue producers which shows that sometimes one must go away from home to be appreciated.

Patou in person was there. With an apple green shirt and collar to match. High heeled shoes with red tops. A gardenia in his lapel and white ribbon bows for cuff links. Tres jolie!

The gentleman who is growing gray handling my trifling business affairs in New York cabled today: "How long do you expect to remain in France?" I merely wired him for money and let it go at that. Anyway if he fires me I have been offered a job on a French newspaper at the magnificent salary of 320 francs a week—which is almost $20 in real money. However, I don't expect to tarry much longer. I'm getting homesick to see my dog. And I'm rather bored with itching palms on every turn. France is becoming a nation of beggars.

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By WALTER DIETZEL.

BERLIN, March 21.—Germany is going to remain "wet." The reichstag passed a resolution against wholesale prohibition, but demanding that measures should be taken to control further issue of licenses and that persons under age should be protested against any abuse of alsoholic drinks.

"Dries," as well as "wets," greed that wholesale prohibition would not be good for the German nation, since it might result in bootlegging and secret drinking.

A Nationalist deputy, speaking in favor of the resolution, pointed out that there was no doubt the wholesome effect of the campaign against alcohol in America, and complained that the German newspapers do not like to print stories sympathizing with prohibition. At the same time he emphasized the fact that wholesale prohibition would not be the "ideal thing," for "personal freedom should not be interfered with by such drastic measures."

Wilhelmshaven, once one of the most formidable naval strongholds on the European continent, today is the largest "ship cemetery" in the world—a striking symbol of Germany's naval defenselessness.

Within the last five years no fewer than 230 old men-of-war and merchantmen from all parts of the world have been dismantled at Wilhelmshaven dockyards, and about half a million tons of scrap-metal were realized.

Among the "deceased" vessels were a dozen former German warships, including the kaiser's famous yacht Hohenzollern, but the majority of them were foreign ships, including half a dozen British warships of the Nelson class and the United States freighter Minnesota, the biggest freighter in the world 20 years ago. During the war the Minnesota was used as a troop carrier, with accommodations one each trip for 6,000 officers and men.

The boom of the German scrapping business is over now. It was one of the few branches of business that flourished during the inflation period. The stabilization of the mark, entailing higher costs of tugging the "dead" craft into port, and higher wages rendered scrapping in Germany more expensive than scrapping abroad, so that the foreign shipping agencies stopped further orders.

Within the last year 3,700 German women have been kidnaped and taken to resorts in France, the United States, South America and the Balkans by international white slave traders, according to statistics issued by the government of the Prussian province of Schleswig.

Influential circles are preparing for a campaign in favor of a bill demanding death sentences for white slave traders. The paragraph reads:

"Whoever kidnaps a woman against her will by a ruse, making threats, or by force, in order to use her for immoral purposes; likewise, whoever is found guilty as an accessory in such cases, will be sentenced to death."

Recently a white slave trader was arrested while attempting to cross the Dutch border, tried and found guilty of kidnaping 50 girls between 17 and 18. A letter found in his possession reads, in part, as follows:

". . . those five girls are en route to New York. Safe aboard. Will arrive safely. Hamburg was literally swamped with detectives, but we got the girls through. Bit of hard work, too. Two of them almost gave us away by crying all the time; but, you know . . does them good in such cases. I sent the girls to Frisco. There they may cry for mother and father as much as they please.

"In case you should have more 'goods,' send them right away to Hamburg, slave bourse. Check en route . . ."

Urge Participation In Music Memory Contest in Ohio

Mrs. C. H. Risinger, East Liverpool, president of the East Liverpool, Symphony club, has been asked by the Ohio Federation of Music clubs of which Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley is the president, to arrange for local participation in the music memory contest to be held in Columbus in connection with the convention of the Ohio Federation of Music clubs and the Ohio State Music Teacher's association, April 20-24. The date of the contest is Wednesday, April 22.

This music memory contest takes the place of the one under the auspices of the state department of music held last year and the year before. It stresses American music and American composers. All groups of young folks whether in or out of school are eligible to enter the contest.

The regulations provide that the local committee should furnish at least two disinterested judges who could grade the examination papers at the local elimination contests. The local clubs may conduct their elimination contests according to their own plans but it is advisable to follow the state plan so that the winners will not be at a disadvantage. In the state contest brief portions of the several numbers will be played and the contestant will be given a period of approximately one minute and a half to write down the name of the composition, the name of the composer and his nationality. Ties will be worked off in the same manner by decreasing the number of measures of the selection played and the length of time allowed for making a record of the contestants' answers.

This year it has been arranged that the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will broadcast all the numbers from Cincinnati Broadcasting stations sometime in the early spring.

Each local organization is to hold elimination contests so that it may send to Columbus its two most proficient students. In Columbus the winners will contest for state honors and state prizes.

COST OF FRESH AIR CAMP $1,884

Report is Compiled by Officers of Health League.

Reports just compiled disclose that $1,884.70 was the cost of the Columbiana County Fresh Air Camp conducted during July and August last year on the George Farm in Madison township.

The county highway department furnished trucks to carry the equipment to the camp before it was opened, while groceries and other articles were delivered at the camp daily by the county nurse.

Children who were cared for during the two months of camp consumed 589 gallons of pure milk, 34 pints of cream and 142 dozen of eggs were also used during the season.

Kitchen and dining room building is owned and was used formerly by the Boy Scouts, but this equipment was loaned to those in charge of the Fresh Air camp last season. The new equipment purchased last season for this camp included certain cooking utensils, blankets and towels and play supplies. Only $14.55 was spent for drugs during the entire camp season.

All material for craft work was donated to the Fresh Air camp last season, and other donations included a large American Flag and a phonograph. The average cost of food for the 55 days of the camp has been placed at $11.40 while the cost of food per capita has been placed at 39.2 cents. For the care of 34 individuals cared for at the camp the cost per capita during the camp period was $18.44.

Four children were dismissed from the camp during the season, and eight children were admitted late in the season.

All children gained in weight while they were in camp, the greatest gain being nine and one-quarter pounds by one youngster. The average gain in weight has been placed at 4.5 pounds. Six children reached normal weight.

One child is reported to have lost one pound in weight, but the report explains that there is a possibility that her weight at the time she was received at the camp might have been in error.

Arrangements for a fresh air camp this year are now in the making. It is quite likely that the camp will again be established on the same farm as last year, and will be under the direction of the Columbiana County Public Health League.

MANY CASES WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Fifty cases will be investigated by the grand jury which will begin its April session two weeks from Monday next, which indicates that the work of the jury will prove to be heavier than for several years. Additional transcripts are being filed daily from the lower courts with Clerk of Courts John T. Burns, and it is probable that Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes will probe a number of special cases outside of those begun in the courts below.

SELECT EXPO BUILDING SITE

Plan Ohio Structure at Philadelphia Celebration.

Ohio will erect a building, costing $150,000, to represent this state at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition to be held at Philadelphia in 1926, if the recommendations of a committee of state legislators, of which Ralph W. Emmons of this city, is secretary, is adopted.

The committee, in addition to Emmons, includes Senator John M. Vorys of Columbus, Senator J. Lowrie Miller of Middletown and Representative M. K. Johnston of Selby, has returned from Philadelphia, where they conferred with the centenntial committee regarding a location for the Ohio building.

The site tentatively selected adjoins the location recently picked by New Jersey, which will erect a building estimated to cast $100 000. The Ohio society of Philadelphia will assist th elegislature in plans for the Buckeye state building.

The Ohio legislature has gone on record as favoring a building at the centennial celebration, although it has not acted on the committee's recommendation regarding the site and the cost of the structure. The proposed building will be devoted to a display of the state's accomplishments in welfare work, education, etc., according to Representative Johnson. The recommendations of the committee call for an appropriation of $150,000.

Q. How was the sale of the Friar Lands arranged?—F. S. D.

A. In 1900 Mr. Taft and other gentlemen forming a commission of which Major Archie Butt was one, went to Rome as unofficial ambassador for President Roosevelt in an effort to settle the matter of the "Friar Lands" question. The lands are gradually being sold by the government upon very easy terms and installments to the tenants.

A. A lance corporal is a provisional appointment without the pay of permanent rank. When vacancies occur as corporals, the man who is considered for the appointment to such a vacancy, is made a lance corporal with duties of a corporal, but not the pay of a corporal. If he qualifies and makes good at this provisional appointment he is made a regular corporal and his rank is confirmed with the pay of a corporal.

A Romance of the Spanish Main

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1922, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Blood, a young Irish physician, is sent to the Barbadoes as a slave under orders of King James. He is bought by Colonel Bishop, the military commander, and falls in love with Arabella, the niece of the colonel. Spaniards bombard the city and sack it. Blood saves Arabella and Mary Traill. He captures the ship and sails for Tortuga, the rendezvous of buccaneers of the Spanish Main. There Captain Blood, tormented by his fear that he will never see Arabella again and importuned by his comrades, takes command of a pirate fleet. Levasseur, a Frenchman, enlists under him. Levasseur captures a Dutch vessel and lands with Madelon d'Ogeron, daughter of the Dutch governor, and her brother on one of the Virgin Islands. There he demands ransom for d'Ogeron and holds Madelon as hostage. Upon this scene enters Captain Blood whose ship had lost sight of Levasseur's vessel in the storm.

"Not so." Levasseur contained himself with difficulty before that irony. "They were in the Dutch brig."

"I don't remember that you mentioned them before."

"I did not. They are prisoners of my own—a personal matter. They are Freneh."

"You do not take her while I live," he cried.

"French!" Captain Blood's light eyes stabbed at Levasseur, then at the prisoners. He frowned thoughtfully upon Levasseur.

"Yesterday you surprised me by making war upon the friendly Dutch. But now it seems that not even your own countrymen are safe from you."

"Have I not said this is a matter personal to me?"

"Ah! And their names?"

The prisoner answered for him.

"I am Henri d'Ogeron, and this is my sister."

"D'Ogeron?" Captain Blood stared. "Are you related by chance to my good friend the Governor of Tortuga?"

"He is my father."

"The saints preserve us now! Are you quite mad, Levasseur?"

Captain Blood sat down on the cask that Levasseur had lately occupied, and looked up blandly. "I may inform you, to save time, that I heard the entire proposal that you made to this lady and this gentleman, and I'll also remind you that we sail under articles that admit no ambiguities. You have fixed their ransom at twenty thousand pieces of eight. That sum then belongs to your crews and mine in the proportions by the articles established. But what is far more grave is that you have concealed from me this part of the prizes taken on your last cruise, and for such an offense as that the articles provide certain penalties that are something severe in character."

"Ho, ho!" laughed Levasseur unpleasantly. Then added: "If you dislike my conduct we can dissolve the association."

"That is my intention. But we'll dissolve it when and in the manner that I choose, and that will be as soon as you have satisfied the articles under which we sailed upon this cruise."

"What do you mean?"

"I'll accept the situation as I find it. Yourself you've fixed the ransom of this couple at twenty thousand pieces, and as I gather, the lady is to be your perquisite. But why should she be your perquisite more than another's, seeing that she belongs by the articles to all of us, as a prize of war? However, I'll not dispute her to you if you are prepared to buy her."

"Buy her?"

"At the price you have set upon her."

"That is the ransom of the man. It is to be paid for him by the Governor of Tortuga."

"No, no Ye've set their value at twenty thousand pieces, and for that sum you may have them, since you desire it; but you'll pay for them the twenty thousand pieces that are ultimately to come to you as the ransom of one and the dowry of the other; and that sum shall be divided among our crews."

That Captain Blood should dare oppose him with but a dozen followers whilst he had a hundred at his beck and call never entered the ruffian's mind But he did not reckon on the cupidity of his own men. They saw twenty thousand pieces within their reach. Levasseur demanded time until he had captured sufficient booty. But Blood would have none of that. Death lurked always in this desperate business, and he added:

"Then let some one buy the prisoners who has."

"And who do you suppose has it if I have not?"

"I have," said Captain Blood.

"You have!" Levasseur's mouth fell open. "You . . . you want the girl?"

Captain Blood drew forth a small bag, twenty pearls poured into his hand and Cahusac appraised them as worth the ransom. Levasseur in his anger sprang at Cahusac, and a blow scattered the pearls in the sand. The men dived for them.

Levasseur, his hand on his sword, his face a white mask of rage, confronted Captain Blood.

"You do not take her while I live!" he cried.

"Then I'll take her when you're dead," said Captain Blood, and his own blade flashed in the sunlight.

It was soon over. When, with both lungs transfixed, he lay prone on the white sand, coughing out his rascally life, Captain Blood looked calmly at Cahusac across the body.

"I think that cancels the articles between us," he said

With soulless, cynical eyes Cahusac and his mates considered the twitching body of their recent leader. Captain Blood had brought them to find Levasseur guilty of the one offense they deemed unpardonable, the crime of appropriating to himself something which might be converted into gold and shared amongst them all Whilst still they hesitated, Blood added something to quicken their decision.

"If you will come to our anchorage, you shall receive at once your share of the booty of the Santiago, that you may dispose of it as you please."

They crossed the island, the two prisoners accompanying them, and later that day, the division made, they would have parted company but that Cahusac, at the instances of the men who had elected him Levasseur's successor, offered Captain Blood anew the services of that French contingent.

"If you will sail with me again," the Captain answered him, "you may do so on the condition that you make your peace with the Dutch, and restore the brig and her cargo."

The condition was accepted, and Captain Blood went off to find his guests, the children of the Governor of Tortuga.

Mademoiselle d'Ogeron and her brother—the latter now relieved of his bonds—sat in the great cabin of the Arabella, whither they had been conducted. He doffed his feathered hat, and came forward to the table.

"Mademoiselle," said he in his vile but fluent French, "I beg you to dismiss your fears. Aboard this ship you shall be treated with all honor. So soon as we are in case to put to sea again, we steer a course for Tortuga to take you home to your father. And pray do not consider that I have bought you. Count it, if you please, a friendly loan to be repaid entirely at your convenience."

Mademoiselle stared at him in unbelief.

"Oh, you are noble!"

Captain Blood sighed. For the whole truth, which he withheld from Mademoiselle d'Ogeron, was that in venturing his life to save her, he had been driven by the thought that the deed must be pleasing in the eyes of Miss Bishop could she but witness it.

STATE SCHOOL LAWS DEBATED

Lower House Kills Two Measures Armed at Changes.

School problems furnished most of the legislative fireworks yesterday and provided enough ground for debate so that the house of delegates did not reach the end of the calanedar before adjourning over the week end. Meantime the senate had wound up its schedule of the day's work and it was also adjourned until Monday afternoon.

Bills affecting the compulsory school law and a new law to require teaching of the effects of alcohol in the schools stirred the oratorical efforts of the delegates. When a bill to clarify the law as to school attendance came up on the amendment stage an effort was made by Delegate David Van Sickle of Preston county to change the age up to which compulsory school attendance is required from 16 to 15 years. Chairman Deuley of the committee on education and other members spoke against the move and the vote of the house defeated the proposal. Delegate S. R. King of Nicholas county then offered a proposal in behalf of agricultural districts that instead of requiring attendance for the full term attendance for 120 days should be compulsory, but this proposal also was defeated.

Minority Leader Read offered an amendment to the bill requiring the teaching of the effects of alcohol which would have exempted private and parochial schools from its provisions, but Delegates Bayer, Edwards, Cogar and Robinson voiced their disapproval and a standing vote defeated the amendment.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Adieu, Adieu! My Native Shore.

Adieu, adieu! my native shore
Fades o'er the waters blue;
The night winds sigh, the breakers roar,
And shrieks the wild sea-mew,
Yon sun that sets upon the sea
We follow in his flight;
Farewell awhile to him and thee,
My native land—Good Night!

A few short hours, and he will rise
To give the morrow birth;
And I shall hail the main and skies,
But not my mother earth.
Deserted is my own good hall,
Its hearth is desolate;
Wild weeds are gathering on the wall;
My dog howls at the gate.

Growing demand for iron and steel products in Italy has caused the mills there to get behind with orders despite that some plants broke all records for production last year.

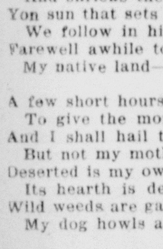

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES.

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough, why not try it. Refuse substitutes. Sold everywhere.

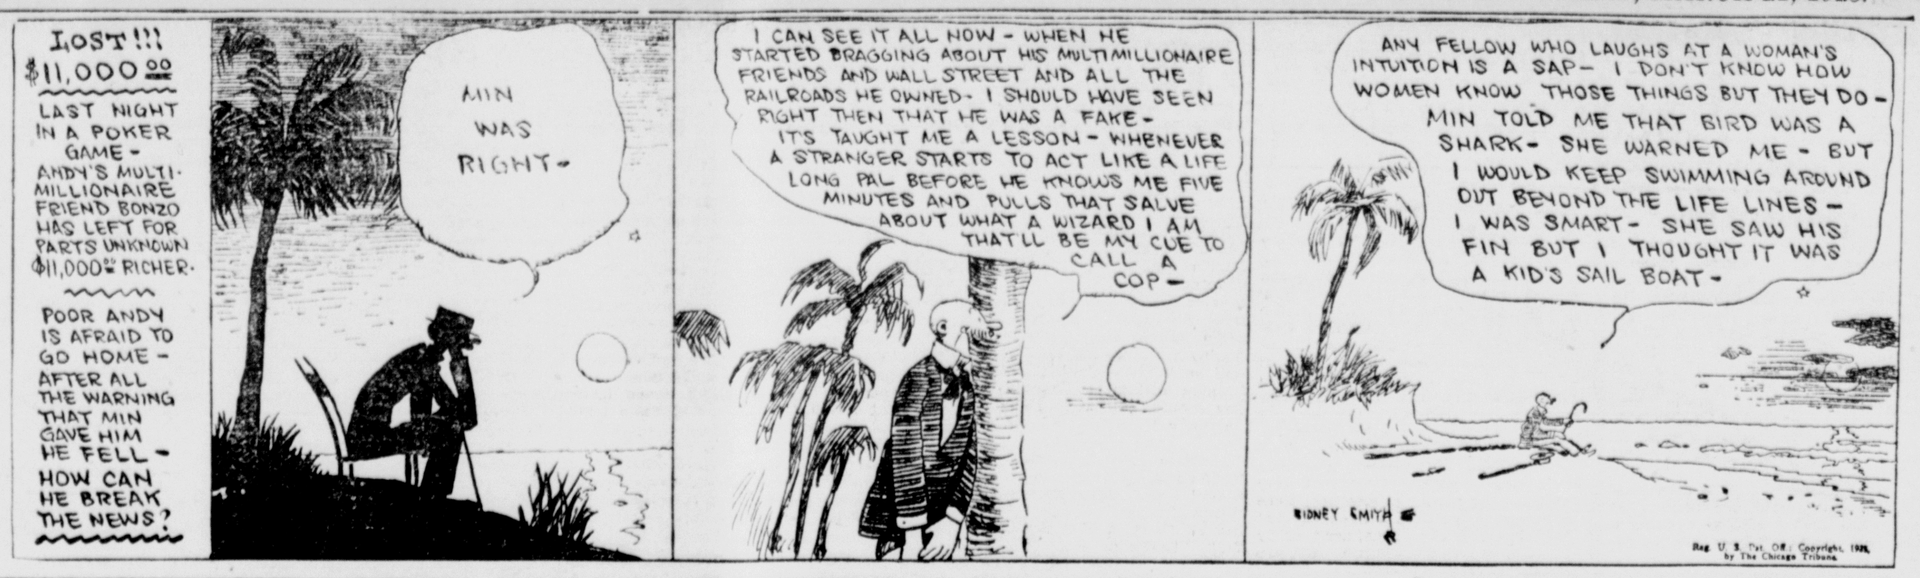

WOMAN AVOIDS AN OPERATION

Awful Pains and Misery Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

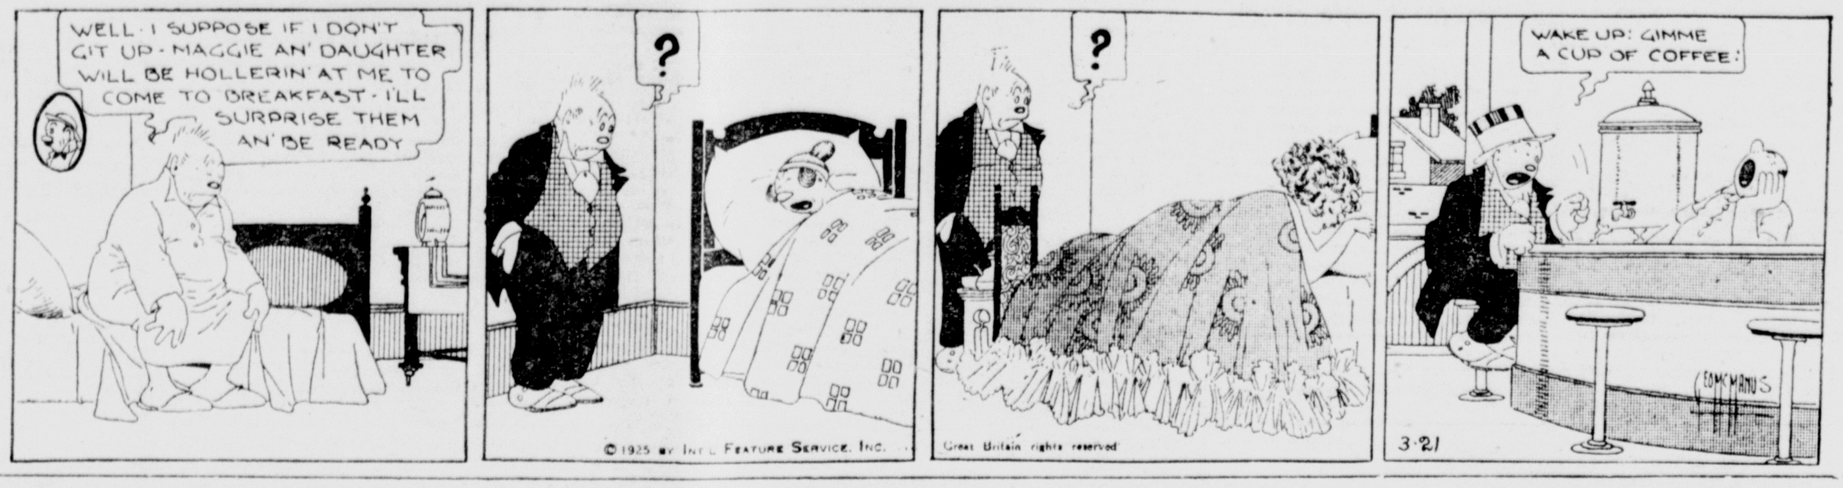

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking this medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it has saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine St., Lima, Ohio.

Epidemic of Rabies Continues Unabated Throughout Italy

ROME—Despite strict orders requiring the muzzling of all dogs, cases of hydrophobia in various Italian cities continue unabated. The latest care reported to the health authorities, who are striving to surb the evil, is that of a chauffeur who was bitten by a dog while on the way from Come to Milan. At first he felt no ill effects, but shortly afterward he showed such alarming symptoms of rabbies that he was transported with all haste to the Pasteur institute at Milan.

While in an ambulance on the way to Milan the man was seized with a sudden attack of madness, during which he scratched and bit the hospital guards who were riding with him. Examination of their wounds showed traces of rabies, but now they are recovering. The chauffeur died later in the institute in an agonizing parxysm.

Holbein on Bank Notes.

In an effort to baffle counterfeiters in Germany four pictures by Holbein have been used on the 10, 20, 50 and 100 mark bank notes. All four pictures are remarkable for the eyes. The expression of the face will be changed if the pictures are reproduced due to the peculiar squint of the eyes. As a further precaution ramie, the Asiatic fibre used in making incandescent gas mantles, is used in making the paper.

Worried About Your Health?

HAS a cold or attack of grip left you lame and stiff; miserable with backache—"all run down?"

Then how about your kidneys? You know, winter's colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. The kidneys are apt to slow up in their work of filtering poisons from the blood. Then may come constant backache, rheumatic twinges, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities.

Why not try Doan's Pills? Doan's action on the kidneys is to assist elimination of body impurities. They have no injurious effects and are known the world over for the good they have done. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

Mrs. C. C. Wells, 777 Fenton St., says: "My back ached like toothache and I couldn't rest after I went to bed. Sharp pains caught me in my back and I couldn't straighten when in a stooped position. My kidneys bothered me and I felt badly all over. Doan's Pills from the Anderson Drug Store cured me."

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

The centenary of the American Unitarian Association will be held in Boston, May 10-15.

Probably the first course in religious journalism in America has been introduced into the curriculum of the School of Journalism in the University of Missouri.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has just given one million dollars to the Hampton and Tuskeegee institutes for Negroes. Mr. Rockefeller's donation was made unconditionally, and brings the endowment fund now being raised to $3,500,000.

Catholics, Jews and Protestants are operating in New York city in experiments with a week-day religious instruction that may have far-reaching influence in the future. The plan is yet too new to reports its success.

Plans for entertaining the Portland, 1925, International Christian Endeavor convention are rapidly being formed by committees headed by some of the most representative business men and women of the city. A full-time executive secretary has been employed and every committee chairmanship has been filled.

Des Moines, Iowa, is in the midst of the most powerful spiritual awekening of recent years. A city-wide campaign, led by such men as John R. Mott, Sherwood Eddy, Alva W. Taylor, taking the gospel in its broadest and George Haines and Henry H. Crane is most searching aspects to the schools, clubs, business houses and organizations, and churches. Twenty thousand people daily are being stirred by messages calling for personal and social righteousness.

An adaptation of the Binat intelligence test has been used by the staff of the Raewind boys' school, at Raewind, in the Punjab, India, in order to break down the old fallacy which India has held for centuries that only the Brahmans are capable of intellectual development and should receive education. Sixty boys selected at random from some nine hundred in the schools in the Punjab, were given 72 individual tests. The lads were from Hindu, Mohammedan and outcasts families and in most cases their parents could neither read or write any language, but the intelligence of these boys was just as high as the average intelligence shown by sixty boys from Brahman families put through the same tests.

More than one-third of a million women in the United States are to have been brides under 16. Contrary to popular belief the great majority are of native white parentage. The seriousness of the situation becomes even more impressive when the report does not take into account the many marriages of girls over 16, but under 18.

What the Sunday School Is Studying

By James H. Snowden, D. D.

Wonderful days followed the resurrection of Jesus. Sensational reports and bewildering excitement filled the morning and day following this event. In the evening the disciples came together to compare reports and experiences. They met behind closed doors, but closed doors and solid walls could not exclude the risen Lord, and it seemed that his body had already at least partially undergone transformation into that "spiritual body" which Paul describes and which alone can enter the heavenly place.

The Risen Master.

As the disciples were discussing the wonderful news that he was risen, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them. There was something so strange in the apparition that these stout-hearted fishermen "were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit." His visible presence was too much for their senses to stand and they feared he was a spirit. These witnesses do not give us reports and rumors, the second-hand testimony of what others said they saw, but they were eyewitnesses and tell us what they themselves saw. "Peace be unto you" was the assurance with which Jesus quieted their fears and restored them to their normal minds; and then so great was their joy that they demanded further confirmation. Peace and joy are fundamental notes of the gospel, announced in the angels' song at his birth and holding their place in his teaching through to the end.

The Same Teaching.

The risen Christ, having verified his personal identity with the crucified Jesus, next established the continuity of his teachings. "These are the words I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me." Death had not revised his doctrines, corrected his creed, or changed one of his words. Across the casm of the grave his words flowed in unbroken continuity. This Teacher is not subject to change with the change of ages or of words, but is the same yesterday, today and forever. What he said before his death he said after his resurrection, for his words are eternal truth and shall never pass away. But the disciples were little able to understand these things, for their minds were still full of worldly ideas and there was little room and receptivity in them for the spiritual truths of the kingdom. "Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures." We make a great mistake when we think that because we have read the Bible through we have exhausted it. It is still full of unexplored depths and hidden treasures which are concealed from us because we have not had our eyes spiritually opened that we may behold wondrous things out of this law.

The Disciples as Witnesses.

The risen Christ had done his work, and now the disciples must take it up and carry it on as his witnesses. The Christian is a duplicate of Christ. The same spirit he manifested we are to have, and the same works he did we are to do, but on a larger scale. Yet the disciples were to tarry in Jerusalem until they were endued with power from on high. Waiting often precedes working. We are often impatient of the slow processes of education and rush into work unprepared and then fail. The tree grows a long time in secret before it suddenly blossoms. We must tarry in the secret place of the Most High in order that we come forth clothed with power.

A Worthy Conclusion.

We now come to the closing scene; and it is worthy of its place as the conclusion and climax of this wonderful life. Had the gospel been an invented story, or work of art, it would have been a hard problem to know how to bring it to an end. How shall this life, that opened with angle minstrelsy in the skies and was attended with many wonderful works and has just emerged from the tomb and been crowned with the glory of the resurrection, be brought to a fitting conclusion? What painter or poet would dare attempt the task? But give the pen to one of these humble disciples untrained in the literary art and he will write a conclusion that is the proper climax of the whole story and that, viewed simply as a piece of literature and work of art, is one of the most perfect and beautiful things in all the books of the world. Read these few verses and then say who can gild that gold or throw a perfume on that bit of literature? It is art surpassing art simply because the writer had no other purpose than to tell what happened on that memorable day at Bethany when the risen Lord made his farewell to his disciples and was then parted from them and carried up into heaven. "And they worshiped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy." They wanted to stay and stood gazing up into heaven but were sent back to their work. The heights for vision and inspiration, but the plain for transmitting vision into the victory of a better world. From our worship we should ever return to our work; from the vision of the risen Christ to the work of witnessing for him.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON—The Forty Days and the Ascension (Luke 24:36-53.) for Sunday, March 22nd.

1. What is the importance of the fact that the disciples were so slow to accept the reality of the resurrection?
2. What is the right course for one that has doubts about the great truths concerning Christ?
3. How many times have you failed to recognize the spiritual Lord Jesus who was going along with you?
4. What significance do you attach to the upward going away of Jesus and our location of heaven above our heads?
5. What is the relation of the resurrection to the missionary message?

CLERICUS SAYS: The best proof of the resurrection of Christ is a living church, which itself is walking in a new life, and drawing life from Him who hath overcome death.

Lesson Prayer.

Make us bold in thy name, Lord Jesus, to endure any hardship that may come to us in thy service. Teach us to count it all joy when we are called on to show our love by hard service. Make us glad to yield all to thee. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Book Review.

Ten Short Stories from the Bible, by Dean Charles R. Brown, The Century Company, New York, $1.75, would be difficult accurately to characterize. The author, recently voted one of the twenty-five most effective Protestant ministers in the United States has ingeniously cast a series of sermons somewhat in the form of the short story. He has selected experiences universal in their ethical quality and effectively applicable to all classes and problems in modern society.

The Making and the Meaning of the New Testament, by James H. Snowden, The MacMillan Company, New York. More than any other book the New Testament has shaped and colored the history of these 19 centuries. Mr. Snowden brings out countless seeds and innumerable harvests yet slumbering in its soil. When all these seeds are blossoming in human hearts it will be experienced that its words are spirit and life.

HOME TRAINING

Strength By Use.

"Why is that heavy weight attached to the magnet?" said a young man to an electrician who was engaged in his laboratory.

"Because the magnet was losing its power by lying around here without being used, and I am restoring its force by giving it something to do—more and more every day."

Here is stated a principle that applies to individual lives. Idleness results in the loss of power.

The boy that does not use his muscle lacks physical strength; the boy that does not breathe deeply only filling the upper part of his lungs with oxygen will have weak lungs because the entire lungs have not been used.

The value of an education is found in the mental strength that follows the use of the brain. It is not the education that is so valuable to a school boy or a college chap as the strength of mind that results from the use of the factulties of the mind.

The same is true of the moral and religious life; only when conscience is used does it speak forcibly; those virtues of character-kindness, patience, goodwill, charity, purity, faith and love will be found in action only when they have been used so well that they bound forth as living water from a spring.

SUNDAY SCHOOL, CHURCH FORUM

(Send problems in questions form; answers will appear in later issue.)

How large should a junior department be in order to be alone for the opening services?

It does not depend so much on the size of the class as upon the church building. If there is no place for the junior department to meet alone and the department is small, then unite with the intermediate department for opening services.

Give suggesdions for the closing service of the junior department.

Plan a series of ten-minute missionary talks, a series of temperance lessons related to a clean city. The closing service should be quiet and the last hymn a hymn of prayer.

How would you get help in solving some of the real problems of a school?

Let the superintendent gather his teachers and officers about him, get a clear view of the difficulties which they are facing, and then choose individuals, each to make a specialty of a single difficulty or problem. These will get in touch with their own Sunday School Board in order to secure needful information, that they may become experts in their chosen field. They may reasonably be expected to become enthusiasts.

millions now living will never die . . . .

For centuries, Christians have prayed for "God's kingdom to come, and His will to be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

The World War in 1914 marked the ending of Satan's empire and the beginning of the new order. Christ has taken unto himself His power to reign.

If this be true, why the present crime wave, the social and political disorder and unrest? Why do we still see the works of Satan? Why don't the preachers tell the people about the kingdom?

God's Kingdom is the only hope for the world. It is the desire of all nations. "They shall be His people and He shall be with them, and be their God."—Rev. 21:1-5.

St. Louis Cardinals May Aid In 1925 Baseball Opening Here

By DAMON RUNYON.
Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, March 21.

VISIT Jim Coffroth's race track at Tia Juana any day ,and you will see an oldish, bulky, big man, or severe countenance and slightly lopped ears.

He will have a pair of field glasses swung around his neck, and will be watching the races with an air of great solemnity. He is Tom Sharkey, the one-time sailor-fighter, now fifty-two years old, sturdy, hearty—a rough, gruff, old salt.

He works for Coffroth, one of the many oldtimers the owner of the race track employs. One suspects that a certain sentiment has as much to do with their employment as their usefulness.

Tom Sharkey was the greatest fighter ever produced by the Navy. Before and since Tom Sharkey's time aboard the warships, hundreds of thousands of men have sailed the blue water in Uncle Sam's uniform, but never a one of Sharkey's pugilistic ability.

He was a heavyweight. He just missed the big title. Some think he should have had it. He lived in an era when the heavyweights seemed to be of better calibre than they have been since. Were Sharkey in his prime today, he probably would be the leading title contender of the land.

He is an Irishman, born in Dundalk. He stands five feet, eight and one-half inches, and his fighting weight was around 180 pounds.

He fought the greatest of his time, Joe Choynski, James J. Corbett, Peter Maher, Joe Goddard, James J. Jeffries, Kid McCoy, Bob Fitzsimmons, Gus Ruhlin among them.

The record shows one knockout against him, that by Bob Fitzsimmons in 1900. Jeffries, at his best, could stop him in 25 rounds.

After his retirement from the ring, Sharkey ran a noted saloon, on Fourteenth street, in New York. At one time he had plenty of money. Somehow it drifted away from him.

Sailors are popularly supposed to be free-handed with their money. It is an old saying, "he spent his money like a sailor." Sharkey wasn't that kind of a sailor.

He was accounted extremely conservative. All "tightwad" stories were for years hung on Sharkey in this country. In England the same stories were hung on Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian. Of course, not all of them were true.

Out here in California, where Sharkey was well known in his early career, as well as later on, the writer has come upon a new story, of a different nature, on the former sailor.

The narrator is a gentleman who knew Sharkey in the Navy, which, the gentleman says, was before the Dead Sea took sick. Sharkey was

Scott Says His Legs Are Nimble as Ever

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21. — Everett Scott, endurance shortstop of the major league, declares his legs feel as nimble as ever as he works out here.

He has the appearance of being in good shape as far as his pins go, but he has been favoring his arm considerably. It seems tender.

SCHOOL TOURNAMENT REACHES SEMI-FINALS

FOUR QUINTETS BATTLE TODAY ON HIGH COURT

Closing Clash, Deciding City Title, Will be Staged Tonight.

Washington, Garfield, Central A and Sixth street grade school fives will tangle this afternoon in the semi-finals of the grammar school tournament on the high school court, this quartet having survived the first two rounds.

Washington kayoed McKinley, 6 to 2, and Garfield put the skids to Pleasant Heights, 9 to 8, in yesterday's tourney contests.

Today's Pairings

Central A vs. Washington.
Garfield vs. Sixth street.

Yesterday's Results

Washington 6, McKinley 2.
Garfield 9, Pleasant Heights 8.

All points in the Washington-McKinley clash were made in the first half of the game. Both teams played great defensive games. McKinley had a great opportunity from the foul line, but bobbled it, missing 15 out of 19 chances to score. Chiturn, McCoy and Green were the Washington mainstays while Carter, Superina and Ashbaugh played well for the losers.

Garfield developed a fair brand of team work, jumping into the lead at the outset. The Heights lads came back and almost tied it up in the second period. Kap's field goal in the third quarter put Heights ahead, 7 to 6, but Blackburn brought it back to Garfield with a double decker. Heath, Ward and Cunningham were the Garfield luminaries while Kapp, Boyd and Waters performed valiantly for the losers.

Both contests went into extra periods. The girls' game was tied at 8-8, and the visitors won in the overtime play. The boys finished at 21-21 at the end of regular play. The lineups:

Edwards Shows Form.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 21.—Elated by the 6 to 3 walloping given the Cincinnati Reds yesterday and the splendid form shown by Pitcher Jim Edwards, out of the game most of last season, Manager Tris Speaker gave the Cleveland Indians only a slight workout today. They will meet the Columbus American Association team Monday.

BATTER VS. FIELDER
Which Will Win in Indian Infield Contest?

By Norman E. Brown

LAKELAND, Fla., Mar. 21—There's a merry little battle on down here as the Cleveland Indians go through their daily workout and practice game to fit themselves for the coming campaign.

The opponents in this battle are: Young Chic Fewster, late of New York, in this corna-a-a, as the fight announcers down here draw it out. And Mr. Joe Klugman, late of Brooklyn, in this corna-a-a.

And the prize they seek is the honor of playing second base.

"Right now I couldn't name the man who will get the job," admits Manager Speaker.

Injury Halts Fewster

Fewster's weakness lies—or did lie—at the bat. You'll probably recall that he was hit in the head by a batted ball while with the Yankees a few seasons ago. The blow almost costh im his life. It left its effect apparently permanently. Fewster not only changed from a calm, consistent ball player to an erratic, temperamental one, but his batting dropped to nothing, due to bat shyness. His fielding was brilliant at times, then mediocre. Decisions against him threw him into a rage.

When the Indians got him in a trade Speaker's choice was knocked. Spoke had faith in the lad, however, and set form. In New York Fewster was to work to bring him back to his old considered done. Speaker set out to convince Fewster he wasn't and seems to have succeeded. New York critics told Speaker Fewster couldn't play good ball for more than a week at a stretch. Speaker kept him in the lineup three months last year and Chick produced, afield at least.

But on the Other Hand—

But there is Mr. Klugman. Boy, how he can hit! He is a great, big husky gent, with a good pair of shoulders and a good eye. He loves to hit. A man must like to hit to be a good hitter. Klugman, Speaker figures, can keep up his part of the batting order day in and day out if given a chance.

After joining Minneapolis last year, he hit .376 in 55 games. He played 33 games at second and some in the outfield.

Fewster hit 2.67 last year in 101 games for the Indians. This mark was low, but it might be mentioned that Willie Kamm, great young third sacker of the White Sox, hit but .254.

Fewster is a mighty sweet fielder. Klugman is a beauty at bat. How'd you like to have Spoke's job of picking the right man?

Fohl Seeks Ace and King From New Deck

Hopes to Better "Hand" of Lowly Sox; Vache and Kallie May be Men he Wants.

By Fred C. Lane.

LEE FOHL

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Sixteen new cards have been inserted in to the deck which Lee Fohl, Red Sox manager, will shuffle so thoroughly for the next six weeks. Out of this number, he hopes to get at least one ace and a possible king to better the "hands" of the lowly Red Sox.

Fohl has stated that every position on the ball club is open, yet it can be safely said that by this time the line-up for the opening game and the identity of the players who will stick are fixed in his mind. One of them undoubtedly is Ernest Vache, with Dallas last season. He is a real hitter and it is nobody's secret that the Red Sox lacked hitting strength last year.

Vache Thumped the ball for an average of .354 in the Texas league, where the fences are not short of the air too rarefied. This has caused the general belief that Vache will occupy an outfield berth when the Sox open in Philadelphia. He is the possible ace referred to.

The king is Rudy Kallie, from the Coast. Although Rudy is by no means a youth, he seems ready for the Big Time. Both Kallie and Vache appears sure of their places.

The same thing applies to Dudley Lee, who played fine ball at shortstop last year until he injured a finger.

Another certainty, of course, is Howard Ehmke, the club's leading pitcher. He has been a holdout, which may delay his early season development. Ira Flagstead, outfielder, also expressed dissatisfaction with his contract and failed to report on time. He probably will play one of the outfield posts regularly.

Jim Prothro, obtained from Washington, is expected to prove a better third baseman than Danny Clark who has been shooed away to the tall timbers. Once in a hitting slump, Danny was terrible to gaze upon.

Prothro, inact, is regarded as Clark's superior in every department. He made a distinct impression of upon the Boston officials in 1924 when he clipped the offerings of the Sox best pitchers and showed a rare turn of speed, something of which the 1924 Sox knew nothing.

"You had to hit the flagpole in centerfield to score a run from second base," is President Bobby Quinn's way of expressing the 1924 situation.

Tenpin Stars Roll Tuesday

The first tenpin tournament in East Liverpool for 15 years.

In this manner the American Bowling and Billiard Parlors, Sixth street, herald their district tourney which opens on Tuesday, March 24.

Tonight at 12 o'clock is the deadline for entries, the tournament manager announced today.

All tenpin bowlers who are prospective entries are expected to answer the call before midnight.

The American alleys, it was announced, are in first class condition for the matches, which will include singles and doubles.

National Leaguers Tender Local Club Open Date On May 4

Officials of Branch Rickey's Entry Will Guarantee Appearance of Rogers Hornsby if Contest is Accepted; John Fowler Assumes Task of Rounding up Squad.

East Liverpool's home baseball season may be ushered in with a major league attraction.

This was in prospect today following announcement by John Fowler, manager of last year's independent nine here, that the St. Louis Cardinals have offered the Ceramic City's leading club their services for Monday, May 4.

And St. Louis club officials have guaranteed the appearance in uniform of Rogers Hornsby.

The Cardinals will entertain the Chicago Cubs at St. Louis on May 1, 2 and 3. The Cards then are scheduled to start east, playing in Pittsburgh on May 5, 6 and 7. May 4 is an open date. Following the series with the Pirates Branch Rickey's club will go into New York.

John Fowler will make every effort to bring the National leaguers to the city.

He will have to round up a baseball club, get them into uniforms, and drill them into some sort of an organization, in addition to selling enough tickets to meet the price of the game. All of which is no small job.

If these things can be accomplished, he will accept the proposal. He has started his plans and expects to know within the next few days whether he'll be successful.

Toledo Lands A.B.C. Games

BUFFALO, N. Y., Mar. 21—Although Louisville failed to land the 1926 tournament of the American Bowling Congress, bowlers from the Kentucky City today had to their credit leading honors in last night's bowling in the five-man, two man and individual events in the tournament, under way here.

George Bouse and Charles Davis, scoring a total of 1288 pins, took tenth place in the doubles and Edward Kissel eighth place in the individual event with 665 pins.

The Page Dairy team of Toledo, rolling 2909 in three games, went into third place in the five man event. A 245 game by Strauss featured the performance. The Plichita regulars of Milwaukee with 2876 went into fifth place.

Toledo was chosen for the 1926 convention after Perioa and Louisville delegates had put up a spirited fight for the honor.

Tiffin Revives Boxing.

TIFFIN, O., March 21.—In a lightning semi-final, Jimmy Perry of Alliance, outpointed K. O. Gym Williams of Toledo, in a boxing revival here last night. This was the feature bout on the card. The main go, between Lee Long of Chicago and Kid Posen of Toledo was booed by frate fans. Long was hissed for his passive tactics.

Rosenberg Is Bantam King

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Charley Phil Rosenberg and Eddie Cannonball Martin fought last night for what might be termed the butterfly title, and when it was all over, the thing had fluttered away again to the nearest flower, or rather from one milk weed to another. At the end of fifteen rounds, Rosenberg was proclaimed the new champion of the world at the bantamweight limit and the officials could do no less.

Such as he is, Rosenberg proved himself to be a far better fighter than Martin last night. He left handed the old champion crazy and after the fourth, carried every round with the possible exception of the tenth and fifteenth.

Last Night's Fights

At Grand Rapids — Jack Delaney knocked out Soldier King, Grand Rapids, in fourth.

At Detroit—Frankie Genaro awarded decision over Joe Lucas, Detroit. Billy Petersen easily outpointed Harry Henning, Toronto. Pete Firpo knocked out Dave Sutherland.

At Bay City—Clarence Rosen and Willie Spencer, draw.

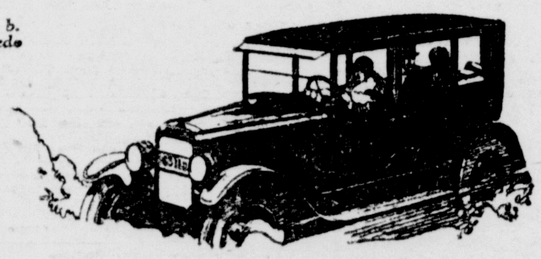

New York—Charley Phil Rosenberg, New York, won decision over Eddie Cannonball Martin, Brooklyn, 15 rounds for world's bantamweight title. Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., won decision over Harold Smith, Chicago, 12 rounds.

Elizabeth, N. J. — Georgia Ward, Elizabeth, won unofficial decision over Sailor Friedman, Chicago, 12 rounds.

Runyon Says:

Then a ship's corporal on the old U. S. S. Philadelphia.

Two young Ensigns of that early period were roommates at Annapolis: One of them got married, the ceremony taking place aboard ship. The other Ensign desired to give his pal a proper send-off. He mustered Sharkey aft before the wedding and said:

"Sharkey, Ensign So-and-So is to be married to-day. The ceremony takes place on the quarter-deck, whereupon the bride and groom come down the starboard gangway onto the deck. You get two hands from each division to pelt the bride and groom with rice. Here is the rice."

He handed Sharkey some twenty odd small paper bags filled with rice.

The chaplain performed the marriage ceremony while Tom was mustering his men on deck and distributing the bags of rice.

The band played, "Here Comes the Bride," the newly wedded pair tripped down the gangway.

Sharkey led the attack. He wound up like Walter Johnson and let drive with a bag of rice. The blushing bride, the narrator states, "took it square on the nose, and slid all the way down the gangway onto the deck. Sharkey had scored his first K. O.!"

It appears that when the Ensign commanded Sharkey to throw rice, he forgot to add, "take it out of the bags," Sharkey and his crew had hurled it, bags and all.

No, the writer does not vouch for this story. You may take it or leave it. But the narrator says that both the Ensigns of the story are retired Admirals now.

Sharkey could not take a terrific amount of punishment and live under it.

MRS. ELIZABETH ROMSEY

Toledo,—"I want to state that there isn't a medicine that can equal Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a woman's tonic and nervine. I was suffering with womanly ills which caused me to have a severe nervous breakdown. I was so nervous I could not sleep and had no appetite. I had severe backaches and bearing pains. I got so weak I could not do my work—in fact I could not walk across the floor. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it completely restored my nerves and health. I grew strong and have never had another attack of this kind. It is perfectly wonderful what 'Favorite Prescription' will do for weak and nervous women."—Mrs. Elizabeth Romsey, 1817 Lagrange St.

Get this Prescription at once from your druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.
